U. S. PUTS NEW LIFE IN DYING DISARM PARLEY

Hoover's Phone Call Adds Impetus.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, June 19.—This was disarmament day at the Geneva-Lausanne "now or never" conferences. The festivities took place at Geneva today because of tradition and because the Americans are here—very much so.

The feature of the day was the turning loose of an American senator on the British and French.

Ramsay MacDonald, British prime minister, and Sir John Simon, secretary for foreign affairs, came over from Lausanne and Joseph Paul-Boncour, French minister of war, hurried here from Paris. They came to see Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson, Norman Davis and Hugh R. Wilson, minister to Switzerland. They saw Senator Claude Swanson, Davis and Wilson.

Gets Call from Hoover.

The astute Mr. Gibson already had seen them—many times. Today just at the hour for the conversation he received a sudden telephone call from President Hoover. Senator Swanson appeared instead and there was frank talk about the means of saving the disarmament conference from self-strangulation.

The upshot of it all was the drafting of a program for the private conversations prescribed by MacDonald when the conference was deep in a coma last week and the decision to enlarge their scope at once so as to hammer out something, whether it be a success of a limited sort or failure. This week will see the disarmament section of the new superconference at least a going concern or a bust.

After so many months it is now thought the conference has a slight chance of success in the British ideas of qualitative disarmament by nonreplacement for a period of years of weapons prescribed by the Versailles treaty, the French plan for a straight budgetary cut of military expenses, and—the development of conversations which Chairman Arthur H. Henderson suggested—the American plan for limitation of military effectives, which for the first time really comes of age.

Calls for Cut in Armies.

Senator Swanson worked hard helping to draft this plan which calls for a genuine cut of European armies. There was every reason to think that the British and French had agreed to try to wind up the Geneva conference without giving it serious consideration.

The senator went in calm and not a little grim. He emerged looking fairly pleased with himself.

"I found them in a markedly realistic mood," he said. "We got down to brass tacks. Our plan to limit military effectives is on the agenda of the conversations."

There was a tendency in the British and French, and even the American delegations tonight to say that military effectives were not discussed and were just put into the agenda. Then on another day the senator will extol the alleged reasonableness of the plan, which briefly calls for reductions in what are politely termed national defense forces.

Means Proportional Cuts.

This would mean proportional reduction, leaving the former allies in the same relationship except Germany and the other defeated states, which would remain stationary at the Versailles level. The argument here is that the allies agreed in article VIII. of the Versailles treaty that they were shearing Germany only as a prelude to shearing all around. The senator may also have his chance, depending on how quickly the plan is taken to heart to say that without it the United States is ready to consider the conference a failure.

There was evidence that the Germans are getting restive. They will be asked to the private conversations at an early date. A promise in a short term treaty and later conferences to reduce successively the armies of others to the level of Germany will be offered.

Debt Parley a Mystery.

At Lausanne it is not clear how far the discussions on debts will advance, if at all.

As an impetus to the disarmers Senator Swanson will, on request, explain that whatever hopes Europe holds of America cancelling debts surely will be blasted if Europe does not substantially cut its armaments here and now. The senator particularly answers the inquiries now made about the American budget in this way:

"What are you interested in our budget for? We don't owe you anything."

HOW PARTIES SOMETIMES COME TO AN END

BURNING YACHT SEEN BY CROWDS ON MICHIGAN AVE.

Crowds gathered at the Michigan avenue bridge shortly before 11 o'clock last night to watch firemen battle a stubborn blaze in the fifty-three foot motor yacht Ojibwa, tied up just east of the bridge on the north side of the river.

One fireman, Frank Caldwell of Engine Company No. 11, was severely burned when gasoline ignited while he was in the cabin with a line of hose. He was taken to the Passavant hospital.

The fire started when George Peak, skipper of the boat, turned on the lights in the craft. Apparently a spark from the lighting system ignited leaking gasoline near the 150 gallon storage tank and caused an explosion. Peak was hurled to the floor, but was not seriously hurt.

Lawrence Strong, 1049 Hermitage avenue, a motion picture operator at the State Lake theater, is owner of the Ojibwa. The boat is chartered to carry passengers, but according to Peak has been in private service. The damage was estimated at more than $1,000.

POLICEMEN FIRE AT BOOTLEGGER; KILL PASSERBY

Philadelphia, Pa., June 19.—[Special.]—Two policemen, one of whom had had only two days' experience, fired today at an alleged bootlegger fleeing in an automobile and fatally wounded Thomas Bodner, 48 years old, an innocent passerby. Bodner died tonight, twelve hours after the shooting.

Morris Rosenheim, who had been on the force fifteen months, and Fred J. Dolen, who went on duty Friday for the first time, saw a man lift a five gallon can from an automobile. Rosenheim recognized him as a suspected bootlegger who had fired on him ten days ago when ordered to stop his machine. The man leaped into the car and fled as the policemen fired. Bodner, strolling some distance away, fell with a bullet in the upper abdomen.

The policemen were suspended from duty and placed in their captain's custody.

Bride's Trousseau Stolen as She Dines in Evanston

Mrs. V. A. Lundgren, a bride of two weeks, reported to the Evanston police last night that a large part of her trousseau was in a suitcase which was stolen from an automobile in front of the North Shore hotel while she and her husband were dining. The Lundgrens were married in Omaha, Neb., and are on their way to Menominee, Mich., where they will reside. They stopped in Evanston to visit friends.

A Fireman's Life Is Full of Problems

For three hours last night firemen of truck company 44, adjoining the Sheffield avenue police station, tiptoed about their quarters and silently hoped that no alarms would be turned in.

The reason for the silence and the hopes was a lost girl, 22 months old. She was found toddling alone at Wrightwood and Lincoln avenues, and was taken to the Sheffield avenue station by a passerby. There the infant set up a wail for her mamma. Lieut. Axel Jensen and Desk Sergeant Rudolph Josephson tried to bribe her with ice cream and trinkets, but it was no use.

"Let's take her next door," suggested Sergt. Josephson. "Fireman Lester Hill has a youngster this old. Maybe he knows how to quiet her."

Hill Comes to the Rescue.

Lieut. Jensen carried the crying child to the fire station. For a half hour the firemen there tried to calm her. Some slid down the fire pole, others clanged alarm bells. Then Hill, who lives at 5017 South Honoré street, picked up the child.

His touch was like magic. A few whimpering cries and the infant quieted. Hill settled back in a chair with her in his arms and in a few minutes she fell asleep. An hour later Hill had not changed his position and the baby still slept. At 10 o'clock and 11 o'clock he had not moved and the youngster had not awakened.

Meanwhile the firemen pussyfooted in stocking feet and hoped there would be no alarms. They discussed what Hill should do in case of a call. Should he abandon the sleeping child and join his comrades or defy the alarm and insure the slumber of the child?

It All Ends Well.

This problem required no answer, for shortly after 11 o'clock, three hours after Hill had picked up the baby, two anxious parents entered the firehouse. They were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hester, of 2634 Lincoln avenue. They looked at the sleeping child and identified her as their own, Dorothy Jean. She had been in the care of Buddy, her 7 year old brother, when she was lost.

The Hesters relieved Hill of his sleeping burden and carried her away still in slumber.

Fire Destroys Equipment in All Saints Cemetery

Fire leveled the one story shed in All Saints cemetery early this morning, destroying two horses, two motor trucks, and considerable digging, tractor, and hose equipment. The loss was estimated in the thousands. The cemetery is at Central and River roads, two miles north of Des Plaines. Des Plaines firemen were called, but could not save the building on account of low pressure in the water pumps.

2 COUPLES SAVED AS THEIR AUTO DIVES IN RIVER

Two young couples were saved from drowning last night after their automobile plunged from a forest preserve road into the Des Plaines river near dam No. 2, two miles north of Des Plaines.

Those saved were Charles Schrieber, 6753 North Campbell avenue, a broker's clerk, and Henry Schiebener Jr., 1903 Addison street, also a clerk, each 19 years old; Miss Joan Anderson, 18, of 424 Elaine place, and Miss Irma Driscoll, also 18, of 3543 North Halsted street. Sergts. August Loula and Robert Nichols of the forest preserve police helped in the rescue. Loula is a former chief of the preserve force.

The two couples were driving when the bright lights of an approaching car forced them to one side. Their auto plunged down a nine foot embankment and into eight feet of water. Sergts. Loula and Nichols saw the accident. They ran to the river and helped Schrieber, who had emerged first, save the others.

Swimmer Disappears; Drag Lake for Body

Life and coast guards dragged the lake off Roosevelt road yesterday for the body of Harold Leamer, 16 years old, of 3038 Wentworth avenue, who is believed to have drowned Saturday. Harold went in swimming while his companion, Joseph Yegman, 15, of 3042 Lowe avenue, guarded his clothes on the shore. Joseph told the police yesterday that Harold vanished, but he did not see him sink in the lake.

CHICAGO TO ASK A FEDERAL LOAN OF $81,500,000

Leaders Depart for Washington Today.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The plea of Chicago's public officials and banking and industrial leaders to the Reconstruction Finance corporation in Washington tomorrow will be only for a sufficient loan to meet "the desperate" and "the most urgent" needs of the local governments. These were roughly estimated yesterday at $81,500,000.

In the "desperate" class was placed $35,000,000 to feed the hungry. In the classification of "most urgent" was put $36,500,000 for unpaid public employés and $10,000,000 for defaulted bonds of local governments.

The $81,500,000 is the probable maximum, and that estimate may be trimmed some when the figures of all of the local governments are gathered this afternoon.

Keep Request in Reason.

The leaders of the delegation — Mayor Cermak, the bankers and the citizens' committee—indicated yesterday they will not ask for 130 million dollars, the estimate of the city's "pressing immediate needs," nor for 120 million dollars additional on which to operate the local governments until the end of the year.

As one leader phrased it: "I shall stay within the bounds of reason as viewed by distressed men in a severe economic depression. I'm not going to approve of a silly plea. As Mr. Traylor [president of the First National bank] has told the public, Chicago cannot borrow its way out. The only method is to pay out."

Prepare for Two Hearings.

Preparations were rushed along yesterday for a hearing of the Chicago delegation before the bank and banking committee of the national house of representatives at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, and before the board of the Reconstruction Finance corporation at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The hearing before the house committee will be on the proposal to increase the Wagner 300 million dollar relief bill by 50 million to permit loans to municipalities.

Thirty-six representatives of various local governments and organizations indicated their intention of boarding the Capitol Limited for Washington at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon, standard time. Mayor Cermak left for New York yesterday afternoon on private business, and will arrive in Washington at 7:45 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Conference Line on Train.

"The citizens' committee, bankers, heads of the local governments and the representatives of employés will analyze the figures of the governmental agencies on the train and will reach a decision on how much of a loan will be asked," said the mayor before his departure. "I shall advocate the program they agree upon.

"My present attitude is to stress the needs of Chicago. By the end of July we will have run out of money with which to care for the 130,000 to 135,000 families at the relief stations and added thousands of homeless men. What are we going to do then?

"Chicago is in a critical situation. If we are forced to close up the relief stations then what will happen? I do not care to predict. But it may cost the nation, the state, and the city many times the sum we will ask the Reconstruction Finance corporation to lend us.

"Situation Getting Desperate."

"We are not going to Washington just for the ride; we are getting close to desperate. If we cannot get in the taxes and we get to the point where we have to suspend the police, fire, and health services, then what good will property be?"

The mayor read telegrams he had received from Congressman A. J. Sabath and Senator James Hamilton Lewis, both promising to do everything possible and indicating that congress is favorably disposed toward relief of the destitute among the unemployed.

Other leaders interviewed also talked chiefly of relief, pleading that they should not be asked to sponsor views on governmental needs until they have seen the figures showing the financial status of the local governments.

Liabilities of 322 Millions.

The last statement indicating the financial troubles of the major local government was compiled by George W. Rossetter & Co., public accountants, for the D. F. Kelly committee, after two months of work. This showed liabilities other than funded debts of $322,111,000 for the city, schools, county, forest preserves, sani-

Harry D. Hill, Once Tried as Slayer, Victim

Ottawa, Ill., June 19.—[Special.]—Harry D. Hill, 27 years old, of Streator, who was the central figure in one of the most sensational murder trials of the last decade, and two companions were killed in an airplane crash here late this afternoon.

Hill, piloting his own Travelair plane, rose from the airport east of Ottawa at about 5 p. m. He was striving to gain altitude when the plane, less than half a mile west of the airport, suddenly went into a nose dive and plunged down into a cornfield.

Hill Killed Instantly.

The motor was buried several feet in the ground. Hill was instantly killed. One of his companions, Bert Lorenz, 21 years old, of Streator, died as he was being taken to the Ottawa hospital. The third member of the party, John Marshall, 21 years old, a sophomore the last year at the University of California, died ten minutes after reaching the hospital.

Young Hill held a private pilot's license. His machine, which was powered with a Wright motor, was said by the airport attendants to have been apparently in good condition. The cause of the plunge, which started when the plane was barely 200 feet up, was undetermined.

Jury Failed to Agree.

The murder for which Hill was tried—the trial resulting in a disagreement of the jury—was that of his mother, Mrs. Eliza A. Hill of Streator.

Her body was found buried in the basement of her stately home in August, 1927. With her had lived young Harry, a former Knox college student and a ne'er do well who was known to have contracted pressing gambling debts.

The discovery of the body was made by her estranged husband, Dr. Harry C. Hill, an eye and ear specialist. It was disclosed that Mrs. Hill had written the youth's father a note telling him that something would have to be done about their son's habit of writing large checks against her account.

Arrested in Seattle.

Young Hill was absent when the body was found. He was traced to Chicago, but fled before he could be apprehended. He was finally arrested on Sept. 3, 1927, in Seattle, Wash., and was returned to Streator.

His trial in Ottawa began late in December of that year and extended into February. A majority of the jury trying him for murder favored his conviction, but a minority remained firm and a mistrial was declared. Although the murder charge remained as a matter of form on the books, the county authorities have never forced a second trial.

Takes Aviation Course.

Following the trial, young Hill worked for three years in a garage in Streator. Nearly a year ago he became enthusiastic about aviation, took a course at the Curtiss-Wright field, Chicago, and obtained his private pilot's license. Since then he had spent only a part of his time in Streator.

His mother's will had left him in possession of a fortune estimated at $50,000 and this was turned over to him when he was 26. Many of his old friends in Streator had never believed in his guilt and, it is said, he was accepted socially by them after the trial. He had steadfastly maintained his innocence of the charge of matricide, explaining that he fled only after reading in the newspapers that he was to be tried for the crime.

His father, who supported him through his troubles four years ago, has remarried and now lives in the house where the body of Mrs. Eliza Hill was found.

Flight Planned in Advance.

With Lorenz and Marshall, Hill had driven to the airport a short time before the accident occurred. It was said that they made an engagement for the ride last night.

Lorenz was the son of Oscar Lorenz, painter and decorator of Streator. Young Marshall was the son of Mrs. H. H. Clark, formerly of Streator.

BURGLAR LEAPS 4 FLOORS; FLEES, ELUDES POLICE

A leaping burglar eluded police early this morning with a circus jump from the fourth floor of the apartment building at 626 York place. Policemen Edward Johnson and Walter Noonan of the Sheffield avenue station sped to that address in response to a radio alarm that a prowler was on the fourth floor rear porch.

Guns in hand, the policeman ascended the stairs. They reached the third floor and saw the burglar on the landing above. He ignored their commands to surrender with a flying jump over the railing. He landed in the yard below and disappeared with Noonan and Johnson firing at him.

DON'T STRADDLE ON PROHIBITION, DEMOCRAT PLEA

Party Urged to Meet Issue Squarely.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

"No pussyfooting" on a prohibition plank by the Democratic national convention was the slogan sounded yesterday by the managers of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York and Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland.

James A. Farley, New York Democratic state chairman and Roosevelt field marshal, arrived in Chicago and reiterated his forecast that the New York governor would be nominated on the first ballot. He announced that Arthur F. Mullen of Omaha, Nebraska's national committeeman, would be the floor leader of the Roosevelt forces in the convention, which meets one week from today.

Ritchie headquarters said Howard Bruce, national committeeman of Baltimore, would be floor manager for the Maryland governor.

Urges Party to Meet Issue.

On the wet and dry issue, which, with the battle over the presidential nomination, promises to make the convention a rip-snorting struggle, Mr. Farley remarked:

"We Democrats must meet the issue fairly without any pussyfooting. The country is waiting for the Democratic party to make the proper step. Republicans and Democrats alike will be disappointed if the convention does not meet the issue squarely, without equivocation or straddling."

"Do you think the Republican plank pussyfooted?" he was asked.

"I do, and I think that is the verdict of the country," replied Farley.

Ritchie Leader Against Straddle.

At the headquarters of Gov. Ritchie, who is regarded in some quarters as the strongest contender against Roosevelt, Robert B. Ennis of Baltimore, the Ritchie manager, remarked that America is looking to the Democrats for a prohibition plank that will not dodge nor sidestep.

"We'll have a better idea, I imagine of what sort of a plank will come out by the end of the week, after the advance meetings of the resolutions committee are held," said Mr. Ennis.

"Gov. Ritchie has been one of the pioneers in the movement for repeal of national prohibition. The Maryland delegation will favor a plank declaring for repeal of the 18th amendment, and meanwhile modification of the Volstead act, the states to determine themselves whether they are to be wet or dry, and control of this question to be returned to the states. That has been Gov. Ritchie's plank for twelve years."

For Submission of Repeal.

Among the advance guard trooping into Chicago, the prevailing belief seemed to be that the liquor plank which the Democrats will adopt will at least declare for submission of repeal of the 18th amendment in the manner ordained by the constitution.

This was the basic idea in the plank adopted by the Republicans in bone dry Indiana. With slight changes it became the minority repeal plank that the Republican convention, after the great battle Wednesday night, turned down in favor of the straddle plank which the states of the Democratic south, dry [politically] and under control of postmasterships and federal patronage, nailed into the Republican national platform.

Nominating Speakers Chosen.

The Roosevelt and Ritchie camps made known the men picked to make the nominating speeches. Ritchie is to be nominated by Senator Millard Tydings of Maryland, wet senate leader, with Richard F. Cleveland of Baltimore, son of Grover Cleveland, doing a seconding speech.

John E. Mack of Poughkeepsie, who is regarded as Roosevelt's political godfather, is to nominate the New York governor. He was chosen by Roosevelt at Albany last night.

There is a dash of political sentiment here. Twenty-two years ago Mack, a leader in Dutchess county, New York, nominated Roosevelt for the state senate; the latter's first venture into politics. Roosevelt won, in a Republican district, and in Albany opposed Tammany Hall in the election of a United States senator. Through this he made his début in national politics as an adherent of Woodrow Wilson.

Fitting Choice, Says Roosevelt.

"It seems very fitting to me," said Gov. Roosevelt in Albany last night, "that the same man who in 1919 nominated me for the first office for which I was ever a candidate should once more act as my sponsor."

Recently Gov. Roosevelt appointed Mr. Mack, with Martin Conboy, to help him in the disposition of the charges filed against Mayor James J. Walker of New York by Counsel Samuel Seabury of the Hofstadter investigating committee. Mack is not a delegate to the convention. It is proposed to give him a proxy, and this will require the assent of Tammany.

It is supposed this was one matter agreed upon at the conference of John F. Curry, Tammany leader, and John McCooey, Brooklyn boss, with Roosevelt at Saratoga last week. Mr. Mack was once appointed by Roosevelt to a vacancy on the New York Supreme court. In San Francisco in 1920 Mack was a leader in the movement that made Roosevelt the running mate of James M. Cox. As a lawyer Mack represented Mrs. James A. Stillman in her celebrated suit with her husband.

Alfred E. Smith's name is to be presented to the convention by Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts.

Farley Opens Headquarters.

Mr. Farley during the afternoon opened Gov. Roosevelt headquarters in the presidential suite at the Congress hotel, which twenty years ago was the headquarters of another Roosevelt. From this suite in 1912 emerged the Bull Moose party to cries of "We want Teddy!" and the flourishing of red bandanas.

On the wall now hangs a large map, the states claimed for Gov. Roosevelt in scarlet. Mr. Farley gave out a tabulation of the states, in which he claimed Roosevelt has 691 votes in the sack, assuming Indiana is friendly today in its convention. A bandwagon is then expected by Mr. Farley to trundle in a nomination on the first ballot. Two-thirds of the 1,154 delegates, or 770, are necessary to nominate.

The Roosevelt Claims.

The Farley figures on the vote the Roosevelt camp claims in sight on the first roll call are as follows:

Already instructed or pledged	586
Not instructed but favorable	95
Expected to pledge [Indiana]	30
	691

AL SMITH—New Jersey, 32; Massachusetts, 36; Connecticut, 16; Canal Zone, 6; Rhode Island, 10 100
JOHN GARNER—California, 44; Texas, 46 90
SENATOR J. HAMILTON LEWIS—Illinois 58
GOV. GEORGE WHITE—Ohio 52
JAMES REED—Missouri 36
HARRY F. BYRD—Virginia 24
GOV. MURRAY—Oklahoma 22
GOV. RITCHIE—Maryland 16

Sixteen of the Pennsylvania delegates are in doubt and 49 of the New York delegations. They are not contested delegations, but how they will vote is still uncertain.

Al Smith Here Wednesday.

Al Smith is expected to arrive Wednesday and John J. Raskob, national chairman, tomorrow. Incoming easterners report that although Smith's name is to be presented to the convention the conviction has been strengthened in New York that Smith does not seek the nomination for himself. If the Smith-Raskob anti-Roosevelt movement should stop the New York governor the Roosevelt following would be able to block off Smith himself.

Weeks ago it was conjectured by the politicians that if the convention went into a deadlock the Smith strength would be swung to Owen D. Young or Newton D. Baker, secretary of war in the Wilson cabinet. Young's statement that he would not accept if nominated has left Baker as the man most in the talk around the congress as the likeliest Smith candidate.

As the convention approaches, Tammany's attitude towards the "stop Roosevelt" movement still remains an enigma. Leaders Curry and McCooey are to arrive Wednesday. Both have avoided commitments, although they have had conferences with both Roosevelt and Smith. Their attitude will be determined in conferences on the scene of action.

Bronx Leader for Roosevelt.

Edward J. Flynn, the Bronx leader, came in yesterday with Mr. Farley. He is for Roosevelt. John Theofel of Queens is said to have committed himself tentatively to the support of Roosevelt.

The talk was that if Gov. Roosevelt is nominated he may make a fast trip to Chicago to address the delegates with a speech designed to be the opening of the campaign.

The selection of Mullen, who is an old timer in Nebraska Democratic politics, as Roosevelt floor leader was said by Farley to be in recognition of the middle west. Here the Democrats this time plan a terrific campaign for the agricultural vote. Similarly the Hoover leaders, with a view of starting the appeal to the west, selected Senator L. J. Dickinson (Hell Raising Dick) of Iowa as keynoter of last week's convention.

First Test on Shouse.

The first test of strength will be over the selection of a permanent chairman. Jouett Shouse, national executive chairman, was "commended" for this post by the party's arrangements committee. Now the Roosevelt people are advancing Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, who presided over the Madison Square Garden convention in New York in 1924. Mr. Farley said the Roosevelt forces "would go down the line" for Walsh.

The Roosevelt manager declined, however, to discuss the question of whether, in the event of a deadlock, an effort will be made to abrogate the two-thirds rule which has been in vogue in Democratic national conventions for exactly 100 years.

Mr. Shouse said: "I intend to make my fight for the post on the convention floor, not in the newspapers."

Meanwhile, managers of other candidates began to prepare for opening quarters for their men. As usual the Congress hotel is to be the great handshaking, back slapping center. By Wednesday rooms are expected to be opened for Garner, Byrd, Reed, Smith, Murray, Lewis, and for some of the dark horses.

Traylor Quarters Open Today.

Headquarters for Melvin A. Traylor, head of the First National bank, are to be thrown open in the Congress today. Frank Scofield, Texas cattleman, who since January has been in active charge of the Traylor movement, said yesterday:

"The Democrats cannot afford to make a mistake. We must elect a leader in whom all the country has confidence, a man free from entanglements who can look out for the welfare of the country. I believe Traylor can win more votes from Republican strongholds than any other man the Democrats can possibly name. We must win back a lot of votes that went into the other column in 1928 and we must win over the new voters and those who do not vote the straight party ticket.

"Traylor knows farming and he knows business and he knows banking. He doesn't know many of the delegates, we must admit, but the delegates are going to know Traylor, and when they do, he will have the nomination."

MEXICANS CAMP IN OPEN COUNTRY; NEW QUAKES FELT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, June 19.—Villages and towns on both sides of the western Sierra Madre mountains from Mazatlan, in the state of Sinaloa, to Guerrero, a distance of 600 miles on the Pacific coast, suffered from yesterday's earthquakes. Three known deaths were reported at the city of Colima, but there are unconfirmed reports of more than 50 dead in various towns, as well as injuries to a large number.

The quake shook the states of Sinaloa, Nayarit, Jalisco, Colima, Michvacan, and Guerrero, and the tremors were felt inland as far as the foothills of the eastern Sierra Madres.

Communications are still broken with the stricken towns. In Colima the homes of the middle and lower classes are in ruins. Troops and police are in charge. Tremors continued with more or less intensity last night and this morning. In Jalisco people are camping in the open country.

LIFE OF PEER IS SAVED AS BOMB FAILS TO GO OFF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 19.—Mystery surrounds an attempt to assassinate Lord Lloyd while he was distributing prizes at St. Bees school in Cumberland yesterday. The peer, who has pronounced views on India, is a former high commissioner of Egypt and former governor of Bombay.

During the ceremony the bishop of Carlisle and others on the platform with Lord Lloyd heard a whirring noise and a report like that of a heavy book falling, but no notice was taken of the incident. Later two boys found a box under the platform. It contained a bomb. Its 12 hour dial was set for 3:30 p. m., the time the noises were heard on the platform.

Cumberland police have called in the home office explosive expert and detectives to make a full investigation.

SHOOTS HIS WIFE AND KILLS SELF IN FAMILY ROW

A domestic quarrel ended in an attempted murder and a suicide late last night when Thomas Slowek, 53 years old, a traveling salesman, shot his wife, Julia, 47, and then killed himself in their home at 1534 Girard street. Mrs. Slowek was struck in the jaw, the bullet emerging from the left side of the neck. She was taken to the West North avenue hospital in a serious condition.

Police said that the domestic dispute was over Mrs. Slowek's accusations of infidelity against her husband. Two of their five children—Joseph, 9, and Lilly, 11—were asleep at the time of the shooting. The others, adults, were away.

DIES OF GUNSHOT WOUND.

Adolph Larchest, 57 years old, 545 West 62d street, died Saturday night in St. Bernard's hospital of a bullet wound said by police to have been self-inflicted.

WET PLANK GIVES NEW IMPORTANCE TO LEGISLATURES

State Solons Have Last Word on Resubmission.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Unusual importance has been given to the elections of the legislatures of the various states this year because of the prohibition submission plank adopted by the Republican national convention and the repealer plank the Democratic leaders predict will be approved at their convention next week.

"We have recognized the necessity for electing a congress that will favor the elimination of prohibition," said Mayor Cermak before departing for New York yesterday, "but the Republican scheme of operation for reconsideration of the prohibition question has served at least one good purpose—that of calling attention to the necessity of electing legislatures that will act promptly in this matter.

Special Conventions.

"The Republicans have pledged themselves to a program of calling special state conventions to consider some amendment to the 18th amendment to be proposed by congress. The Democratic convention may favor the adoption by congress of a direct repeal of the 18th amendment with ratification required by three-fourths of the states through such conventions or through their legislatures.

"Whatever the method of action by the states, the dryness or the wetness of the legislatures is important. If ratification is to be by the legislatures they will have the last word. But even if the plan adopted is that of submission of the question to the conventions, we understand that it will be the legislatures that will determine when those conventions will be called and how they shall be constituted.

Drys Will Fight Plan.

"In other words, drys in the legislature will seek first of all to block the calling of the special conventions. If they fail in that they will endeavor to stall them off as long as possible. And what the nation wants is immediate action on this great problem. In other words, every legislature, as soon as it meets, should pass a resolution calling the convention in its state at the earliest possible date so that the decision may be made without loss of time."

Turning to the subject of his home state, the mayor pointed out that eleven members of the Illinois senate who last year voted against the repeal of the state search and seizure act are up for reelection in November. He said that while in many districts there are no election day contests for the house of representatives, a large number of those who voted dry on the 1931 bill are up for reelection in districts where there are four nominees for three seats.

Only 25 Districts Elect.

"Eleven seats out of 51 in the senate may not seem important," said the mayor, "but only twenty-five districts, the even numbered ones elect this year, and the holdovers in the 26 other districts include a number of extreme drys. The successful battle in that house last year was won by a vote of only 26 to 24.

One senator who voted "no" and is asking to be returned to his seat in November is James J. Barbour of the Evanston district. The other ten who are downstaters and all Republicans are: Senators Baker, Bohrer, Dunlap, Hanna, Lantz, Lee, McCauley, Meents, Smith and Wilson. All are said to be opposed by wet Democrats.

4 Drys from Cook County.

In the house of representatives vote on the repealer there were only four Cook county members who voted dry and are now seeking reelection. They are Mrs. Anna Wilmarth Ickes, Miss Josephine Perry, David I. Swanson and William G. Thon. Mrs. Ickes, Swanson and Thon face contests. There are only three nominees in Miss Perrys district.

The downstate vote in the lower house showed 12 Democrats and 39 Republicans from districts outside Cook county voting against repeal. A majority of them are seeking election again.

In numerical order the first downstate district in which there is a contest for the three seats is the Tenth or Rockford district. Two of the three Republican renominees, David Hunter Jr. and Carl O. Nyman, voted dry last year. There are four candidates also in the Twenty-second or Danville district. Two of them, Hugh M. Luckey, Republican, and W. O. Edwards, Democrat, voted dry in 1931. In the Twenty-eighth district W. C. Chynoweth, who voted against repeal, has three opponents. In the Thirty-second two renominees, Roy R. Barnes, Republican, and Miss Mary Davidson, registered for the drys last year.

Contest in Thirty-eighth.

There is the contest in the Thirty-eighth district where Robert Whitely, a dry, seeks reelection. The same situation exists in the Thirty-ninth where Ole E. Benson, Republican dry, is up again. Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, a dry for many years, is seeking to come back in the Forty-first or Joliet district, and has three opponents, all of whom are said to be wets. Representative Waller, in the Forty-fourth, is a dry and has three opponents. Charles L. Wood, dry Republican in the Forty-sixth, is in a four man fight, and so are Representative John R. Thompson in the Forty-eighth, and W. V. Rush in the Fifty-first.

DEATH, RUINED CROPS IN WAKE OF WIND, HAIL

Kansas City, Mo., June 19.—(AP)—Death and ruined crops lay in the wake of severe wind, hail, and rain storms that swept over several near-by states today. Property damage was extensive.

Near Trenton, Neb., Frank Wyss, 35, drowned while attempting to swim for help for occupants of his marooned motor car. They survived by perching on its top until the flood subsided. Water three feet deep coursed through the streets of Trenton after a cloudburst.

Harold Pack, 40, was dashed to death when a high wind slammed a transom he was trying to close and knocked him off a ladder in his café at Arkansas City, Kas.

Milo F. Ball, 65, died of heat prostration at Guthrie, Okla., last night. Six inches of rain fell at Pratt, Kas.

High winds wrecked an airport at Wichita, Kas., and caused damage estimated by authorities at $100,000. At Anthony, Kas., hail and rain beat down crops and promised to delay harvest of the wheat spared in some sections. Streams neared flood stage.

MRS. BOOLE RAPS "STEAMROLLER" TACTICS OF G. O. P.

An accusation that dry leaders were "steam rollered" at the Republican national convention was made yesterday by Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the national W. C. T. U. Withholding her personal views on the "straddle" plank itself, Mrs. Boole wrote:

"The statement that the Republican plank was written with the acquiescence of dry leaders is news to me and I not believe it."

Mrs. Boole said that the resolutions committee, which draws the platform, "was almost hand picked by the administration. No woman were on it and many a dry delegate was deliberately silenced in the committee by the steam roller methods of the Republican bosses."

"On the floor of the convention," her statement said, "there were many delegates, some of them nationally prominent, who would have voiced a protest against either resubmission or repeal had they not been subjected to the steam roller. The resolutions committee, ignoring the plea of dry organizations, including the churches, presented only two proposals in their majority and minority reports."

Bank to Take Receipt for Money to Dodge Check Tax

Kokomo, Ind., June 19.—(AP)—The Union Bank and Trust company, Kokomo's only bank, has announced preparation of a receipt form which its depositors may sign when withdrawing funds. Bank officials said the form constitutes a receipt for the amount of money withdrawn, that it is not a check and consequently is not subject to the new federal tax on checks.

CAPONE BROTHER HELD IN BOMBING OF CICERO MAYOR

Blast Laid to Cerny's Drive on Gamblers.

Albert Capone, younger brother of the imprisoned gang czar, was held in the Cicero police station last night for questioning in connection with the bombing early yesterday of the home of Mayor Joseph G. Cerny, whose election in April was hailed as a death blow to the domination of the Capone syndicate in Cicero affairs.

JOS. G. CERNY.

That the black powder bomb tossed at the Cerny bungalow at 1832 South 50th court, Cicero, was the work of gamblers who found their "connections" destroyed and had to quit business in the suburb following Mayor Cerny's election, was one of the theories advanced by Police Chief John L. Sullivan.

Bomb Thrown from Auto.

The bomb was thrown from a large sedan which sped past the house shortly after midnight, it was gleaned from the stories of neighbors aroused by the blast. The missile fell short of its target and blew a small hole in the sidewalk. The only damage to the house was the breaking of windows on the inclosed porch.

Mayor Cerny and his wife were spending the week-end in South Haven, Mich. The only occupants of the house were Miss Rose Novak, Mrs. Cerny's sister, and her chum, Miss Mildred Hanus, 1337 South Home avenue, Berwyn. They were unhurt.

Chief Sullivan, as soon as he learned of the explosion, led a squad to the Hawthorne hotel, where Al Capone once maintained a steel armored hideaway apartment. He arrested the younger Capone and eleven other men in and about the hotel who were unable to give a satisfactory account of their whereabouts when the bomb was thrown. Capone, with Anthony Arressie, Arthur Rapp, and William Hovard were booked last night to appear today before Police Magistrate Henry J. Sandusky on charges of disorderly conduct. The others were released.

Gives Address of Mother.

Capone, who is 26 years old, gave as his address the Capone home at 7244 Prairie avenue, where his mother lives. He said he was a "soft drink" dealer.

It is possible, Chief Sullivan said, that the bomb may have been thrown by communists. Cicero police have refused to allow them to hold meetings in the suburb, and on June 16, the chief recalled, dispersed a group of them trying to distribute inflammatory literature to workers in the Hawthorne plant of the Western Electric company.

"The bomb was either the work of an amateur in the use of explosives," said Chief Sullivan, "or it was purposely made of little destructive power to serve as a threat of more serious attacks later. We have turned out a lot of the gamblers who flourished in Cicero under the former administration, and have the town closed up tight now so far as gambling is concerned. That has naturally aroused the resentment of the gamblers against Mayor Cerny."

Former Régime Defeated.

The election in April of Mayor Cerny, a Democrat, brought to an end the 14 year reign in Cicero of the Republican machine headed by former Mayor Joseph Z. Klenha. During that period the suburb had been a stronghold of the Capone gang, and the name of Cicero was a byword throughout the country as a result.

Two hundred and fifty Chicago police were sworn as deputy sheriffs and patroled the streets and guarded polling places in Cicero to guard against the violence which had characterized previous elections in the town. In 1924 Chicago police killed Frank, another of the Capone brothers, in a running gun battle during a Cicero election.

Albert is the youngest of the four surviving Capone brothers, and one of the two who are out of prison. Alphonse and Ralph are serving federal terms for income tax frauds in Atlanta and at McNeil island, Washington, respectively. Matthew, the fourth brother, is in the surety bond racket. Albert had no police record in Chicago previous to his arrest yesterday.

DEMAND $222,000 CUT IN BUDGET IN HIGHLAND PARK

Representatives of civic clubs in Highland Park are to appear before the city council tonight to demand that an ordinance appropriating $590,000 for the annual budget be scaled down $222,000 and the municipal tax rate be reduced in keeping with the lower figure.

Of the $590,000, the sum of $451,100 under the ordinance passed in May will come from general taxation. The petitioners want the $451,100 cut to $228,966. License fees and receipts of the water company make up the rest of the budget.

According to Xavier Vigeant, vice president of the City club of Highland Park, and chairman of the committee, it will be necessary to reduce operating expenses only in the fire department. The civic organizations recommend that instead of having fourteen paid firemen, the city have eight regular firemen and ten subject to call, a system in force there before 1927.

"The city council," said Mr. Vigeant, "simply appropriated money beyond the needs. What we propose will leave them as much as they spent in the past year. Therefore, we are confident that the ordinance will be repealed."

CHIEF JUSTICE OF PORTO RICO BEATS OFF ATTACKER

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, June 19.—(AP)—Chief Justice Emilio Del Toro of the Porto Rico Supreme court drove off a Nationalist who attacked him in his office Wednesday, in resentment against a Flag day speech by the jurist, it was learned today.

The attacker gave the name of Luis F. Velasquez. He struck at the chief justice, who defended himself vigorously, chasing the assailant from his office and the Supreme Court building.

The chief justice delivered his speech Tuesday night on a program arranged by the Sons of the American Revolution. He asserted that time would bring a full realization of the benefits of the American flag in the island. Admitted to the jurist's office the next day, Velasquez charged the justice with having insulted the island's flag and nationalism.

4 Arrested for Seining Fish from Club's Pond

Four men were arrested yesterday by Deputy State Game Warden Peter Thanasulas for seining a privately owned and stocked game fish pond of the Kingfishers' club, 127th street and Burr Oak avenue, outside of Blue Island. They are Robert Hubbard, 1229 West 74th street; Henry Cliberhorn, 626 West 69th street; Charles Edling, 7612 May street, and Le Roy Mitchell, also of 7612 May street. They were freed on bond and ordered to appear before Magistrate Carlson in Blue Island.

POLICEMAN DIES OF WOUNDS; FIND KILLER IS SHOT

Patrolman William Gagler, 33 years old, 5610 South Washtenaw avenue, of the Pekin Inn station, died yesterday in Mercy hospital of the wounds inflicted Saturday night by Sandy Spears, 42 years old, 3117 South State street, a Negro, when Gagler arrested him on a charge of larceny. A short time later Spears appeared at the county hospital with four bullet wounds in his abdomen, inflicted by the dying policeman as he fell.

Spears was taken to the Bridewell hospital. He will probably die, it was said there.

Gagler, with Sergt. Peter Gormley and Detective Frank Bergen, arrested Spears in front of his home. The Negro asked permission to get his coat from his room. Gagler accompanied him into the house. Spears suddenly produced a revolver and opened fire. Gagler managed to draw his gun as he fell and wounded the Negro, who fled.

ARRESTS DROP FOR DRUNKENNESS IN WET FINLAND

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, June 19.—The number of arrests for drunkenness continues to be lower than it was under prohibition, according to the police. Cases of alcoholic poisoning are also decreasing steadily.

Liquor sales reached new heights yesterday in anticipation of a ten days' closing of liquor shops for the midsummer holiday.

The state retains high import duties on alcohol, amounting in certain instances to thrice the cost of the liquor. Nevertheless, large consignments of cheap wines and brandies are arriving steadily and a cargo of one million bottles from France was landed yesterday.

Costly Automobile Found Burning on Country Road

A sedan, bearing an Indiana license, was found burning in Joliet road, two miles west of Willow Springs, in Du Page county, last night. The car was virtually destroyed. One witness said that a man drove up in another expensive car and claimed the burning machine as his. The license number on the car was 707,962 and was issued, Gary and Hammond police said, to Pete Young at 1080 Broadway, Gary.

GERMANS CHEER EX-KAISER'S SON AT TOWN'S FETE

Monarchist Demonstration Held Near Berlin.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 19. — Prince Oscar Hohenzollern, son of former Kaiser Wilhelm, reviewed shooting clubs of northern Germany today at Bernau, near Berlin, on that town's seven hundredth anniversary. Prince Oscar and Gen. von Dommers were acclaimed enthusiastically by the crowds. The mayor of Bernau greeted the prince as "his royal highness" and thanked him for the honor of his visit.

A small girl presented the son of the dethroned emperor with a bouquet of flowers and recited a poem. Gen. von Dommers delivered a speech which republican observers characterized as a "Hohenzollern restoration speech." Bernau's mayor announced that the town and all the shooting clubs of the district "had placed themselves at the disposal of the Franz von Papen government."

Read Kaiser's Message.

Another monarchist demonstration was staged in Hanover, where cavalry veterans held the second convention of the "Brotherhood of Arms." A telegram from the former kaiser, signed "Wilhelm, Imperator, Rex," exhorting them to "fight indefatigably for the resurrection of the old fatherland," was read.

Bavaria also reported a reawakening of royalist feelings today. The royal house of Wittelsbach was acclaimed. The Bavarian press said that on the recent birthday of former Crown Prince Rupprecht villages of the Bavarian Alpine regions inscribed themselves on lists to wish happiness to the scion of Wittelsbach. In previous years the villagers had practically ignored the prince's birthday.

470 Nazis Arrested.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUNICH, June 19.—Four hundred and seventy National Socialist "storm troopers" were arrested in Munich today when they tried to stage a demonstration in front of the palace of the Bavarian premier, Dr. Held, in protest against the Bavarian decree prohibiting the wearing of uniforms.

In Munich, where Adolf Hitler's revolutionary movement failed in 1923, the Nazi leader ordered his followers to "invade" the city in their uniforms. The storm troops poured into the city in autobuses, motorcycles, and afoot. Many were stopped on the highways. Some of the Nazis fired shots and attacked policemen. A dozen persons were injured.

Police ignored the paraders in the prohibited uniforms until riot cars and reserves were sent out and arrested the loudest demonstrators. Hitlerite uniforms and emblems were seized by the police. The "storm troops" were prepared for the emergency. Instead of being forced to go home in their underwear they wore civilian clothes beneath their uniforms.

Nazis Victors in Hesse.

The Nazis again scored a victory in the state diet elections of Hesse. Though failing to obtain an absolute majority by four seats, the Nazis succeeded in raising their strength from 27 seats last November to 32. The Social Democrats increased their seats from two to seventeen, the Centrists won ten and the communists eight, losing two.

One person was killed and 15 were seriously injured in Mayence when communists and Hitlerites clashed. Political riots were also reported in Cologne, Hagen-Haspe and Wuppertal.

Rep. Kvale Unhurt as Plane Is Damaged in Landing

Baltimore, Md., June 19.—(AP)—A government owned monoplane piloted by two army officers and bringing Representative Paul J. Kvale of Minnesota from New York to Washington was slightly damaged late this afternoon as it landed at Logan field for weather reports. No one was injured. The plane made a three point landing and as it taxied its brakes locked, causing the rudder to break and nosing the ship into the ground. Representative Kvale continued to Washington by train.

BROOKLYN GANG CHIEF SLAIN, BUT HE SAVES CHILD

Runs Into Hail of Lead to Protect Daughter.

New York, June 19.—[Special.]—Charles [Vannie] Higgins, last of the Celts to wield any real power in the Brooklyn underworld since dock rackets dwindled to a small change crap game cut, died in Methodist Episcopal hospital this afternoon, 15 hours after he ran into a crossfire of gangster bullets at 1:25 a. m. in front of the Knights of Columbus clubhouse in Brooklyn.

Higgins' last rôle was the protecting father. When the guns started the echoes in the dimly lit residential street, Higgins, who had been leading his 7 year old daughter, Jean, by the hand, thrust the girl down in the shelter of his 16 cylinder coupe and drew the fire away from her by running into the gutter. His mother, his wife, two brothers, and a brother-in-law saw him go down with bullets in his abdomen, chest, and left arm.

Revenge Seen as Motive.

"I'll get them," Higgins told the first policeman who reached him. "They tried to wipe out my whole family."

Higgins died without telling the police who had done the shooting, leaving them pretty much at sea. The fact that he was shot down within sight of his family was puzzling, since the ordinary gangster seeking to wipe out a competitor does not go in for family slaughter.

Higgins' known enemies included two brothers who broke with his gang three years ago after the shooting in the Owl's Head tavern in Bay Ridge; friends of Robert [Whitey] Benson, Bill Price and Skip Flanagan, former Higgins men who were slain last October, in different places; friends of Sam Orlando, who was killed in Borough park in 1928; a "Jersey mob", which suspected Higgins of a $15,000 hi-jacking job.

Apparently there was no thought of any of these in Higgins' mind, as, jauntily dressed in light gray, he joined his family in the Knights of Columbus auditorium just before midnight Saturday to witness the close of a dance recital given by children from the Reita dance studio, where his daughter, Jean, was studying tap dancing.

"Home, Sweet Home," broke up the party at 1:15 a. m. Higgins, his mother, Mrs. Mary Higgins; his wife, Grace, and little Jean; his brothers, Tom and John, and Lester Holmes, brother-in-law, came out of the side entrance of the clubhouse and started toward Higgins' parked car. Higgins, holding his daughter's hand, was a good twelve feet ahead of the others.

A dark sedan crawled slowly up on the group. When it was about twenty feet away fire spat from several of its windows. Higgins pushed Jean down on the running board of his car, which they had just reached when the firing started.

In the meantime a second car had moved slowly up the street. Like the first, it was filled with Higgins' enemies. Its passengers trained their revolvers on Higgins' stocky figure and opened fire. The men in the first car were still shooting. Higgins had no escape.

CLASSMATES SEE GIRL GRADUATE KILLED BY AUTO

Crushed by Car After It Hits Another.

An automobile collision brought death yesterday to a 14 year old girl graduate as members of her class looked on. The victim was Angeline Krogler, 1521 Cornell street, and the scene of the accident was Cornell and Noble streets, location of St. Boniface parochial school.

ANGELINE KROGLER.

During the forenoon Angeline and forty-four classmates had received their diplomas. In the afternoon the graduates gathered in the studio of a Milwaukee avenue photographer for a class group picture, and then started back for the church. Angeline, attired in a violet class dress, and holding her diploma in hand, hesitated at the curb across the street from the church as three of her friends darted across.

Hit by Car After Crash.

They beckoned her to follow. Just as she stepped off the sidewalk there was the crash of two speeding automobiles coming together. One of the cars bounced over and knocked Angeline down. The driver fled on foot. The Rev. John D. Milewski, who had accompanied the class, witnessed the accident. He administered Extreme Unction to the girl and took her to St. Mary's hospital, where she died.

One of the automobiles in the collision was driven by Henry Hilders, an engineer, 2017 North Keystone avenue. The second car, which killed the girl, is owned by Ernest Ligety, 20 years old, 1355 West Erie street. Two hours after the crash he reported the car stolen. He was later identified as the driver and held.

Another Girl Killed.

An automobile collision in River Forest killed another girl during the day. She was Jean Rued, 6 years old, 4045 North Leamington avenue. Jean was riding with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Rued, and three friends of the family, when, at Le Moyne and Williams streets their car crashed into an auto driven by Mrs. Walter Plummer, 635 Franklin street, River Forest. The Rued car was overturned. Two women riding in the Plummer car were shaken up.

These deaths and three others increased the Cook county motor toll for the year to 517. The other victims:

George Peterson, 17 years old, 1643 North Ashland avenue, a caddy at the Wilmette golf course. Fatally injured when he was pitted off a rear bumper on which he was hitching under a railroad viaduct at Milwaukee avenue and Canton street.

Harold Brazell, 21 years old, 5106 Vernon avenue, a commercial photographer. Injured June 15 and died yesterday at the German Deaconess hospital. John Craven, 5209 South Paulina street, was the driver of the car.

Fred Hilsen, 35 years old, 15 North Elizabeth street. Died yesterday at the county hospital. He was struck Saturday at Washington boulevard and Elizabeth street by a car driven by Robert L. Sias, 17, of 841 Forest avenue, Oak Park, a high school student.

SURVEY REVEALS WAY TO FINANCE SUPERHIGHWAYS

Traffic Increase Would Mean More Gas Tax.

BY HAL FOUST.

In the first announcement of data compiled in the city's comprehensive traffic survey, Ald. John Massen, chairman of the council traffic committee, yesterday declared that the construction of superhighways in Chicago might result in such an increase in vehicle use that the additional gasoline tax revenue alone would partly, if not entirely, defray the cost of the improvement.

"This is an emphatic statement," said the alderman, "because the revenue from the fuel excise is only a fraction of the benefits accruing from a pavement with continuous grade separation. Yet the concentration of large expenditures on such high type arterials might be justified without considering their value as time savers and life savers.

Good Highways Attract Traffic.

"Our studies under the direction of Dr. Miller McClintock of Harvard university have proved that facilities for high speeds stimulate, attract and accommodate large volumes of traffic. We are assembling data compiled in months of field work and will soon have specific recommendations."

Dr. McClintock, who is director of the Albert Russel Erskine bureau at Harvard, displayed a map showing the average speed of vehicular traffic on some of the principal pavements of the city. In the first five minutes from Washington and Jackson boulevards in the loop the pace was between fifteen and twenty miles an hour, whereas in Michigan avenue and Lake Shore drive to the north and the outer drive to the south the average for the first five minutes was between twenty and twenty-five miles an hour.

Contrasts Daily Traffic Flow.

Washington, the heavier traveled of the two west side boulevards, has a week day flow of 34,000 vehicles as contrasted with 72,000 for the north side and 65,000 for the south side boulevards. Furthermore, the speeds were taken in a nonrush hour so that the morning and afternoon jams west of the loop are not considered in these calculations.

After getting out of the central business district the fastest travel within seven miles of the loop was recorded on the outer drive to the south with an average of between thirty and thirty-five miles an hour. The pace was picked up south of the stadium.

Directly west of the loop, the first speed between thirty and thirty-five miles an hour was encountered in Roosevelt road and in Lake street more than eleven miles from downtown, after a half hour of driving on boulevards blocked with cross traffic. Lincoln park's outer drive was rated at between twenty-five and thirty miles an hour.

Ten minutes out of the loop on Washington or Jackson boulevards Sacramento boulevard is reached, four miles from the heart of the city. Ten minutes north is Addison street, better than four and a half miles from downtown. Ten minutes south took the average car five and a half miles on the outer drive.

Greater Speed in South Area.

In twenty minutes the drive west covered eight miles and the drive north about the same distance due to delays in the Wilson avenue business district that will be eliminated with the extension of the lake front boulevard. Going south, twenty minutes almost reached 79th street, nine and a half miles from the loop.

Milwaukee, Ogden, Archer, and South Michigan avenues were other arterial routes covered by the traffic study. Milwaukee was the slowest exit from the loop with an average speed of less than fifteen miles an hour for the first five minutes.

"One of the most striking elements in the study," said Ald. Massen, "is the rapid increase in congestion as the central business district is approached on all routes. Speed and efficiency of travel is lost as the pavements become overloaded. The survey presents a clear basis for a conclusion that increasing attention must be given to the improvement of the principal state trunk routes in Chicago."

500 Women Will Take Part in Convention; Plan Program

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Just about 500 women will present official credentials at the Democratic convention next week. That's the record for any party convocation in history, and the femmes are going to be as active socially, evidence at hand indicates, as they are politically.

MRS. ELIZABETH CONKEY.

Mrs. Elisabeth A. Conkey, national committeewoman from Illinois, one of the two woman delegates from this state and general chairman of the convention committee, has listed the scheduled events to date. Her committee members include a number of outstanding Chicago Democratic women.

Mrs. Ross to Entertain.

Former Gov. Nellie Taylce Ross, who captains the women's division of the party, will launch the political-social functions with a breakfast at the Congress on Saturday. The national committeewomen, incumbent, newly elected and holdovers, will be guests.

Sunday afternoon has been reserved for a large garden party at Apple Green, the estate of Judge and Mrs. Clarence Norton Goodwin at Lake Forest. Most of the distinguished visitors will be present, including the wives of some of the presidential candidates. Prior to the event, Mrs. Frank Fuller of Winnetka will entertain for Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis and Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, daughter of Gov. Franklin Roosevelt.

Mrs. Ross, as vice-chairman of the Democratic national committee, will give the response Sunday night for the delegates and visitors to a welcoming address at the New England Congregational church, Dearborn and Delaware streets, by the Chicago Church federation. Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch of Chicago, vice-president of the federation, will welcome the convention gathering at this united religious service.

A pre-convention breakfast at the Stevens hotel next Monday morning at 9:15 o'clock will comprise the most ambitious feature of the entertainment program for the women. Mrs. Conkey will preside. Mrs. Ross and Mrs. Mary T. Norton, prominent both as a congresswoman and for her anti-prohibition convictions, will be among the honor guests.

Many Women to Assist.

Assisting as vice-chairmen of the committee for the breakfast will be Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. Thomas R. Donovan, Mrs. W. F. Kay, Mrs. Carter Harrison Sr., Mrs. John S. Clark, Mrs. Robert M. Sweitzer, Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis, Mrs. Wayne Chatfield Taylor, Mrs. Henry T. Rainey, Mrs. Richey V. Graham, Mrs. Frank Fuller, Mrs. Clarence N. Goodwin, and Mrs. Sarah Bond Hanley of Monmouth, Ill. Mrs. Hanley is the second feminine delegate for Illinois and a former member of the state legislature.

Monday afternoon the Democratic women are sponsoring a fashion revue and tea at the Marshall Field store.

Mrs. Jean Springstead Whittemore of Porto Rico, national committeewoman and the only woman member of the important resolutions committee, reached Chicago yesterday and registered at the Congress. She will help to decide what planks will be incorporated in the party platform.

RUSH FREE TRAIN BILL TO TEMPT BONUS VETS HOME

House Leaders Act; Army Grows Despite Setback.

Washington, D. C., June 19.—[Special.]—Congressional action designed to get the bonus army out of Washington was promised by house leaders tonight. The bill of Representative Loring M. Black Jr. [Dem., N. Y.] appropriating $125,000 to pay the expenses of the veterans back home will be called up this week, it was said, and an effort made to rush it to adoption.

REP. L. M. BLACK.

Whether the intrenched veterans would accept the offer was problematical, but officials were hopeful that the bait of free railroad transportation, with three square meals a day en route, would prove too tempting for the defeated army to reject now that all hope for getting their bonus at this session of congress is gone.

Recruits Exceed Departures.

In response to call for reinforcements following the senate's rejection of the bonus bill, recruits were arriving in increased numbers at the camps today. Police estimated that from three to four fresh recruits were coming in for every departing veteran.

Representative Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Ill.], Democratic leader of the house, said today that he favors the Black plan to pay the ex-soldiers' expenses back home. Mr. Rainey said he would wait a few days before giving the bill privileged status to watch developments.

Laugh at Pleas to Go.

Down at the bonus camps the leaders laughed at repeated pleas to return home. The main army reiterated its determination to "stay in Washington until the bonus is paid if it takes until 1945."

The plan of the congressional leaders is to use the $125,000 to provide a troop train, equipped with cook cars and stocked with food, as in war times. Cars would be dropped off in the various cities from which the bonus army was recruited.

Seven veterans of the Austrian and German wartime armies arrived at the main bonus camp today with three truckloads of food. They came from Camden, N. J.

CHICAGO TO ASK A FEDERAL LOAN OF $81,500,000

Leaders Depart for Washington Today.

tary district, public library, municipal tuberculosis sanitarium, and the three large park systems as of last Jan. 1.

The private citizens in the delegation and Mayor Cermak indicated that they will not ask for more than an approximate eighth of that sum for the aid of the local governments. To this amount they will add $35,000,000 for poor relief.

In their informal chats they assumed that the financial liabilities of the local governments will be about the same in total today as they were last Jan. 1, although the form has been changed.

Bond Defaults Increasing.

At that time these governments owed $280,714,000 in tax anticipation warrants and $15,269,000 in interest on warrants. Millions of these warrants have been paid off, but millions more have been issued since Jan. 1.

The amount of defaulted bonds and interest, which totaled $3,328,000 on Jan. 1, has probably doubled since that time. More bond payments, which will not be made, are due on July 1. The county, forest preserves, sanitary district, and west park system are all in default on bonds.

The unpaid bills and payrolls on Jan. 1 totaled $59,833,828 and it was estimated yesterday these obligations have increased $10,000,000 since that time.

Contractual obligations, other than those payable from bond funds, were placed at $11,095,550 and the balance due pension funds was $1,870,526 on Jan. 1. It is thought that these items have not materially increased.

Concentrate on Pay Loan.

It is almost certain that no effort will be made to get a loan to pay off any of these obligations, except the overdue payrolls, which now total $36,544,000. The county not only wants money for its unpaid payrolls but also for mothers' pensions and relief for the blind and other wards of the county.

Some of the leaders in the delegation are much concerned over the almost monthly defaults on bonds because of the injury done the credit of the local governments. The railroads have been able to obtain cash from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to ward off bond defaults and banks have borrowed cash to preserve their credit.

The Situation on Bonds.

The major local governments have bond and interest maturities for this year of $57,874,056. Some have been able to avoid defaults so far. The city, which has $35,163,536 due this year, has paid everything up to date and has enough cash to retire its bonds due July 1.

The school board, with $2,846,875 of funded debt due this year, will meet its obligations on July 1. The Lincoln park system, which has $2,435,580 of funded debt due in 1932, is expected to meet its obligations. The South Park system, with $6,935,080 due, has been able to meet its payments so far.

The West Park system, with $1,283,-665 due on bonds this year, Cook county with $4,355,910, the forest preserves with $2,601,500, and the Sanitary district with $12,152,507, have already defaulted. With a loan of $10,000,000 from Washington, it is thought that some of these defaults can be wiped out.

Members of Delegation.

The revised list of Chicagoans besides Mayor Cermak, who will go to Washington is as follows:

M. S. Szymczak, city controller.
Victor Patterson, deputy city controller.
James A. Hearns, city treasurer.
Thomas J. Bowler, president of the sanitary district.
Emmett Wheelan, president of the county board.
W. R. James, president of west park board.
Edward J. Kelly, president of south park board.
L. E. Myers, president of school board.
William D. McJunkin, Joseph P. Savage, James A. Hemingway, Orville Taylor, H. Wallace Caldwell, school trustees.
H. H. Brackett, school auditor.
Thomas Sullivan, school attorney.
Melvin A. Traylor, president of First National bank.
James B. Leavell, president of Continental Illinois bank.
D. F. Kelly, president of The Fair.
Fred Sargent, president of the North Western railroad.
Ernest R. Graham, architect.
James H. Allman, police commissioner.
Walter J. Johnstone, president of Firemen's association.
Walter McMenimen, president of police pension fund.
Patrick Kelly, president of firemen's pension fund.
Arthur James and John Dillon of municipal employes' pension fund.
Miss Agnes Clohesy, president of the Elementary Teachers' union.
Irvin Wilson, president of School Principals' club.
Margaret Haley of Chicago Teachers' federation.
Charles D. Stillman, president of joint council of teachers' organizations.
C. R. Vestal, men teachers' organization.
Katherine Ernst, president of playground teachers.
James W. Errant, Municipal Employes association.
Several others will be urged to join the delegation this morning.

CERMAK CASTS HIS BALLOT FOR SONNENSCHEIN

Henry Sonnenschein, candidate for alderman of the 23d ward in the special election to be held tomorrow, apparently started out in the lead yesterday—two days before the opening of the polls.

There is no evidence in support of the statement; but, before leaving for New York yesterday, Mayor Cermak, who is a voter in the ward, filled in his absentee's ballot and dropped it in the mail. It is said there is reason to believe that he marked the cross in the square before the name of Sonnenschein. "Sonny" is his secretary.

ROBBED ON STREET CAR.

Willard Parker, 2150 Lincoln Park West, reported to the police last night that a wallet containing valuable papers and $35 had been stolen by pickpockets while he was on a surface car at Grand avenue and Clark street.

ASSIGN OFFICES IN CONGRESS HOTEL FOR PARTY ASPIRANTS

Almost the entire second floor of the Congress hotel has been assigned for headquarters of Democratic presidential aspirants and officers of the Democratic national committee, the hotel announced yesterday. Headquarters of active candidates already assigned are:

Albert C. Ritchie, Florentine room; Franklin D. Roosevelt, rooms 1102-84; John N. Garner, room 1120; Harry F. Byrd, room 1170; James A. Reed, room 1191; Alfred E. Smith, room B 10-12, and William H. [Alfalfa Bill] Murray, room D 1-2-4.

Frank Scofield, who is running the "Traylor for President" movement, announced that headquarters for Melvin A. Traylor would be opened at the Congress today. Other headquarters will be opened on the second floor for James Hamilton Lewis, Newton D. Baker, Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey, and Gov. George White of Ohio, the latter being regarded as vice presidential timber.

JUDGE M'INTYRE TELLS CITY TO CUT $1,315 FROM PAY

Municipal Judge George V. McIntyre sent a letter yesterday to City Controller Szymczak authorizing him to deduct forty-two days' pay—about $1,315—from the judge's checks during the next twelve months. During the latter half of 1931 Judge McIntyre turned back to the corporate fund $383 of his salary voluntarily in an effort to help out the economy program.

"As I receive my salary out of the funds of the city of Chicago," he wrote, "I desire to share equally with all other city officials and employés the obligations and burdens that are upon the city at this time."

Municipal Judges Samuel Heller and Edward B. Casey last night announced they also would accept the entire reduction of forty-eight days' pay, but that they would not send a letter of authorization to that effect. They said the authority to cut salaries can be conferred only by the state legislature. They will make the deduction by turning back 48 days' pay. Judge Heller has turned back $328.80 so far.

Judges of the Municipal court were informed a few days ago by Mayor Cermak that because of the reduced revenues it would be necessary for all city employés and officials to take salary cuts amounting to forty-eight days for the year.

The judges voted 13 to 8 to accept the reduction. Then they instructed Controller Szymczak not to make any deductions from their salary checks because the vote had not been unanimous.

COUNTY LEADERS ON RELIEF WILL MEET TOMORROW

Members of all the county committees which have been functioning in their own communities to distribute state relief funds under the supervision of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission will meet tomorrow at Springfield.

Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the commission; Corporation Counsel Sexton, a member, and Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary, will speak at the meeting.

Outside of Chicago, committees to distribute state relief funds have been organized in Adams, De Witt, Du Page, Edgar, Edwards, Franklin, Grundy, Henry, Kane, Knox, Lake, La Salle, Lawrence, Lee, Macoupin, Madison, Massac, McDonough, McLean, Peoria, Perry, Putnam, Randolph, Rock Island, St. Clair, Saline, Tazewell, Wabash, Will, Williamson, and Winnebago counties.

Drops 5,000 Feet, but Fails to Break Parachute Mark

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 19.—(AP)—Attempting to regain the world record for delayed parachute drops, Joe Long, San Antonio, Tex., gave it up after a drop of 5,000 feet today when h felt himself fainting and pulled the rip cord. He leaped from a plane at an altitude of 19,000 feet. The record is 15,000 feet, set by Spud Manning of Los Angeles, in 1929, a year after Long had established the previous record of 5,000 feet. Long said his head struck the ground upon landing. He was also made ill by falling most of the first 5,000 feet head downward, but hospital attendants said his condition was not serious.

NEW YORK READY FOR GREETING TO MRS. PUTNAM

New York, June 19.—[Special.]—Plans for the reception by the city, including the greeting at city hall by Mayor Walker and the confetti showered parade up Broadway, of Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam were completed tonight.

The only person to fly the north Atlantic twice by airplane and the first woman to cross alone by plane is expected to land tomorrow at the battery by 11:45.

The Isle de France, on which she is returning with her husband, is to be met down the bay by the mayor's official welcoming committee.

How One Woman Lost 12 Pounds—Quick
Mrs. Betty Luedeke of Dayton writes: "I am using Kruschen to reduce weight—I lost 10 pounds in one week and cannot say too much to recommend it."
To take off fat easily, SAFELY and HARMLESSLY—take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast. To hasten results go light on fatty meats, potatoes and pastries—it is the safe way to lose unsightly fat and one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle. Get it at any drug store in America. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the safest way to lose fat—money back.
But be sure and get Kruschen Salts—imitations are numerous and you must safeguard your health.
Mrs. Bert Beymer of Lakeland, Ohio, writes: "I lost 12 lbs. in a month on one bottle of Kruschen Salts by cutting down on my diet. I feel fine and full of pep. I've just purchased 2 more jars, one for myself and one for my husband and I intend to keep up with it until I lose the desired weight."

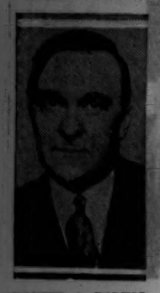
DRY CHIEF CALLS G.O.P. RUM PLANK REBUFF TO WETS

But Fails to Indorse It Himself.

New York, June 19.—[Special.]—Dr. Daniel A. Poling, chairman of the allied forces for prohibition, issued a statement today on the attitude of the organization toward the plank on the prohibition question adopted by the Republican national convention.



DANIEL A. POLING. [Acme Photo.]

The statement contained no declaration of outright approval of the Hoover plank, but it declared that the plank should have more than a "casual reading," and pointed out that "adverse comments already made upon it by Dr. Butler and Senator Bingham, who led the opposition, are significant."

Plan Nation-Wide Fight.

"Certainly our wet friends, on the basis of their askings, suffered defeat," Dr. Poling added. A more complete statement will be made, he indicated, after the dry forces have held their meeting, scheduled to follow the Democratic national convention.

In the meantime, he pointed out, the dry forces throughout the country are preparing for the coming campaign, with an eye on the congressional and senatorial districts where the wet and dry issue will figure. "Positions are being consolidated and the reserve funds are being augmented," he added.

Text of Statement.

The formal statement follows:

"The allied forces united with all other temperance groups in the appearance of the drys before the Republican national convention. They will unite in the same way for a similar appearance before the Democratic national convention. In the meantime their organizational activities are being pushed throughout the country. Positions are being consolidated, and the reserve fund is being augmented. Particular attention is being devoted to the survey of congressional districts and senatorial contests.

"The drys united in a fight for clearcut platform declarations in favor of law enforcement. They united in opposition to making prohibition the partisan issue of political parties. They united against committing senators and representatives to any program of repeal or re-submission contrary to personal conviction or the dry sentiment of particular states and districts. They opposed repeal and re-submission.

Points to Butler Comment.

"The Republican plank should have more than a casual reading. Adverse comments already made on it by Dr. Butler and Senator Bingham, who led the opposition, are significant. Certainly our wet friends, on the basis of their askings, suffered defeat. The dry organizations will go into executive session immediately following the Democratic convention. After this session they will issue a general statement. In the meantime, the drys throughout the country are doing their own thinking.

"The allied forces will make a complete statement of policy and program following the Democratic national convention, and the meeting of the united dry organizations."

SUING FOR $200,000

MYRTLE JOAN ST. PIERRE.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 19.—[Special.]—After a series of investigations, threats, charges, and counter threats and charges, the $200,000 breach of promise suit brought against David L. Hutton Jr., husband of the Rev. Aimee McPherson-Hutton, by Miss Myrtle Joan St. Pierre, 30, is scheduled to go to trial before Superior Judge Marshall McComb tomorrow.

An investigation of the suit, which was begun by the district attorney's office last week on pleas of Hutton, has failed to produce anything in the way of developments which might postpone the trial.

The Rev. Mrs. McPherson-Hutton was in a sanitarium today, unaware of the conflict which opens tomorrow. Hutton said it might cause her to have a complete collapse if she knew the case were to proceed tomorrow and said that he had conspired to prevent her knowing anything about it.

"Otherwise she would insist on coming to court on a stretcher," he said.

Hutton said the only connection between himself and Miss St. Pierre was that he had been treated by her at the establishment in Pasadena where she was employed for a cold from which he was suffering. The nurse later administered another treatment to him at home, he said.

"I only went out with her a couple of times," he declared. He insisted he had not trifled with the nurse's affections in the manner she charges.

Found Dead in Home; Poison Blamed by Police

Alex S. Gricus, 39 years old, was found dead in his home at 2022 Coulter street last night. Police said he died apparently from poisoning. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gricus, parents of Gricus, told police their son had been brooding over unemployment and separation from his wife. Police found a sealed letter addressed to his wife under her maiden name, Lillian Terry, of Jett's Creek, Ky.

VOTE ON REPEAL AT ONCE, HOUSE MEMBER URGES

Pre-Election Showdown Is Asked in Resolution.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 19.—[Special.]—Calling attention to the big vote polled by the extreme wets at the Republican convention in Chicago, Representative William I. Sirovich [Dem., N. Y.] today began a campaign to bring the question of repealing the 18th amendment to a popular vote at once instead of waiting until after the presidential campaign.

As a first move Representative Sirovich yesterday introduced a resolution in the house providing for submitting the question of repealing the 18th amendment to conventions of the people of the several states or through ratification by state legislatures. His resolution also provides that "pending repeal of the 18th amendment the Volstead act is hereby repealed."

Based on Bingham Report.

The Sirovich resolution is based directly upon the Bingham minority report of the Republican committee on resolutions which recommended "that the congress of the United States immediately propose an amendment to the federal constitution repealing the 18th amendment thereto; to be submitted to conventions of the people of the several states . . ."

Discussing his resolution Mr. Sirovich asserted that with the Republican party on record giving the people a vote on modification of the 18th amendment and the Democratic party certain to go as far as the Republicans, he saw no reason why the question of repealing the amendment should not be taken up at once and acted on favorably prior to adjournment.

Expect Another Resolution.

Although Mr. Sirovich based his resolution on the minority report which failed, there were reports today that a resolution based on the Republican prohibition plank as finally adopted would be introduced shortly by Democrats in both houses. Several senators admitted today that they had heard the matter discussed.

If such a resolution is introduced it would be offered primarily as a move to embarrass the Republicans by forcing them to vote on their party plank before the election.

Other developments today in the closely interwoven political and prohibition situation included the disclosure that the stormy reception accorded the straddle Republican prohibition plank in all sections of the country has caused congressional Democratic wets to reach virtual agreement that the Democratic convention must adopt a short plank pledging the party to submit an amendment repealing the 18th amendment to a vote of the people.

Borah Plans to Attack Plank.

It was learned also that Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], leading extreme dry Republican in the senate, was preparing today to direct a blistering attack against the Hoover prohibition plank on the senate floor tomorrow. While the senator declined to be quoted, it was made known that he has weighed the plank and found it unsatisfactory and hypocritical. It is understood he will also attack the Republican plank condemning party irregularity.

As the Idaho dry prepared to assail the straddle plank, Hoover leaders made arrangements to meet tomorrow with Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican committee, to discuss campaign plans. At this meeting, which will probably take place at the White House, ways and means of selling the prohibition plank to the country will be discussed. So much dissatisfaction has been aroused by the wording of the plank that President Hoover may discuss it publicly prior to his acceptance speech.

May Urge Repeal Test.

It was learned today that Senator Alben W. Barkley [Dem., Ky.], the Roosevelt choice for keynoter of the Democratic convention, plans to include prohibition among the topics he will touch upon in his address.

In this connection it was learned that Senator Clarence C. Dill [Dem., Wash.], one of the Roosevelt lieutenants, has submitted a tentative plank to his colleagues which in substance is about as follows:

"We pledge the Democratic party to submit to state conventions, in accordance with article V. of the constitution, at the earliest possible moment, an amendment to the constitution repealing the 18th amendment."

In introducing his joint resolution calling for repeal of the 18th amendment Mr. Sirovich called attention to the "nation-wide controversy now raging over the 18th amendment and the various plans put forward for solving the evils that have sprung from the enforcement of prohibition."

"Whereas," his resolution reads, "Such Republican states as Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, Washington, Wisconsin, and Wyoming, most of which in the past were dry, at the convention held by the Republican party in the city of Chicago on Wednesday, June 15, 1932, voted to absolutely repeal the 18th amendment in order to divorce our republic from the abuses and evils that have sprung from prohibition; and,

"Whereas, These states have a preponderance of population beyond such states as were opposed to their vote of absolute repeal; and

"Whereas, Every citizen of the United States of either sex possessed of ordinary intelligence knows that the youth of our country is being corrupted and contaminated by bootleg liquor; that crime, racketeering, gangdom, highjacking, kidnaping, and all sorts of actual crimes have increased enormously under prohibition and the perpetrators of such crimes have escaped convictions and prison sentences; and Points to Billions Involved.

"Whereas, During a period when the national revenue is unequal to meeting the national expenditures to balance the budget, and the people of the United States are annually paying sums of money estimated to be in the billions of dollars to support an unlawful industry which pays no taxes, corrupts public officials and brazenly and openly violates the law, thereby lowering the public morale and depriving the federal government of a source of revenue which would go toward relieving the national distress; and,

"Whereas, The minority report of the Republican committee on resolutions recommended that the congress of the United States immediately propose an amendment to the federal constitution repealing the 18th amendment thereto, to be submitted to conventions of the people of the several states called for that sole purpose in accordance with the provisions of article V. of the constitution of the United States, now, therefore be it

"Resolved, By the senate and house of representatives of the United States in congress assembled, that in order to comply with the suggestions contained in that minority report, that amendment numbered 18 to the constitution of the United States, sections 1, 2, and 3, is hereby repealed, subject to ratifications by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states as provided in article 5 of the constitution of the United States; and be it further

"Resolved, That pending the repeal of the 18th amendment to the constitution of the United States the national prohibition act, as amended and supplemented, commonly known as the Volstead act, is hereby repealed."

DAVILA INSISTS HE RULES CHILE DESPITE REVOLT

Denies Rebellious Air Force Seized Bases.

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 19.—(AP)—Carlos G. Davila, head of the Socialist junta of Chile, emphatically declared today that all armed forces and a "united country" stood behind his government, despite reports of another counter revolt on behalf of Col. Marmaduke Grove, former head of the country's air service.

Simultaneously came an announcement from the junta that a destroyer carrying Grove and his principal aid, Eugenio Matte, as prisoners to Juan Fernandez island had been stopped. This flatly contradicted reports that part of the air force had rebelled and was detaining the destroyer.

Insist Country Is Quiet.

The junta also denied reports rebellious airmen had captured the airports at Iquique, Quintero, and Valparaiso, and insisted the country was quiet.

The reports of a counter revolt came last night, two days after Davila, ousted by Grove, returned to power with the backing of the army.

"We have back of us," President Davila said, "the united country with everyone cooperating to give the government real help in solving the economic problems of the day and putting Chile in excellent condition again.

Support of Armed Forces.

"We have the support of all armed forces in all parts of the country and they are most loyal. Any reports to the contrary, of course, are ridiculous and are not worthy even of denial.

"Since taking office we have got our problem well under way and we are certain the entire world soon will see how an industrious people, as the Chileans are, can put their country back on its feet as it was in former prosperous days through our socialistic program that has the support of all classes.

"The world should have confidence in us and we will merit that confidence. Peoples of all foreign nations can depend on us."

Cheers Drowned by Rain.

Late last night groups marched in the streets of Santiago cheering Col. Grove, the air corps, and the navy, which was reported by counter revolutionists as lukewarm toward Davila. But rain minimized the demonstration.

The army took over operation of the Valparaiso-Santiago railroad when a protest strike was called, and troops protected military train crews. Efforts to start a tramway strike failed during the night.

Otherwise everything appeared to be normal and quiet in the capital.

The ice cream eaters, each 17 years old, were John De Nadis, 3031 Arthington street; Joseph Armato, 2919 Arthington street, and Frank and Joseph Fumo, cousins, both of 803 South Albany avenue.

MINNESOTA HAS PRIMARY TODAY; 9 SEEK CONGRESS

St. Paul, Minn., June 19.—(AP)—Eighty-eight candidates for congressional nomination wound up their campaigns tonight in preparation for Minnesota's state-wide primary tomorrow, when nine nominees will be selected at large by each of the three parties.

Farmer-Laborites have 23 candidates, Republicans 32, and Democrats 23 for congress, with large fields for state offices.

Because Minnesota is without valid congressional districts the representatives will be chosen at large this year instead of by districts.

Prohibition has provided the main issue in all three parties. The majority of candidates have announced support of resubmission of prohibition. Dry organizations, witholding recommendations, listed only 13 of the 88 as "certain" to oppose repeal or wet modification of the eighteenth amendment. Of these seven were Republicans, one a Democrat, and five Farmer-Laborites.

Gov. Floyd B. Olson, Farmer-Laborite, is supported by his party for renomination. Republicans and Democrats both have entries for governor, the Republicans being Earle Brown and Franklin Ellsworth, with Arthur Van Dyke and John E. Regan seeking the Democratic nomination.

Beat, Rob Representative of Argentine Government

Juan E. Capurro, a representative of the Argentine government, was beaten by a bandit early yesterday in Grant park and robbed of his credentials, money and a diamond ring. Mr. Capurro was taken to St. Luke's hospital, where it was found necessary to take several stitches in his scalp. He told police that he left the Stevens hotel, where he is a guest, and walked into the park to get some air about 1 a. m. He was seated on a bench when he was attacked. He came to Chicago to invite manufacturers to participate in the sixth international refrigeration congress to be held in Buenos Aires this year.

2 ARE INJURED BY A BLAST ON BANKER'S YACHT

Port Washington, N. Y., June 19.—(AP)—A mysterious explosion and fire last midnight destroyed the private yacht Chico II. of Walter Seligman, member of the New York banking firm of J. & W. Seligman & Co. The captain, John A. Watts, and a young woman companion, Miss Audrey Cornwall, 20, of Port Washington, were severely injured.

Hurled into the water by the blast, Capt. Watts and Miss Cornwall swam for shore, where they were taken to Doctors sanatorium. Physicians said Miss Cornwall's condition was critical.

The Chico II. had been hauled up on the ways in her "cradle" to have the propellers changed, and Capt. Watts was running her out of her moorings when the blast occurred. Fire which followed burned the craft to the water line.

YOUTH SHOOTS SELF TO DEATH.

THE above telegram congratulating Studebaker for its contribution of Safety Glass is only one of many significant comments that are being made both publicly and privately about this year's Studebakers.

In fact, Studebaker's superiority is not a matter of opinion but of proof—as attested in the recent report of a distinguished research organization which, after analyzing all cars on the market, said of Studebaker, "Thought to be by far the best buy in its price group."

It is not only Safety Glass but the sum total of numerous advancements and advantages that makes Studebaker stand out so conspicuously in every comparison.

The Safety Glass Studebaker uses is the very finest kind—the identical quality used by Pierce-Arrow and other cars in that price range. And so also is quality paramount in every other detail of Studebaker construction.

When you buy a Studebaker, you get a car that has been thoroughly pre-tested—in the laboratory—on the proving ground—and in such herculean feats as the 500-mile Indianapolis Speedway Race on Memorial Day where, in a field of 40 of the world's most costly racing cars, five 85 per cent stock Studebakers finished third, sixth, thirteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth—the first Studebaker averaging 102.662 miles an hour for the distance!

YOU GET THE BIG FOREIGN NEWS First IN THE TRIBUNE!

SIGRID SCHULTZ
Chicago Tribune Correspondent in Berlin

Recently the Chicago Tribune published the fact that Germany's newly formed "feudal" cabinet is composed of men who figured in a secret list that had been presented to the former Kaiser for his approval.

Only minor changes, the Tribune story revealed, were made in the list after it received the exiled ruler's sanction.

Whatever importance may attach to this news only the future will reveal.

The fact remains that the Tribune was the first newspaper in the world to publish it.

Tribune readers get the big foreign news first. European newspapers recognize the high efficiency of the Tribune's foreign news service. Seventeen newspapers subscribe to it for news coverage of their own continent!

American newspapers recognize it. Twenty-seven newspapers published in this country lease 20,000 miles of wire direct from the Tribune office to theirs—to make certain of giving their readers accurate and complete foreign news.

Probably at no time since the World War has foreign news been of more importance to Americans than now. Events in the making all over the globe hold immense possibilities affecting the welfare of every American.

To keep in touch with world events, read the Tribune. Let Tribune correspondents—Americans who see the news from the American viewpoint—give you the complete news first.

PERSONALTY TAX RULES WILL BE SENT OUT TODAY

No Need to Hire Experts, Jacobs Says.

Rules which will enable the householder and the apartment dweller to determine the approximate value of their personal property for filing, out for the 1931 quadrennial revaluation are being drafted by Assessor J. L. Jacobs. The first draft of these regulations will be completed today and distribution will be started from the assessor's office.

J. L. JACOBS.
[Assoc. Press Photo.]

The rules will be based upon similar systems as used by states in which statutes already have been enacted for classification of such types of property.

Plans Complete Book.

"I am planning eventually to prepare a complete book which may be referred to by all taxpayers, but for the present we will be forced to get along with what later will become only the outline of the rules," the assessor said.

"Tomorrow we will have a series of pamphlets completed and ready for use. They will be much like the Automobile Blue Book in which dealers fix a standard price for certain models of machines sold during certain years. We also will have calculated a standard of depreciation for the usual types of property most generally owned.

"No Need for Experts."

"With the aid of the information contained in these booklets no taxpayer need call in any expert or accept the services of such swindlers as have already appeared announcing that they would be able to put the 'fix' in the new schedules.

"This office is making no outrageous demands and it expects the public to cooperate by complying with the law. Of course, every schedule as it is returned will be investigated in every possible particular. The public need not worry about its cash, its mortgage notes, and its other types of less tangible personality. There is plenty of very tangible personal propert in this county which has hitherto escaped taxation."

Mr. Jacobs, Harry S. Cutmore and a dozen appraisal experts have been working on the new rules for several weeks.

Bandits Hold Up Beverage Office and Flee with $1,100

Two well dressed youths yesterday entered the office of the Northwest Beverage company at 3691 West Grand avenue, drew pistols, and after terrorizing the manager and three employés, took $1,100 and fled. Joseph Aronson, the manager, said that the robbers appeared to be familiar with the fact that the Saturday receipts were in a box hidden in an open vault and went immediately to the right place.

SWANSON CALLS ON AIDS TO PUSH BANKERS' TRIALS

State's Attorney Swanson yesterday called for a conference of his assistants engaged in the bank prosecutions to instruct them to continue with the campaign, which in the past two weeks has resulted in the conviction of fourteen bankers. The assistants will be urged to insist on early trials in all the pending indictments, despite the fact that the judges usually take their vacations at this time. Mr. Swanson announced also that he expects additional indictments shortly against other bankers.

"My auditors have completed work on several more banks, and this week I will submit the reports to Mr. Swanson to get his sanction for grand jury action in these cases," said Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers, who is in direct charge of the special banking bureau.

Case Involves $1,000,000.

The prosecutor said yesterday that he has a report ready on one bank where $1,000,000 in deposits is involved. Unless the officials make good to the depositors within a short time the grand jury will be asked to determine if a conspiracy existed. Mr. Ayers refused to make public the name of the bank involved.

"The judges are to be congratulated on the progress they are now making in disposing of the bank cases, which are of interest to almost every family in the community," said Prosecuter Swanson.

The bank cases already disposed of were listed by Mr. Ayers as follows:

Elmer Langguth, president of the Peoples State bank of Maywood, in the penitentiary on 1 to 10 year embezzlement sentence; Walter Wolf, clerk at the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, in prison under 10 sentences of 1 to 10 years, for embezzlement of more than $3,000,000.

Mueller Out on Bond.

Carl A. Mueller, president of the Laramie State bank, under sentence of 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary, out on bond pending appeal; Charles J. Wolf, president of the Citizens State bank of Melrose Park, under 1 to 10 year sentence, out on bond pending appeal; Alexander Flower, chairman of the board of the Roosevelt-Bankers State bank, under a 1 to 10 year sentence, but at liberty for 60 days to settle up his affairs; Samuel Flower, his brother, to be sentenced Wednesday on a conspiracy charge.

J. Chester Vastine of the Exchange State bank pleaded guilty, but sentence deferred; C. C. Dunkle in the same case, sentenced deferred; Lee A. King and Karl J. Heinzelman, also in the same case, convicted, but waiting for ruling on a motion for a new trial.

Earl D. Phillips, who turned state's evidence in the Exchange State bank case, placed on probation; Frank J. Gatz of the Stockman's Trust and Savings bank, convicted, but waiting decision on a probation motion; J. P. Matthews and Alfred E. Bucker, put on probation for being prosecution witnesses.

The Bain bank case will be resumed this morning before Judge John M. O'Connor.

PERSIA TO FLOOD HALF ITS LAND; MAKE INLAND SEA

Intends to Provide Cheap Electric Power.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 19.—As if filling a bowl, the Persian government has decided to flood more than half its country—350,000 square miles of the 628,000 square miles within its borders. In antiquity the region was an inland sea, like the Caspian. Persian engineers, therefore, see the project as a possible and practical one.

By converting this region, known as the Daria Namak, so-called because of the saline properties in its soil, into a vast lake the Persian government will establish one of the biggest hydro-electric power works in the world, and at the same time will provide a cheap means of transportation for all the new industries planned for its shores. The lake will join the fertile north with the navigable waterways of the south.

Halts Present Roads.

For the moment the government has halted all railroad and motor road construction in the lower area in view of the revolution of traffic which this new sea, really an old one revived, will make.

Meanwhile four representatives of the Teheran government have been sent to America to take up with American engineering firms the question of cost, time and financing of the project.

The soviets recently disclosed that the czars had a secret plan to flood the Daria Namak. The imperial Russian engineers, who were thwarted by Britain, were not lured by industrial development of Persia, but a scheme more important to Russia, to link the Caspian sea with the navigable waters of the Karun river and thus gain an ice free waterway for the empire.

Discard Russia's Motive.

Russian estimates of the project in 1889 placed the cost at $700,000,000. The present Persian scheme is to leave the Russian ideal alone and concentrate on the hydro-electrical power and on industrial expansion.

Persian engineers told THE TRIBUNE that their idea is to do the work in three sections, each costing about $150,000,000. They are going to America to find enough money to open up the first, the northwest section, stretching from Teheran, the modern capital, to the ancient one, Ispahan.

Persian experts in London assert that nature will help the project, as all river drainage is from the north to the south with the exception of 100,000 square miles in the north where streams flow into the Caspian. Hydro-electric power will be gained by damming the territory to be flooded.

The scheme will not affect the Anglo-Persian oil concession which is on higher ground. The biggest part of the work is building again the old walls which volcanic eruptions threw down. Gaps in the mountainous walls are few in number, for the Daria Namak remains a perfect bowl even today. The region becomes a swamp after every heavy rainy season. Proponents of the plan say it will convert the Daria Namak permanently into, what it is seasonally, an inland sea.

PERSIA TO REVIVE INLAND SEA

By flooding its lowlands, covering 350,000 square miles, or nearly half its total area, Persia plans the greatest hydro-electric development in the world and also a water connection from its high interior to the sea. Figures 1, 2 and 3 show the project divided in sections and also gaps between mountains which will be closed, and (4) the site of a hydro-electric plant. Engineers intend to proceed by sections in the order numbered.

LOCUSTS ONLY MOB INSPIRED GRASSHOPPERS

Overcrowding Ruins Their Disposition.

Ithaca, N. Y., June 19.—(AP)—Discovery that the cause of the world's great locust plagues is due to the strange effect of "crowding" upon a small group of harmless "isolated" grasshoppers was made public at Cornell university tonight.

There is special American significance because of scientific predictions, already partly fulfilled, that 1932 is likely to be America's worst locust period in 70 years.

The discovery was made by Dr. J. C. Faure, a Cornell graduate, while in Pretoria, South Africa. He has filed his findings here with Dr. G. W. Herrick, Cornell entomologist, and has gone to Minnesota to learn whether the new world hoppers develop like the African kind, as suspected.

Body Shapes Change.

Merely putting too many of these ordinary hoppers of some species in one place changes even their shape and color under a degree of mob psychology perhaps never before reported for living things. From "fish bait" they transform into an almost different insect—the ravaging plagues of biblical story and modern crop pest.

Dr. Faure produced this magic change at will merely by raising the "solitary" hoppers in a community cage. They entered in all ordinary hopper colors, brown, green, gray, and soil-tinted. In successive moults they changed almost 100 per cent to black and yellow—an age-old sign of locust plagues.

Then began enormously increased jumping activity. Body shapes changed due apparently to so much exercise. Body heat rose. Appetites grew voracious. Even with plenty of food, several hoppers would fight to eat off the same spot on one leaf.

Reverted Back to Harmless Type.

To complete the likeness to human mob psychology, the numbers irresistibly attracted other hoppers. Even a "solitary" grasshopper, reared in a wire cage surrounded by the ravagers, caught the madness and transformed himself.

Most astonishing of all, when these "plague" locusts were separated and raised in individual cages, they transformed in shape, color and habits back into the harmless type. In one experiment, out of 139 so raised, 135 "reverted."

The discovery makes it possible to catch and nip the plagues more readily while still in the bud stage.

CONNOLLY SEEKS DISMISSAL OF LAST INDICTMENT

Dismissal of the last remaining indictment against Timothy L. Connolly, former purchasing agent for the sanitary district, will be requested today by his attorney, Cameron Latzer, in the court of Judge John Prystalski.

There were originally fifteen indictments against Connolly, but all except the one charging him with conspiracy have been nol prossed by the state. He has demanded a trial on this count at four consecutive terms of court, and unless the state is ready after that much delay the law provides the defendant must be dismissed.

Prosecutors Harold M. Keele and Henry Teyfarth, assigned to the case, indicated that they would ask to have the trial delayed once more on the ground that they are busy prosecuting the Bain bank case.

"Too Proud to Beg,' Hungry Boy Breaks Into Bakery

Lawrence Skidmore, 16 years old, of Springfield, Ill., was arrested yesterday after he had broken into the bakery of Henry Helmel at 2002 North California avenue. To Policemen Andrew McMahon and Adolph Bollner he explained that he was hungry after hitch hiking to Chicago and that he was "too proud to beg." He was carrying an automatic pistol.

Alleged Parole Violator Seized Trying to Flee

Mike Polinski, wanted in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., as a parole violator, dashed out of the Atlantic hotel, 316 South Clark street, and fled a block in his stocking feet early yesterday before the shots of two policemen caused him to surrender. Police charge that Polinski had been attempting to break into a room in the hotel, where he had registered as a guest. Doris McEntee, who said her home was in Cleveland and who was registered at the hotel with Polinski, was also held.

RED PROSECUTOR SENT TO PRISON AS MOSCOW'S FOE

[Copyright, 1932, By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, June 19.—Shamsi Batredinoff, formerly a member of the communist party and chief prosecutor for the Supreme court of Uzbekistan at Tashkent, was sentenced to death today at the end of a six week trial, but the sentence was commuted to ten years' imprisonment.

Batredinoff and five others had been charged with working for the downfall of the soviet government. Three of the accused were also sentenced to ten years and the two others to minor terms.

Hundreds of witnesses piled up evidence against the accused, and it was brought out that they had used the courts as an anti-soviet weapon to inflict punishment on active communist supporters in the region. The trial revealed that the defendants were closely connected with the "Basmachi," or groups of emigres who have conducted guerrilla warfare against the soviet union from just across the Persian and Arghan borders ever since they were forced to flee at the end of the civil wars.

SWIMMER SAVED FROM LAKE.

John Paldino, 17 years old, 2616 North Racine avenue, was attacked by cramps yesterday while swimming in the lake at the entrance of Belmont harbor. He was saved by Theodore Sokulski, 3924 Altgeld street, and George Jerrick, 2708 Magnolia avenue.

Protection

This information concerning a serious disease problem is sponsored by the Public Health Institute as a public health measure.

EVERY MAN AND WOMAN IN CHICAGO SHOULD KNOW THESE FACTS ABOUT SOCIAL DISEASES

Syphilis is often responsible for many disabling afflictions, since every bone and tissue of the body is subject to its attack. A noted authority ranks syphilis as the greatest killing disease.

In studies of 5,000 expectant mothers in the clinics of Chicago, Philadelphia, Brooklyn and New York an alarming percentage were found to have syphilis.

Aside from the danger to their own health, babies of infected mothers have very little chance for life or health — unless the expectant mother has received good medical treatment for several months before the baby's birth.

Gonorrhea also is a grave danger to men and especially to women. Prompt and efficient medical treatment of this disease often prevents complications in women which in many cases can be remedied only by serious surgical operations.

Fortunately, not every case of gonorrhea produces such harmful results. The greatest danger to both men and women lies in neglect or improper treatment. Syphilis is less painful in its early stages than gonorrhea; in fact, it may exist in an individual without any alarming symptoms.

The above facts are some of the reasons why health authorities are so emphatic in urging prompt and thorough medical examination and treatment for infected persons as early as possible.

PROTECTIVE MEDICAL CARE IS AVAILABLE TO ALL

For over twelve years the Public Health Institute in co-operation with other health agencies, has fought to protect Chicago against the harmful results of venereal diseases, syphilis and gonorrhea.

The fees for examination and treatment are low and within reach of all.

Every facility necessary for competent and reliable medical service has been provided. Members of its medical staff are experienced physicians and all treatments and advice are given by them.

CASTLE IN WHICH KINGS FEASTED IS MADE A MUSEUM

Public Is Given Old Royal German Hunting Lodge.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

BERLIN, June 19.—For centuries a favorite hunting lodge of the Hohenzollern princes, Castle Grunewald has now thrown open its gates to the public.

Where once the gay hunting parties of the Prussian kings feasted and banqueted, Berlin's burghers will now admire the numerous hunting trophies and fine art treasures assembled by many generations of Prussian rulers.

Dates to 16th Century.

The history of Castle Grunewald, which is located on Lake Grunewald, on the southwestern outskirts of the German capital, goes back to the 16th century when it was the favorite residence of Joachim II., elector of Brandenburg, who ruled from 1535 to 1571. He was the ruler who made Prussia the strongest bulwark of Protestantism after adopting the Lutheran creed in 1539.

The Great Elector, Prussia's most famous ruler in the 17th century, was a frequent guest at Castle Grunewald, hunting the wild boar in the woody environs of the palace, which then was a good two hours' horse ride from Berlin.

Closed in 1900.

Castle Grunewald served as a hunting lodge to the Hohenzollern princes till 1900, when it was closed. After the fall of the empire the palace housed a detachment of mounted police. Now it has been converted into a museum.

Beside the hunting trophies of the Hohenzollern princes, numerous masters, such as Holbein, Cranach, Jordaens and Rubens, are on display.

Another collection closely linked with the history of the Hohenzollern dynasty has recently been made accessible to the public. It is the wedding gift of the Prussian cities to the former German crown prince.

A Fine Dinner Service.

When, in the year 1905, the then crown prince married the Duchess Cecilie of Mecklenburg, 400 Prussian cities clubbed together to give the future German kaiser the finest and most elaborate dinner service they could secure.

The best gold and silversmiths in Germany were entrusted with the task. For nine years they worked on the service. When it was finally completed the world war had broken out and formal presentation of the handsome gift was postponed until after the war.

Revolution Halts Plans.

Then the revolution came and the Hohenzollerns were ousted. The presentation never took place. Instead, the Prussian state came into possession of the table silver under the condition that these fine examples of German handicraft be made accessible to the public.

With this stipulation Prussia has now complied. A dazzling collection of silver platters and dishes, chandeliers, silver vases and other articles, originally designed to grace the royal Prussian table, are now on display in the former imperial palace in Berlin.

BLAST AND FIRE DAMAGES 13 BUILDINGS; 2 DIE

Kansas City, Mo., June 19.—(AP)—Two men were burned to death and 13 buildings were damaged in a fire which followed destruction of a vacant apartment building by a mysterious explosion here early today.

The victims, David Rees, 71 year old Rich Hill, Mo., coal dealer, and T. B. Shriver, grocer, were trapped in nearby dwelling quarters as they slept.

More than 20 other persons living in the mixed residential and business district about the apartment suffered minor injuries.

Firemen said the property loss in the block totaled more than $24,000. Pete Christos, owner of the apartment, was sought for questioning.

The time of the explosion was set in reports to police as 3:25 a. m. Firemen said it originated in the basement and its cause was undetermined.

ACTRESS HURT

EILEEN WENZEL.

New York, June 19.—[Special.]—Eileen Wenzel, actress in the Ziegfeld production, "Hot-Cha," and other Broadway musical productions, was badly cut about the face early this morning when an automobile in which she was riding with Louis Ehret, son of the late George Ehret, millionaire brewer, and another couple, crashed into a light post in Central park.

Ehret, who shared in the estate of more than $50,000,000 left by his father, told police that the accident happened when an unidentified automobile sideswiped his car. Ehret was uninjured and received a summons to appear in court tomorrow.

The other couple in the car were Vera McDermott, said to be the divorced wife of a wealthy Canadian steel man, and Francis R. McConnell, a broker.

Aviation Notes

Following a recent ruling allowing dogs to be carried by air lines, a number of racing dogs have been carried on the coast to coast route of United Air lines. They are crated for the trip. Another unusual shipment last week was that of bread, baked in Oklahoma City and sent by air line and a fast boat to Rome, where it was entered in the International Bakers' convention.

One of the eight Fleetster [Hornet motor] monoplanes ordered by Transcontinental and Western Air lines is to be placed on the Chicago-Columbus route in about ten days.

FARMERS UNITE TO WAGE FIGHT ON TAX EATERS

Michigan Group Demands Slash in Expenses.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Lawrence, Mich., June 19.—[Special.]—The taxpayers of Van Buren county, Michigan, in the fruit belt, are up in arms. They are throwing aside party lines and all the time honored political customs. They are out to see some plain and fancy trimming of local, state, and federal budgets. No idle threat is theirs, it was learned at a mass meeting here last night, attended by some of the older and largest property owning families of southwestern Michigan.

They have started a nonpartisan movement to sweep clean the entire office holding gentry of the fourth Michigan district from Congressman Ketcham on down. They have no dues, no membership—they seek only results. The only exceptions these agrarian patriots are making is to keep the county prosecuting attorney, Bert Williams, of Paw Paw, whose administration they term conservative and satisfactory.

"We're going to elect a sheriff who will bring the criminals out of the jail the same way he took them in and not through a side wall," stated George Foulkes, one of the taxpayers' leaders, who himself owns 4,000 acres of farm land.

Jail Escapes Recalled.

The farmers recall indignantly that one of Fred Burke's notorious gang "was run out of a hole in the Van Buren county jail last November," and more recently another alleged thief "escaped under suspicious circumstances." But these taxpayers are after bigger game, too. They adopted resolutions tonight calling for drastic reductions in county and state expenditures.

Ketcham, they say, keeps relatives on the federal pay roll. He was frequently referred to as "a rubber stamp." He is a dry. While pretending to be a friend of farmers, he is far from that, the taxpayers charged.

The anti-tax eaters movement was started early this year, following a series of radio talks by Col. R. R. McCormick on taxes to which some of the big property owners hereabouts listened. Seven men have underwritten the campaign, which has swept the county like a prairie fire and has spread into Berrien county.

For 7-Point Program.

The campaigning farm owners went to the state Democratic convention recently and took delegates' seats from the local politicians for the national convention in Chicago. Tonight they voted for a house cleaning of county office holders. Those who took part in the tax eating were made the objectives of the fight.

The program includes the following:

First—Reductions in the number of elections held in Michigan to cut down cost of electing tax spenders.

Second—Secure pledges of senators and representatives in opposition to any and all appropriations to teach agriculture in consolidated evening or grade schools.

Third—Reorganization and trimming of costs by eliminating useless work of the agricultural colleges.

Fourth—Take licensing of pool halls and other possible locations for speakeasies from the state.

Fifth—Eliminate all the bee or potato inspectors and other unnecessary tax eaters on the state and federal pay rolls.

Sixth—Clean out the state highway commission.

Seventh—Balance all governmental budgets by cutting expenses instead of adding more taxes.

Steal Saddles and Bridles from Polo and Hunt Club

Thieves broke into the saddle room of the North Shore Polo and Hunt club in Glenview early yesterday and stole saddles and bridles valued at $1,500. The owners of the equipment included Britton I. Budd, president of the elevated lines; Bernard J. Fallon, vice president of the lines; George F. Nixon, real estate broker; and W. Hamilton Noyes. At the suggestion of members, police are seeking a former employé of the club.

WAGNER RELIEF BILLS UP TODAY; SPEED IS URGED

Vote Is Expected Early in Week.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 19.—[Special.]—With the Garner-Wagner two billion dollar relief bill before the senate and a new move on foot to force the Wagner 300 million dollar direct federal relief bill to a vote in the house, federal relief legislation is slated to hold the spotlight in congress this week.

SENATOR WAGNER. [Fotograms.]

Tomorrow the senate will continue debate on the Garner-Wagner bill under circumstances indicating that a vote may be reached within the next two or three days.

A Chicago delegation headed by Mayor Cermak is scheduled to appear before the house banking and currency committee Tuesday to present a plea for prompt action on the Wagner 300 million dollar bill, which already has passed the senate, so that funds carried in this measure can be made available to the states for relief purposes at the earliest possible date.

Two Issues Are Involved.

The debate on the big Garner-Wagner relief bill will center largely around the question of whether the government should embark on a huge public works spending program at this time. Another major issue will be that of whether the federal government, through the Reconstruction Finance corporation, should go into the business of loaning federal funds to states, cities, private corporations or public agencies for use in constructing non-federal projects of a profit making nature.

The Wagner bill which the senate banking committee inserted in the Garner bill after striking out the Garner bill language, contemplates the investment of two billion dollars in noncompetitive enterprises of a public character.

Bulk to Be Earmarked.

Of that sum one and one-half billions is to be raised through the issuance of Reconstruction Finance corporation securities and all but $40,000,000 is earmarked for use in financing the construction of what Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem. N. Y.] terms "income producing, self-liquidating projects of a public character to be built by states, municipalities, public agencies and private corporations."

Forty million dollars is to be held available for the secretary of agriculture to aid in financing agricultural exports. Five hundred million dollars is to be raised through the issuance of federal securities to finance an expansion of the federal construction program.

SPEND $2,000,000 TO IMPROVE AIR LINE STATIONS

Improved airport passenger stations, maintenance bases, and landing areas are being built this year along the transcontinental airways by municipalities and the air lines at a cost of more than $2,000,000, Richard W. Robbins, president of Transcontinental and Western Air Lines, said yesterday. The added investment parallels the constant growth of passenger, mail, and express traffic volume.

Improvements are going ahead in nine cities along the Transcontinental lines' route, most of them financed by municipal bond issues. The company has undertaken a program of improvement on airports it owns, and in addition plans to spend $130,000 for improved flying equipment.

Outstanding among the municipal improvements is the $300,000 maintenance base and operating headquarters built for the Transcontinental lines at Kansas City and leased to the line at a rental of 5 per cent of the cost. The Kansas City municipal airport is being improved also.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

FRANCE CAN PAY IN 1932.

The opening of the Lausanne conference was almost simultaneous with the announcement that the Bank of France had taken steps to withdraw the last 50 million dollars in gold to its credit in this country. The French gold reserve in France or about to be shipped to France is now within a few hundred million dollars of being as large as the American, though our population is roughly three times as large and our credit needs proportionately as great.

The Lausanne conference takes the position that war debts and reparations are practically a single problem to be met with a single solution. To the extent that a further moratorium is granted Germany, France claims the right to corresponding treatment by the United States.

It is difficult to see any good reason why the United States should fall in with the scheme. Germany's moratorium is predicated upon the rather obvious fact that Germany cannot pay all that the allies claim from her this year under the Young plan, or anything like that amount. But France can pay.

The cancellationists have said that international debts can be met only with gold, goods, or services. Germany is unable to meet her obligations, it is said, in any of these media of payment, but certainly the same cannot be true of France in 1932. France has the gold. She can pay without any danger to her present or future solvency and without any undue hardship to her citizens. The same ships which took gold from this country to France can take it back again. So far as France's debt to the United States is concerned, there is no transfer problem.

If France refuses to pay this year she will advertise to the world her repudiation of a debt made in good faith and later revised to less than half its original amount by a helpful creditor.

France is continually complaining about the insecurity of her position in Europe. Her refusal to meet her debts will add considerably to her insecurity. Repudiation can only mean that, if she is again imperiled, no nation will be disposed to lend her money in the virtual certainty it will not be repaid. She will have to fight her wars in future with her own resources.

MR. SCHMELING MEETS MR. SHARKEY.

Max Schmeling, the German champion, is given the edge in the prospects of the fight for the heavyweight title with his temperamental challenger, Mr. Sharkey, the former U. S. navy man who got his real name and his stamina from Lithuania, his training in the American process, and his temper from goodness knows where. Mr. Sharkey is the most Hollywood of Neanderthalers. If sheer destruction without rules were the order of the day he would have won more fights than he has. A tough boy, but one never knows when he will climb the tree and begin shaking down coconuts. One of his conventional fouls gave Schmeling a tax title to the championship several years ago. Now the German is to see whether he can retain it if Sharkey does not foul him again, there being no possible guaranty that the Boston boy will not.

Schmeling is preferred because he is in his full stride, has a wonder of a frame and constitution, and has learned rapidly. American processes make champions, but new, not old, generation Americans hold the titles when they are held in this country. Europe has fed the stock into the American ring. The sons of the Fathers do not try it. The boys come from Italy, the Slavic people, from Palestine or regions settled by Palestine, Germany, etc., where the fight to the top has been a little harder than it has been here.

When the Golden Gloves tournament in Chicago brings German and American amateurs together in the ring the Americans will be new generation Americans. The referee will not see much of the Mayflower. The older stock does not take to this form of combat. It will be found on the football field, where the punishment can be even worse and the physical danger greater, but the solo attempt to beat an opponent into subjection is somehow out of their mores. Evidence of that is in the colleges where intercollegiate boxing is less favored than intercollegiate wrestling, the theory of one being that you knock an opponent out, of the other that you merely overpower him.

Eleven of these boys will gang eleven others, with the stretcher bearers, nurses, and doctors waiting on the side lines, but they have been given a moral purpose for that. In the first place the indispensable factor is not putting the other fellows out. It's the probable consequence, but it is not ostensibly the first objective. In the second place the affair is for the enhancement of organized loyalties and sentiment. It is not primarily for the glory and profit of the individual. American emotionalism says one should not sock another on the chin in public for a profit, but the men who yield to the inhibition will pay to see others do it.

The old breed Americans do not feel easy in violence unless they have organized for it and have attached some sort of altruism to the matter. When they have done so they can make it serve for a lynching, for man-killing sports, or for the possession of new oil fields and grazing land.

The Germans have taken to boxing without the inhibitions which require gang moralising, and, being sturdy, painstaking, and patient, they may go far in the international prize ring. The German amateurs who will be here next month may prove to be a flock of tough birds and Mr. Schmeling may be another flock all by himself.

IS TAX RELIEF ON THE WAY?

The defeat of the bonus bill in the senate was expected, but the vote on the measure, 62 to 18, was a good deal more one-sided than most observers had thought possible. The senate's previous irresponsibilities in approving pork barrel appropriations and the iniquitous tax law had not been reassuring.

Perhaps the action on the bonus may be accepted as the turning point. It may mean that the senators are at last becoming aware of the almost universal demand of the people for relief from the spending orgy that has thus far made recovery impossible. If so, the conversion has come not a moment too soon.

The proposal for paying at once the balances due on the adjusted compensation certificates was unsound and if it had been approved would have given temporary relief to a small proportion of the unemployed at the cost of much greater suffering to them and to every one else in the country within a few months. But when that has been said, it is still possible to express a word of admiration for the behavior of the bonus marchers when the news of the defeat of their scheme was brought to them. They were disillusioned and disappointed men, but they behaved themselves with admirable restraint. That fact is evidence of the confidence felt in our political institutions by men who in most other countries might be counted upon to raise the banner of discontent and disorder.

CELEBRATING THE VOLSTEAD ACT.

It may have been merely coincidence that the efforts of the Republican convention to perpetuate federal dominance in state regulation of liquor and the renewed efforts of the Chicago gangsters, wards of national prohibition, to exterminate each other for the profits of it should have been made at about the same time. It might be, however, that the gangsters were celebrating the Republican declaration that Washington must preserve its sovereignty and jurisdiction.

Chicago had been quiet on all fronts for a long time. The chief gangsters had been slain or sent to the penitentiary and, with repeal of the eighteenth amendment in prospect, there wasn't much in sight worth fighting for. Then the party in control of government renews its faith in national prohibition, in the continuance of the prohibition unit, and proclaims that it will not give up the advantages gained under the eighteenth amendment.

With such guaranty that conditions were to remain as they are the gangsters picked up hope and spirit. There is still something worth going after.

FUNDS FOR URBAN HOUSING.

At last accounts large scale urban housing had been knocked out of the senate's bill expanding the powers of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The corporation will be permitted to lend money for toll bridges, tunnels, and some other so-called self-liquidating ventures, but not for urban housing.

This is a mistake which ought to be rectified. Once the principle is admitted that it is within the province of the federal government to lend its credit for reproductive enterprises, then the last objection to housing loans has been removed. So far as need is concerned, there can be no question that there is greater need for cheap housing for the poor to replace slum dwellings than there is for more toll bridges. With building costs at their present low levels and with the technical progress that has been made in recent years in housing design and construction there is reason to hope that modern, sanitary apartments can be provided for families whose means have never before permitted them to live in new buildings.

There is an element of speculation in these enterprises, of course, but the risks are probably less than in most of the construction which congress will authorize the Reconstruction corporation to finance. The chances are that urban housing will be self-liquidating. These large scale projects are far more likely to prove financially sound that the small scale, single family house building program which seems to have received every encouragement from both the friends of the administration and its opponents.

Editorial of the Day

TEN DEAD BANDITS.

[Rockford, Ill., Register-Republic.]

Six bank robbers slain, 115 sent to penitentiaries, four electrocuted, and 15 awaiting trial. Such is Illinois' record in its ceaseless warfare upon this type of banditry since Jan. 1, 1930.

It is a story which is to be told in detail to the International Chiefs of Police when they convene Tuesday in Portland, Ore., for their annual convention by the two men largely responsible for reducing such bank depredations. They are Ross C. Saunders, chief of crime prevention for the Illinois Bankers' association, and Emory J. Smith, his attorney. Their answer to the bank robbery problem will be along this line:

Public opinion must be aroused against these robbers and bank officials must not relax their vigilance even when their minds are occupied by unfavorable business conditions. It was such relaxation which increased bank robberies in Illinois from 15 in 1928 to more than 70 already in 1932. To paraphrase an old saying, eternal vigilance is the price of security.

Saunders and Smith are the men who captured, among many other notorious criminals, Donald Loftus of Rockford, who confessed that single handed he had robbed 14 banks from Illinois to California. They also trapped the Lincoln, Neb., National bank robbers and obtained the return of $583,000 in negotiable securities from the bandits. Likewise they caught the kidnaping robbers, a gang of six men who held bank cashiers and presidents over night in order to force them to open vaults before business hours.

Those who grow discouraged over frequency of bank holdups in this state will find some measure of gratification in the successful counter measures which are being employed to render hazards of such robberies too great for even the most desperate criminals. The mounting toll of deaths and captures among bank bandits emphasizes the efficacy of those defensive efforts.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THERE IS HOPE!

And now the steamship companies tell us that as we can go around the world at the new low rates for five hundred and thirty-six dollars and seventy-five cents or six hundred and nine dollars and thirty-five cents, it is much cheaper to circumnavigate the globe than it is to stay at home. Oh, much! And, besides, if we stay at home we'll have to pay the new taxes. Oh, it is indeed much cheaper to go around the world. And keep going.

Yes, indeed, motion is the thing. The tax grabber can't do a thing with you as long as you keep moving. By the time he's got your schedule made out you're one hundred and eight-five miles farther west. But the minute you light and settle down, then the taxes pile up. We should all strive to be like the fast train down in Arkansas that an aged darkey was describing to a friend. "Why dat train goes so fas' through this hyer town," said the darkey. "Hit goes so fas' it dun take two men to tell erbout hit. Yassah, it take two men, one man to say 'dar she comes' and annudder man to say 'dar she goes.'"

Ah, how pleasant, when the new taxes fall upon us tomorrow, if we could be like that train in Arkansas. If we could move like that it would be such a lovely thing these days. And a trip around the world must indeed be much cheaper than staying at home. Or a trip to the north pole. Or the south pole. Or Timbuctoo. Or Painted Post, Wyo. Or anywhere, just so we can keep moving. Wonder what became of that man that thought he had discovered perpetual motion? What a help that would be.

TO E. L. S.

And did you think these things could not strike you,
As they 'ave battered better men . . . and worse?
Why, boy, but half of it is half way true,
And that makes just a quarter . . . why the hearse?
You have sung songs before . . . and Spring will come,
It ever did . . . and birds will sing again,
Old coals grow ashes, and old pains grow numb;
That's all the bunk . . this singing in the rain.

So Galahad, grow gallant, sensing this,
No thing can harm you but your futile fears,
The Sirens call, so why be a remiss
Durus Ulizes through the coming years?
Old dreams die hard . . . you said it once before;
Well, let them die . . . the new are many more!

E. LESLIE SPAULDING.

WE FEEL that the Hon. Garner is somewhat wasted in congress. His plan of building billions of dollars' worth of postoffices at every crossroads between the Atlantic ocean and the planet of Saturn seems to suggest that he'd be simply wonderful telling bedtime stories to the children over the radio. Oh, what an imagination! Do tune in on Goosh Goosh Gosh Gosh station at 7 o'clock this evening, kiddies and Uncle Jack.

GOVERNMENT STATISTICS show that a million less packs of playing cards were sold last May than in the same month a year ago. Ah, the depression has made many a man stop wasting a perfectly good deck of cards by throwing it at his lady wife's head because she trumped his ace.

"DAWES NEVER AGAIN to Enter Public Life."—Headline. And before Charley gets well enough settled in his Evanston home to get out in the garden and water the marigolds fifteen different national and foreign public jobs will be baying at him and trying to jump the fence and make him take 'em in. Hel'n Maria, public offices! Didn't you hear what Charley said? Gettell outten here!

A LADY suing her husband for divorce in Chicago says that one time he was displeased with his breakfast and threw her across the room. But maybe she read the bargain advertisements to him before he had his coffee. Nothing is so likely to make a gentleman throw a lady across the room as for her to read the bargain ads before he has his coffee. And with many gentlemen it is safer to let them eat their ham and eggs. Gentlemen are inclined to be a bit testy at breakfast time.

COMRADES.

Along the awakening woodland stray
My daughter and her Little Friends;
Their sister she, bright eyed as they,
Wearing their own shy innocence.
The puppy at her rosy heel
Goes frolicking till day is done,
The squirrels in the maple trees
Gossip with her till set of sun;
The quail-chick hides, but hides so near
She cannot bring herself to pass
But she must stop, and kneel, and peer
To see his feathers in the grass.
O, little loving heart that beats
So tenderly for happy things,
God hold away the hour you see
A quail-chick fall with shattered wings!

A rabbit with a turnip-top
Out of the garden, comes to stop
And sit him down and rest awhile;
My daughter greets him with a smile.

DOROTHY KISSLING.

AND YOU MUST REALLY ADMIT that the gun lads waited until the Republican convention was over and the delegates had gone home before they resumed the massacres. A small thing, yes, but something that showed a bit of chivalry and consideration. And how annoying it would have been to Mr. Mills and Mr. Garfield while they were reading their delightful essays on the blessings of prohibition to have their remarks punctuated by the noise of rum battles outside. Oh, mercy! talk about your most embarrassing moment! Tsk, tsk, tsk!

REMOVING MENTAL KINKS.

A VERY definite gain in the treatment of insanity was made when shackles, chains, and restraint beds were done away with, or nearly so. In every hospital for the insane there are many patients who must be restrained to prevent them from harming themselves physically, or from escaping with the chance that they will harm others. However, these are a minority. The majority are not now subjected to the harm to mental, spiritual, and physical health which follows as a result of the resentment against restraint.

Another gain resulted from giving patients opportunities for social contacts with other patients. The chance to work alongside other patients and to talk with them does more to cure mental disorders than does all the medicine in bottles. It is very harmful to a man with a mental derangement to permit him to isolate himself mentally and socially, and stew in his own disordered thoughts.

Drs. William Malamund and W. R. Miller of Iowa go a step further, especially in earlier and milder insanities of the dementia precox type. They sit down and talk it out with the subject. They encourage him and even lead him to tell his own story, and especially all that he thinks led up to it. What did his ancestors pass on to him by way of nervousness, peculiarities, difficult personalities, as well as definite mental and nervous disease? What in his family life tended to throw him into his mental disorder? What did the neighbors, business, school, the experience of life? What did these contribute to the result as the man himself views it?

Then follows a persistent effort to talk the patient out of his opinions. If the doctor has the confidence of the patient he will accept the diagnosis of dementia precox and will listen to the physician's statements that the patient has drawn wrong conclusions.

To get results the patients to be treated must be chosen wisely. Advanced cases and old established ones are not favorable. The next step is to outline a plan of presentation that will appeal to the reason of the patient. It must be one that holds the patient's confidence and, finally, secures his coöperation. It is a method that takes time but, when intelligently, patiently, and persistently carried out returns a considerable proportion to their homes nearly enough normal in their reactions to life so that they can live in peace with their families and get on well enough with their associates to enable them to earn a living.

When this method and the results of using it on a limited number of patients was presented to a convention of hospital superintendents, they were greatly interested. Their institutions are so overcrowded and the expense is so great that the state is nearly ready to break under the burden.

However, the proposal is of far greater interest to those who are without, looking in. The persons who are at home and at work, but who are unhappy and hard to get on with because they have split personality are legion. If the method is worth something as a cure for early cases, it should be worth more as a preventive. Suppose we were to start by periodic personality examinations, or at least one such. Next, by a frank statement that a split personality is present. Next, by a logical explanation to the patient of the meaning of his emotions and the why of his peculiarities. Such service would enable him to change his attitude and behavior, in some cases at least.

MAKEUP OF FOODS.

Mrs. R. K. writes: 1. Are the following proteins or carbohydrates: Fresh peas? Dried peas? Lima beans? Navy beans? String beans? Cereals?

2. What are lentils?

3. Is it dangerous to take a large enema [two or three quarts] when there are narrow or kinked places in the colon?

4. Are apples, peaches, apricots acid fruits?

REPLY.

1. These are foods. Each contains some proteins, carbohydrates, fats, minerals, and vitamins.

2. Beans and peas are members of the lentil family.

3. No. It may be disadvantageous.

4. As they are eaten they are acid—quite so when green, and when ripe moderately so. As the system uses them the acid portion is eliminated through the lungs as carbonic acid. The remainder of the original acid material remains as alkali and goes to increase the body's store of these chemicals. Consequently, they are classed as alkali, or base producing foods.

HUSBAND'S HANDS.

M. H. writes: What causes my husband's hands to swell and have a funny feeling in them? This happens only when he walks a lot in the summer. When he gets home after the walk they are perfectly natural and won't act that way until he walks quite a distance again. This has happened the last few summers. It never happens when we take walks in the cold weather.

REPLY.

One difference between your husband and others is that your husband knows what has happened. The hands always swell when we walk considerable distances. This is much more noticeable in hot weather. It may be that your husband's hands swell more than the average, but since this is usual and to be expected, we say it is normal and of no consequence.

USE OF STRYCHNINE.

Rosepont writes: 1. Is the use of strychnine at the dose of one-twentieth of a grain, three times a day, dangerous? 2. What will be the effect of a single dose, six grains?

REPLY.

1. The dose is a large one, but physicians sometimes use it. Do not try it except on your physician's responsibility.

2. Death.

RABIES SERUM.

Mrs. E. P. B. writes: 1. Does the serum given to prevent rabies harm the heart in any way? 2. What does a pulse of 88 in a child of 5 indicate?

REPLY.

1. No.

2. It may not mean anything. It may mean fever, infection, tuberculosis, nervousness. Goiter is an even more remote possibility.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 20, 1916.

SAN DIEGO, Cal.—An ultimatum amounting practically to a declaration of war against the United States was served on Sunday on Commander Arthur G. Kavanagh of the gunboat Annapolis by Gen. Flores, Carranza governor of the state of Sinaloa, according to a radiogram sent from the Annapolis at Mazatlan and received here today by Admiral Winslow, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet. It was his refusal to permit Americans to leave Mazatlan that resulted in the clash on Sunday between bluejackets of the Annapolis and Mexicans characterized as Carranza soldiers. A boat from the war vessel containing Ensign C. O. Kessing, Paymaster Andre Mowat, and a number of bluejackets, approached the wharf, Ensign Kessing being under orders from Commander Kavanagh to arrange with the Mexicans to get out all Americans. Without provocation, it is reported, the Mexicans opened fire on the sailors, and Boatswin's Mate I. M. Laughter was seriously wounded. The Americans returned the fire and as far as known six Mexicans were either killed or wounded.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — Mexican government troops are reported to be marching toward Del Rio, a border town about 100 miles up the Rio Grande from Eagle Pass, with the announced intention of attacking the Americans there. This information was the most notable bit of evidence indicating the attitude of the de facto government that reached Gen. Funston today. It was brought to the border by a Mexican, who said the force was 1,500 strong. According to his report, the Mexican troops said they intended to attack the Americans tonight or tomorrow night. It was estimated that late today they were about forty miles south of Del Rio.

MEXICO CITY.—Gen. Carranza tonight reiterated his declaration that any movement of American troops, except to the northward, would be considered hostile and that Mexican commanders had been ordered to repel it if made.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—From confidential sources it was learned today that the administration contemplates a blockade of every Mexican port on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts within the next few days.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

What are some of the causes of heart failure?

SATURDAY'S QUESTION:

What are some of the causes of anemia?

ANSWER:

Oxygen is essential for the respiration which maintains life itself as well as many specific functions. Oxygen is carried in the blood, from the lungs to the tissues, by means of the iron-containing "haemoglobin" in the red blood cells. The number of red blood cells and the amount of haemoglobin appear to be closely governed by the oxygen needs of the healthy individual. Anemia means a reduction below the normal amount of red cells and haemoglobin. We may have all gradations of anemia up to an extreme which brings death. Anemia may result from: disease of the red bone marrow, where the red blood cells are produced; general starvation or prolonged deficiency of iron in the diet; the effect of poisons produced by some bacteria; chronic loss of blood, as in gastric ulcers, pulmonary tuberculosis, or uterine tumors.

"Pernicious anemia," was until very recently an incurable disease, invariably leading to death. We do not yet know the cause or causes of this form of anemia, but we have found that liver or liver extract, taken by mouth, is an efficient control of the condition.

Anemia in general may thus be the result of many different causes. Only rarely is it due to lack of iron in the food. The effect of anemia is reduced bodily efficiency, physical and mental, in proportion to the reduction of the oxygen-carrying capacity of the blood.

Chicago, June 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I understand that the Japanese exclusion act of 1924 is primarily purported to protect American labor. Are the following in violation of that act: [1] Working for the Japanese Y. M. C. A. as secretary: [2] teaching in an American educational institution; [3] operation of trade, either import or export, or both; [4] a position in a trading company. This is contingent upon the subject having come to this country after 1924. D. O.

There is no federal Japanese exclusion act. Do you refer to the California act, or to the federal Chinese exclusion act, or to the quota provisions of our general immigration laws? TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

1. We know of no standing offer on the point. Obviously the government might be willing to pay for an invention which would be of value to the government.

THE UNIMPAIRED CREDIT OF THE STATES.

Chicago, June 16.—It seems strange that the federal government, whose debts during the last two years have been mounting by leaps and bounds, whose revenues for the current fiscal year will amount to less than two-fifths of its expenditures, and whose debt will amount to about eleven times its revenue of the current fiscal year, should borrow money to lend to the states whose combined debt is not increasing rapidly and whose combined annual income equals their combined indebtedness. Perhaps the explanation is to be found in the demoralization that has been brought about by the willingness—even eagerness—of the federal government to extend with a lavish hand its aid and credit in all directions. GEORGE G. TUNELL.

FRIENDLY ENEMY.

Woodruff, Wis., June 16.—While I have a sincere and wholehearted dislike for your paper, owing to its politics over a period of the last twenty-five years, still I want to congratulate you, as I think the editorial printed on the front page of the Thursday, June 16, paper was certainly one of the best I have ever read. I personally am a teetotaler, yet I am utterly against prohibition as it is and the fanatic cranks and hypocrites who indorse it. J. W. FUHRMANN.

NEVER SO DISGUSTED.

Oak Park, Ill., June 16.—I have read THE TRIBUNE for the last twenty years, but never before have I been so disgusted as with your recent display of intolerance on the prohibition question. Your editorials are not based on the real facts; they are only your own biased opinions and you are trying your best to force them on your readers.

L. O. MITCHELL.

RIGHT THINKING MEN.

Rockford, Ill., June 16.—Every right thinking man should, and I hope will, express to you his appreciation of the special editorials that have appeared in THE TRIBUNE during the last three days.

F. M. WHITE,
President, Burd Piston Ring Company.

FRAUD AND DECEIT.

Highland Park, Ill., June 16.—I take great pleasure in congratulating you upon your splendid editorial of this morning. You certainly express the sentiment of every right thinking man in calling the proposed amendment plank a fraud and a deceit. If Mr. Hoover thinks he can get the voters of this country to swallow such a monstrosity he is fooling himself. He no doubt pleased Bishop Cannon and the bootleggers, but it is, as you say, an offense to the Republican party and the American people, and it is the doom of the leaders who concocted this miserable plank. They will find this out in November. Let us hope that the Democrats will not make this mistake and also that they will nominate a first class man. WILLIAM H. VERNON.

INTERPRETATION.

La Grange, Ill., June 17.—Your analysis of the repeal vote is amusing, to say the least. You seek to give the impression that the country as a whole is wet and that the tide was turned by the votes of the south. Here are some additional figures:

All states west of the Mississippi river, 22 in all, gave: For repeal, 69; against repeal, 325. A ratio of almost 5 to 1.

All states south of the Potomac and Ohio rivers, and including Arkansas, Texas, and Louisiana, which I believe comprises the solid south, so-called: For repeal, 30; against repeal, 178, a ratio of almost 6 to 1.

Taking the entire country, excluding the states containing Chicago, Cleveland, Philadelphia, New York, and New York and Philadelphia influenced New Jersey: For repeal, 223; against repeal, 611, a ratio of almost 3 to 1.

JOHN E. SNOW.

REFERRED TO MR. GARFIELD.

Hastings, Neb., June 14.—Why not take a vote from the sons and daughters of the radical dry leaders to find out their sentiments on repeal of the eighteenth amendment, starting in with the son of Billie Sunday? JACK LARSON.

HE RISES TO INQUIRE.

Chicago, June 13.—May I ask Ginevra K. Mitchell and Violet Patten Wheeler, co-chairmen of the Illinois division of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, one question?

If, as they suggest, the matter of prohibition be left to the states will it be any the less an outrageous deprivation of our liberties as citizens if a majority in Illinois should pass a prohibition law and thus deprive the minority of the God-given right to buy and drink whisky when and where we please?

CHARLES W. PHILLIPS.

FROM A TEACHER.

Oak Park, Ill., June 17.—We are entering our second payless summer. And the idiots who run the board of education seem to be quite pleased at the prospect. They are removing three and four teachers from some schools. One teacher I know of who has spent more than fifty dollars on her room this year is being put on the unassigned list. But we still have five janitors in our basement. A TEACHER.

THE WELL DRESSED COURTROOM FAN.

Chicago, June 17.—Will you kindly advise me as to the proper wardrobe to wear in Chicago when attending a session in the Criminal court building?

This is my first visit to Chicago, though I have, most assiduously, attended court sessions in many cities of Wisconsin, my home state.

Except when I attend church on Sunday, or the last rituals of some deceased fellowman, I never indulge in the luxury of a suitcoat. As soon as possible after returning from such an occasion I lay aside my suitcoat and necktie, roll up my sleeves, and open my shirt collar. I keep my clothes and person clean, being a disciple of that old maxim that "Cleanliness is next to godliness."

Imagine, dear sir, my astonishment and bitter chagrin when I presented myself at Judge Desort's door this afternoon, in the Criminal court building, to be refused admittance! Reason? I wasn't wearing a suitcoat. The officer on duty solemnly warned me that it was a serious infringement of the rules to enter a courtroom without one. None of the judges in the building would permit it.

I love democracy. It's my passion, perhaps my weakness. I hate deceit, hypocrisy, and sham. Playing with babies and children is my hobby after school hours. As a teacher I taught my children about court procedure, dress, etiquette, honesty, and broad mindedness. I guess [according to my new findings] I was all wrong.

VICTOR L. BELOBROYDICH.

WISCONSIN'S DELEGATES.

Appleton, Wis., June 16.—The La Follette delegates at the Chicago convention made the front page by a display of disrespect to our country, our flag, and our President, thereby calling forth the wrath of the regular Republicans, which attached to them an unwarranted importance and gave them the publicity they desired and which they could get in no other way.

One can hardly keep from laughing at the thought of the embarrassing predicament that would have been theirs if their silly actions had been ignored.

T. J. LONG.

LIVING WITHIN OUR INCOME.

Danville, Ill., June 14.—How absurd was Senator Dickinson's radio talk last night [June 13]. He stated that conditions would get better only when the people learned to live within their income and that they must do that. As though they are not doing it now. I say that conditions will improve when the government really cuts expenses and lives within its income. Who ever heard of a professional politician being practical? F. R. M.

U. S. GRAIN SAVES 15,000,000 FROM FAMINE IN CHINA

Flood Refugees Are Fed in Exchange for Work.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, June 19.—Some 15,000,000 bushels of American wheat has figured in an interesting scheme of social relief that prevented many millions of Chinese farmers and villagers from starving to death.

In the summer of 1931 the Yangtze valley was visited by the worst flood China had experienced in three-quarters of a century. Thousands of square miles of densely populated farming lands, including hundreds of villages, were covered with water ranging from three to fifty feet in depth.

15,000,000 Persons Affected.

The number of persons drowned never was accurately estimated, but when the waters receded late in the fall 3,000,000 refugees were stranded on elevated points along the valley. About 15,000,000 persons altogether were affected.

The problem was of such magnitude that the weak Chinese government at Nanking was powerless to effect relief. Then, on top of the flood calamity, came the Japanese military intervention in Manchuria and Shanghai.

With a serious communist menace on its hands in the central provinces and a threatened civil war in the south, it appeared that the Chinese government was doomed to extinction and the Chinese people to chaos and anarchy.

Yank Gets an Idea.

At this point an American engineer employed as a technical adviser in the Nanking ministry of railways had an idea. He was John Earl Baker, native of Eagle, Wis., and graduate of the University of Wisconsin, who had resided in China for many years and assisted in many previous attempts to relieve victims of Chinese famines.

Baker figured this way: China has many millions of potential wheat consumers who are starving to death and the United States has many millions of bushels of surplus wheat stored in elevators for which there is no market. But the Chinese famine victims had no money and the Chinese government had no money to advance.

After consultation with officials of the Chinese government, including Dictator Chiang Kai-shek and his brother-in-law, T. V. Soong, who was their finance minister and is about to resume the post, a scheme was worked out whereby the famine victims would be given opportunity to purchase the wheat, not with money but in exchange for labor.

Enter Contract with U. S.

Negotiations were entered into in Washington for the purchase of 15,000,000 bushels of wheat on deferred time payments, the money being guaranteed by a sur-charge on the Chinese customs receipts, with first installment to be paid to the farm aid board in 1935 and the last payment to be liquidated in 1938. According to the terms agreed upon, the price which China was to pay for the wheat was to be in accordance with prevailing rates on the Chicago market. The freight item alone amounted to $1,300,000.

Then came the problem of putting the scheme into effect. It was not a simple matter, for it involved the distribution along the Yangtze valley for a distance of more than 1,000 miles of millions of bushels of wheat and the supervision of more than 3,000,000 famine victims serving as laborers on dykes, levees and roads in the previously inundated districts.

Hire an Englishman.

To put this tremendous plan into operation, China employed another foreigner, a Briton named Sir John Hope Simpson. As an official of British coöperative credit societies and former executive of relief schemes in India, he had had extensive experience in food distribution.

Sir John organized the China National Famine Relief commission, which was headed by Soong and which included a number of leading Chinese and foreign officials and business men in Shanghai. Missionary organizations with branches in the flooded districts were also asked to coöperate.

The Yangtze valley was divided into districts. Chinese engineers, graduates of American and other western universities, were employed to supervise the reconstruction work.

Institute Quota System.

Each famine district was put on a quota basis. It was figured out just how many laborers would be required to rebuild the dykes and other construction in each district and how much wheat or flour would be required to feed the laborers.

It was not long before cargoes of American wheat were being moved inland along the canals and smaller streams on junks and launches, while thousands of carts, wheelbarrows, and human backs were utilized to send it into the more inaccessible regions.

Some complications were experienced in the regions that are controlled by the so-called Communists, but after once getting inside the red areas the matter of distribution was simplified, for the Reds, regardless of their other faults, did have organization and discipline. Also, the Reds needed food and, according to O. J. Todd of San Francisco, an engineer who had charge of dyke and road supervision in Hupeh and Hunan provinces, little actual trouble was experienced in the so-called red districts after the wheat supply caravans had run the gantlet of the Red guards posted on the borders.

Wean Chinese from Rice.

One result of the wholesale distribution of wheat and flour has been to wean tens of thousands of Chinese away from their century old diets of rice. According to relief workers, the people now prefer a wheat diet and there has been a noticeable improvement in health.

Although practically all of the original supplies of American wheat and flour are now exhausted, the director of the Famine Relief commission said that most of the dykes would be repaired before the end of June, providing the work was not stopped by rising waters.

It is reported that the Chinese government, through the Famine Relief commission, has opened negotiations with the farm aid board for a further large supply of wheat, the object now being to embark on an extensive scheme of road construction designed to connect Shanghai with the backward districts of Chekiang, Kiangsi, and Hunan provinces.

MOTHER SHOOTS MAN TRYING TO ATTACK GIRL, 10

When Detective Charles Todd found Frank Russo suffering from five gunshot wounds early yesterday the wounded man refused to tell who shot him or why. But Mrs. Evalina Broccolino, 1021 Sholto street, told.

"He had enticed my 10-year-old daughter, Mary, into his bedroom and was attempting to attack her, so I shot him," the woman stated.

Russo, who is 40 years old and a peddler, was a roomer in the Broccolino home. Mrs. Broccolino is 33 years old and the mother of five children. Her husband, James, 40, was away Friday night when the shooting occurred.

ACCUSE MENJOU'S SON OF MURDER IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Los Angeles, Cal., June 19.—(AP)—Harold L. Menjou, 20 year old adopted son of Adolphe Menjou, screen actor, was arrested on suspicion of murder near here today after a motor car pursued by a motorcycle patrolman overturned and killed the youth's companion, Miss Marjorie Gauthier, 16.

The patrolman said he chased the Menjou car six miles along the Inglewood-Redondo boulevard at a speed of 75 miles an hour. Menjou was uninjured in the crash. The girl died on the way to a hospital.

Deputy Sheriff O. H. Cloud said a formal charge of murder would be filed against the young prisoner.

DUBLIN BECOMES SPOTLESS CITY FOR EUCHARIST

Roman Catholics Fill All Hotels of City.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, June 19.—It used to be called "Dear, Dirty Dublin." It is dearer than ever today, but no longer dirty, for the old town has washed and brushed up such as has not been known since the day Brian Boru beat the Danes at Clontarf, suburb of Dublin. It is now a spotless city—cleaned and festooned for the Eucharistic congress, which will be held here this week.

All the houses are gayly decorated. All the lamp posts and fire hydrants have been painted a bright silver. The papal flag of yellow and white and the tricolor of the Irish Free State are in evidence and the streets are garlanded with green. Grafton street, Dublin's principal shopping street, is spanned with ropes of greenery supporting giant bronze replicas of St. Patrick's bust.

Take Available Space.

The Eucharistic conference is being held in Dublin this year because it is the 1,500th anniversary of St. Patrick's coming to Ireland and because it is considered the greatest event in the history of the church of Ireland since that time.

Roman Catholics from all parts of the world are gathering here. It is estimated that Dublin will welcome 500,000 visitors this week. The town is crowded already. The government has commandeered spare rooms in private houses and is billeting the guests. Hotels have doubled their rates and people are sleeping in bathrooms and on billiard tables.

The Dublin jarvies [cab drivers] are reaping a harvest. Every tongue of the world is heard in the streets. In the train in which I traveled from London last week there were 12 bishops and a couple of cardinals. One bishop was a Negro from Africa. One cardinal was a dark skinned Egyptian.

Clergy Leads Delegation.

Forty girl guides from Belgium were marched into the train by nuns and 100 Boy Scouts from Italy were shepherded by priests and lay brothers. There were also large parties of men and women from Germany, Czechoslovakia, Austria and all countries of the world, led by the clergy or nuns.

Three boats yesterday carried the crowds from Holyhead in Wales to Dunlaoghaire, the port of Dublin. The liner Duchess of Bedford arrived with five hundred from Canada and anchored in Dublin bay. The passengers will live aboard the ship during the week. Three more liners—the Doric, Samaria and Saturnia—are expected tomorrow in addition to the thousands landed from Atlantic boats at Cobh and Galway.

The ceremonies do not begin until Wednesday, but every church in Dublin was crowded today with devout throngs and special masses were said. Tomorrow the papal legate, Cardinal Lauri, is scheduled to arrive by special boat and train. He will be welcomed at Dunlaoghaire by the archbishop of Dublin and President Eamon de Valera of the Irish Free State and will be driven through Dublin escorted by a royal guard of Irish hussars in a special uniform of papal blue and gold.

Week of Services.

A full week of church services follows, entertainments and receptions culminating Sunday in a great open air mass by the legate in Phoenix park. A half a million persons are expected to be present. After the mass the Host will be carried to O'Connell bridge, in the center of Dublin, six miles away, in a great procession, and benediction will be given there by the legate.

All Dublin papers are now exhorting the population to treat the whole park that day as a church and to behave as reverently as if in a consecrated edifice.

J. HARRY JONES FUNERAL RITES TO BE TOMORROW

The body of J. Harry Jones, retired Chicago business man, who was killed by a train in Florida Thursday, will arrive in Chicago today. Funeral services will be held at 2.30 o'clock tomorrow at the La Grange Presbyterian church, with burial following in La Grange cemetery. Mr. Jones was killed when his automobile was struck by the Jacksonville-Tampa Special at Auburndale, near Winter Haven.

Mr. Jones was 61 years old, a native Chicagoan, and lived at 56 South Spring avenue, La Grange. He retired seven years ago as president of the Marshall-Jackson company, and from then until 1930 was chairman of the board. He was treasurer of the Great Northern Finance corporation, a former member of the La Grange board of education, secretary and director of the Chicago Christian Industrial league, and other organizations. He was a Mason, Knight Templar, and Shriner, and a member of several clubs.

Surviving are his widow and four children, Mrs. Margaret Williams, Mrs. Gladys Mathews, David and Mary Jones.

4 Slain in Political Riots in Colombia; Troops Called

BOGOTA, Colombia, June 19.—(AP)—Four persons were killed and several wounded yesterday in political clashes at Salazar, a hamlet of Santander del Norte province, near the Venezuelan border. The disturbances were inspired by the assassination of a Liberal leader of the region, Fausto Perranda. Troops were sent from Barcaramanga, and the rioting was reposted dwindling.

...S TO ELECT ...TENDENT OF ... WEDNESDAY

... a superintendent of schools is scheduled for the board of education meeting Wednesday afternoon. The four year term of William J. Bogan, incumbent, expires on June 27. He said yesterday he had received no report that any other candidate except himself was being considered.

Several school trustees are planning to go to Washington this afternoon to seek federal aid for teachers' pay, and it was reported that the election may be postponed until they return.

Speculation on Mr. Bogan's chances has been growing in school circles during the last week. Three members of the school board, Mrs. W. S. Heffernan, William D. McJunkin and H. W. Caldwell, said yesterday that no opposition to Mr. Bogan's reelection is expected.

Mr. Bogan was elected in 1928 when Caldwell was president of the board to fill the superintendency left vacant by William McAndrew. He had served several months as acting superintendent.

Starting his career as an educator as a teacher in the old Washington elementary school after his graduation from the University of Chicago, Mr. Bogan later became principal of the Lane Technical High school. He was made first assistant superintendent under McAndrew in 1924. Mr. Bogan is 62 years old.

W. H. Baldwin, 64, Retired Manufacturer, Passes Away

Walter Hull Baldwin, 64 years old, who was until his retirement three years ago vice president of Adams & Westlake company, makers of railway supplies, died yesterday of heart disease at his home, 126 Lake avenue, Highland Park. TRIES TO END LIFE.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 19.—[Special.]—Harold C. Minnard, 39, 1025 North Broadway, an engineer, today attempted suicide by trying to hang himself in a cell at Central police station where he was confined on suspicion of larceny of $9.

BARKER RITES TODAY, FLOWERS OVERFLOW HOME

Funeral services for George [Red] Barker, gang boss who was assassinated early Friday morning, will be held today from his home at 426 South Austin boulevard, Oak Park. Burial will be in Mount Carmel cemetery.

Throngs of visitors, many of them drawn out of curiosity, gathered at the home yesterday and last night. Flowers overflowed from his first floor apartment into the front yard. Among the floral pieces was a ten foot cross of roses. The scene, one policeman said, was reminiscent of the extravagant wakes of slain hoodlums of more prosperous days. Three policemen were required to keep traffic moving past the home.

Meanwhile, police were working quietly to apprehend Barker's slayers. One clew lies in the machine gun with which he was killed. According to Detective Chief Schoemaker the name of the original owner of the weapon is known. He said the gun had probably changed hands several times, making the trail of ownership difficult. Barker, powerful in labor cliques, was shot down in front of 1502 North Crawford avenue.

NormanW. Ericson, Former Evanston Resident, Is Dead

One of the brothers, Melvin B. Ericson, is a son-in-law of former Vice President Charles G. Dawes. Funeral services will be held in Rosehill cemetery chapel at 4 p. m. tomorrow.

Beck Compares Nation to Alice in Wonderland

Congressman Hits Bureau Rule in Book.

"Our Wonderland of Bureaucracy" by James M. Beck [Macmillan]. Published June 21.

JAMES M. BECK, from 1921 to 1925 solicitor general of the United States, distinguished lawyer and lecturer, author of "The Constitution of the United States," and "The Vanishing Rights of the States," has in "Our Wonderland of Bureaucracy" reached rock bottom of what he considers the foundation of our structure of national ineptitude.

JAMES M. BECK.

The author constantly makes analogies between American governmental practices and the tales told in "Alice in Wonderland"—hence the title. He says: "By what stretch of the imagination can there be an analogy between Uncle Sam—by tradition shrewd, practical and worldly wise—and little Alice, whom the kindly genius of Lewis Carroll guided through a wonderland of fanciful dreams? If the reader will accompany the author through the strange wonderland of federal bureaucracy he may realize that in some respects the analogy is not without justification, and that Uncle Sam has many of the childlike and naive characteristics of little Alice, and that he, too, is dreaming in a wonderland of socialistic experiments in a government whose constitution was intended to be a noble assertion of individualism."

Through chapter after chapter James Beck unfolds the drama of American government. The first few chapters are extremely able accounts of the history of the constitution and the changing interpretations of it. With this background he introduces the reader to the present system of government that has been so corrupted that it is hardly recognizable as the outgrowth of an earlier idealism.

Mushroom Growth of Bureaus.

James Beck does not deny the necessity of a regulated and sensible form of bureaucracy; in fact, in this age of specialization he considers it unavoidable, but he deplores the multiplication of bureau after bureau within bureau. In less than a century, for instance, the department of agriculture has multiplied its bureaus one hundred fold, and an appropriation for its upkeep in 1932 included more than 247 million dollars. The author cites many other examples of this painful and wasteful process and calls it "The Mushroom Growth of Bureaucracy."

The author writes a chapter entitled "Bureaucracy and Its Propaganda," which in its revelations will be shocking even to the student of public affairs. For instance he says, "It seems that $50,000,000 a year is a conservative estimate of the direct and indirect cost of publicity which is annually unloaded on an unoffending nation by the publicity agents of the various bureaus of the federal government . . ." Publicity alone!

In the chapters "Bureaucracy in Uniform" and "Civilian Bureaucracy" the author analyzes the corruption and waste in the organization of the army and the navy and in the unnecessary participation of civilians in federal employ. He concludes, "Some day a President will gain immortality by the simple expedient of cutting down the federal pay roll to reasonable limits."

This book is avowedly propagandistic. The author has a thesis and he presents it unblushingly. The author is exceedingly well prepared, trained carefully in the history of the nation, possessor of an indisputable and formidable array of statistical information and for the most part just and disinterested. Briefly, his doctrines of political sanity and progress are—government by representation, a separate and independent judiciary, the freedom of the individual assured by some limitations upon constitutional authority and the government of the nation divided between two powers of equal magnitude, the state and the nation.

Grave Fears for Liberty.

James Beck pessimistically points to the trend in modern political current towards centralization and away from what would be called decentralization. In other words the power of the states is being taken away from them and invested in the nation, in a central authority, therefore denying the principles of individualism upon which the United States was founded.

He concludes, "Only one consideration will ever induce the American people to retrace their steps, and that is the ever increasing expense of bureaucracy; and even this consideration will not greatly affect them until they become 'tax conscious' . . . Of that spirit of constitutional morality there is little evidence today and it is this that has made me so pessimistic as to the perpetuity of our form of government. Each generation of Americans, to gain some immediate and practical advantage, will sacrifice some remaining principle of the constitution, until that noble edifice will one day become as the Parthenon, beautiful in its ruins, but nevertheless a useless and deserted temple of liberty."

THE FUN OF IT

Lovely Colors Enhance New Things for Baby

BY RHEA SEEGER.

THEY'RE starting very young, these furor clothes hounds, if you can judge by all the delectable looking collections for wee little people just begininng to be clothes conscious or being trained that way by generous aunts and grandmothers and all doting mothers.

In the Chicago shops that display these infantile creations to tempt one and all, feminine relations as well as friends, these cunning frocks and coats and all the rest of a fashionable youngster's wardrobe are fascinating enough to completely hypnotize any shopper, even those on a buying binge of their own.

The shops have thought of everything . . . and what they have to show for bassinet babies is something to make a very self-possessed tiny new American dimple and coo with approval . . . it seems, even a spartan mother can't resist these French made bassinets with dainty ruffles of net and yards of either pink or blue ribbon.

There are all sizes and shades of fine knitted wool afghans to wrap little hopefuls in, but one shop sells you on the idea of buying the kind with a frilled lace edging fully three inches wide . . . can't you imagine the devastating effect this will have as a frame around fat little rosy cheeks and a pair of baby eyes!

Somebody with plenty of imagination has used color for baby clothes, with some unusually lovely results . . . until you see your child frocked in a very soft shade of pink or blue or yellow, you will not have realized just what a luscious sight a baby can be in something else but white. These colored dresses are utterly adorable, made exquisitely with tiny hand run tucks and fine embroidery and the narrowest edges of lace.

When you begin to shop for clothes for the three year old, you'll be in a daze, trying to decide between sheer linens, lawns, clever little prints and soft piques and broadcloths.

Life will be just a bowl of cherries with some of them caught and copied as realistic appliques on a brother and sister outfit of white linen. . . . Little sister's frock has a pleated godet of dark blue linen to contrast the white . . . at the top of the godet a bunch of scarlet cherries hang to match the same sort of a bunch that decorates the suit worn by big brother. Another little girl's frock for the afternoon dressup parade is made of white organdy with narrow pipings of scarlet and this also goes in for cherries as a red decoration.

For all mother shoppers who are more than a little bit tired of the blues, and pinks and whites . . . there are kinds of yellow things . . . bewitching sheers made by French fingers which have the trick of combining colors so knowingly . . . sturdy linens with droll colored appliqued designs of funny animals and flowers . . . and some perfect little silk dresses made like smocks with embroidery.

Bibs sound hopelessly utilitarian, but not after you have seen the new ones, the quite large affairs that have cuddly puppies and friendly scotties in bright shades of red and blue, appliqued in almost life size on the fronts of these hitherto neglected necessities.

And these pups and other pets of the nursery are used generously on lots of pillows, trays, porridge bowls, and balls.

Society Plans Many Affairs for Democrats

Garden Fete and Tea Are 2 of Large Parties.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THIS week probably will be rather quiet in society, at least for those who were active in the social or political affairs of the Republican convention, but next week the Democrats will come into the limelight and the entertaining for them will commence.

There are two large affairs planned for Sunday: A tea from 4 to 7 o'clock for Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, always one of the "stars" of the Democratic national gatherings, which Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nash Hurley will give at Hurley Farms in Wheaton, and a garden party for visiting national committeewomen, delegates, alternates and distinguished visitors at the Lake Forest residence of the Clarence Norton Goodwins.

Preceding the Lake Forest party Mrs. Frank Fuller of Winnetka will entertain at luncheon at the Onwentsia club for the Franklin D. Roosevelts' daughter, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, and Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis.

The Hurleys are planning to give several informal dinner parties for other well known Democrats during the convention but plans for them are not completed yet. The Hurleys' daughter, Mrs. William A. Ryan, and Mr. Ryan have just moved into the beautiful new house adjoining Hurley Farms which the Hurleys gave their daughter for a wedding present, and it is probable that they will give a house warming as soon as they are settled, but they think that will not be until the Democratic excitement is past.

Mrs. Wilson will be with the Hurleys in the country on Sunday, but she has an apartment at the Blackstone hotel for the busy days that will follow.

The Marshall Fields are coming to Chicago the first of next week, but whether it is the convention or the season at Arlington that is attracting them, it is hard to say. Probably both. They are to be with Mr. Field's relatives, Mrs. Clifford Rodman and Mr. Rodman, in Lake Forest, during their stay and the friends they will bring them with them in their private car will visit in Lake Forest also.

Howard Linns Plan New Party.

The Howard Linns, who had such bad luck with the large party they had arranged for the visiting Republicans are planning another one for the Democrats, the special guests to be the William Wallace Lanahans of Baltimore, who are to be the John Wentworths' house guests. The Linn dinner is set for Wednesday, the 29th, and Mrs. Waller Borden is planning to give a dinner the night before.

Conde Nast will arrive early this week to join his wife, the former Leslie Foster, and their 2 year old daughter, Leslie, in Lake Forest, where Mrs. Nast and the baby have been since Friday with the mother's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Volney Foster. The Fosters are planning to entertain for the Nasts, who will be here through the convention but are making no definite plans until Mr. Nast arrives. The Foster boys, Volney and Archibald, will return this week from St. Mark's school to spend the summer in Lake Forest.

If the Democrats should take longer to nominate their candidate than did the Republicans and be here over the Fourth, it is doubtful if they would adjourn long enough for the delegates to make a holiday of the long week-end. The Democrats, you know, are averse to nominating on a Friday so if everything isn't settled by Thursday possibly the visitors will be here for the week-end.

Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank went to Lake Geneva for the week-end, but she'll be back in town tomorrow to make plans for the convention.

Wheaton Garden Club Exhibit.

Wheaton women who have been anxiously nursing their garden blooms toward perfection are planning to exhibit them at the Wheaton Garden club's annual show on Wednesday and their most earnest prayer now is that there will be no rain to spoil their carefully arranged displays.

Wheaton gardens are among the loveliest in all Chicagoland and the garden club's annual show is always one of great interest to the rapidly increasing number of flower lovers and horticultural experts. This year the show is to have a prettier setting than usual, for the George A. Stroms are giving the use of their large estate for the exhibit. The Strom place is on Orchard road, which branches from Warrenville road at Plamondon station. Arrows will be placed along the roads directing the way for the hundreds of visitors expected to attend. Groups from Lake Forest, Evanston, Wilmette, and other north shore towns will drive west for the show. And La Grange, River Forest, Hinsdale, and Oak Park garden club members, as well as visitors from all of the Du Page towns and from Kane county attend this show annually.

Nine Classes in Exhibit.

The Stroms' large riding arena will be the background for most of the classes to be exhibited, but there will also be effective outdoor displays in the gardens. The exhibits will be divided into nine sections: annuals, perennials, flower arrangements, vegetables, wild flowers, a miniature flower show for children, with nine classes of its own, table exhibits, special exhibits, and roses. There will be three prizes in each class and a special award for the most outstanding exhibit. Nurserymen will have a commercial exhibit.

Mrs. William Karcher, former president of the Illinois Garden Clubs, heads the judges' committee. Mrs. Henry Faurot of Riverside, Mrs. Joseph E. Callendar of St. Charles, and Mrs. R. R. Hammond of Barrington will judge the tables.

Mrs. H. H. Cosley is chairman of the show committee, which includes Mrs.

'Thunder Below' Is Love Triangle Set in Tropics

Capable Acting Is Chief Merit of Movie.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"Thunder Below" can mean either an earthquake or love, so an introductory quotation informs you. The title of the Chicago's current offering refers to love.

This is an intensely gloomy piece with nothing that I could find to recommend it save capable acting by the principals. The story's scenes are laid in a tropical country—South America I take it, though at no time is the locality mentioned so far as I could make out.

Here you find Walt, a representative for an oil company; his wife, Susan, and his best friend and business associate, Ken, living in adjacent dwellings.

Both men love the woman, though the husband has no inkling that Susan's heart is not all his own. . . . He goes blind—just as the other two have decided that they must tell him of their passion and go away together. . . . His affliction changes their plans and the cauldron bubbles with trouble till the B. E.

Charles Bickford has the only sympathetic rôle, and does the best work. It's hard to understand how any woman could care to pass him up even for Paul Lukas, who left me rather cold, this trip.

Miss Bankhead, reminiscent at all times of Garbo and Dietrich and their hollow cheeked, hot lipped boneless technique, is picturesque and makes the most of her rôle. Minor parts are handled creditably.

There's only one suspenseful scene in the whole shebang—and I'll let you find that for yourselves. Don't say I never gave you anything.

Direction was unremarkable, staging the regulation tropical stuff, scenery, barring one or two striking views of the ocean, has little to offer, and there are yards of the sort of dialogue that goes in one ear and out the other without making the slightest impression.

BUT—on the stage Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians . . . O, boy, O, boy, O, boy, O, boy O, B-O-Y . . .!

See you tomorrow!

First Children Off Tomorrow for Camp Algonquin Vacation

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

The first contingent of tenement mothers and children will be off on a special coach of a Chicago and North Western train tomorrow for a two weeks' vacation at Camp Algonquin. And in these times, readers, a vacation means something more than a change of environment.

For instance, however cheap food is now, it still costs something when there are close to 500 mouths to feed three times a day, as at Camp Algonquin. Clean beds and clean clothes, expert nurses, teachers, play directors, repairs on numerous dormitories, ice house, and dining hall, can't be had for nothing. It all takes money and the money must come from somewhere.

In past years TRIBUNE readers have come to the rescue, sending nice fat checks for the Camp Algonquin fund. In the past children of the more fortunate homes have spent part of their vacation time giving plays, selling lemonade, and holding circuses, the proceeds from which they gave to the fund. Every day from June to September, these gifts have enabled hundreds of tenement dwellers to enjoy their vacations at Algonquin. It is hoped that this year will be no exception.

The contribution announced on Sunday—the $1,000 anonymous gift—brightened the vacation prospect for the 2,000 mothers and children who are to visit the camp this summer. It gave courage in these difficult times—the revelation that Algonquin has a friend who will share, despite financial losses, an income with the tenement families.

But one contributors can't do the job alone. Ten thousand dollars must be raised this summer to provide these free vacations. If one contributor can give one-tenth of the total fund, surely there are others who might wish to be as generous in proportion to their incomes. A ten dollar check will provide one two weeks' vacation.

All contributions should be sent to the Camp Algonquin fund, in care of the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

Mary Pickford Declines to Run for Congress

Tells Clubwomen She Can't Make Race.

BY GEORGE SCHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 19.—A deputation of Los Angeles clubwomen and civic leaders went to see Mary Pickford to sound out Mary on running for congress from the Hollywood and Beverly Hills district.

Mary's answer was that just now there were plans in the air for entertaining some titled guests during the Olympic games; there was her work as an official hostess during the games to consider and still more exacting there was the necessity for pressing on with plans for her coming film which Mary hopes to start in July if possible.

"Right now," said Mary, "I think the best public service any one could do would be to produce a pleasing, popular, and cheerful motion picture.

"But, maybe in 1936," added Mary.

The politicians here will remember that. She's a liberal Republican.

Mary's start on her new picture, which intersperses humor with pathos and tells the story of a girl's sacrificing her own years and yearnings for a hoydenish sister has been delayed because of the serious accident of Frances Marion, her scenarist.

Miss Marion slipped on the stairs in her home and fractured one kneecap and has had to be taken to M. G. M. where one of her stories is being finished and to Pickfair on a stretcher. She will be in bed four more weeks and in the meantime is trying to operate a portable typewriter in bed so as to finish the Pickford story.

Some of the colored actors in "The Green Pastures," now playing here, have become the current lions of the movie set with the film actors and actresses visiting them backstage and inviting some of the group to be their dinner guests. Al Jolson has gone to see the show two more times, making his ninth and tenth visits in all. Two of the visitors to the dressing room of Richard B. Harrison, the patriarchal actor, were the son and grandson of former President Ripley of the Santa Fe railroad for whom Harrison once worked.

Chic Combination of Color, Material from Maggy Rouff

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The combinations of Paris fashions are many. It is a fashionable fad for women in the smart world to form their own, since there are so many to be found in the couturiers' salons it's impossible to fix on one, and one alone.

Velvet is worn with cotton, and so is silk, and so, for that matter, is wool. Elegantes of Paris like these irrelevant combinations that violate traditions. They also like unusual color combinations, such as blue with brown or pale green or pink with a black-cherry red.

Of course, this combination business takes an expert to result in superchic, and the ordinary woman is usually content with the tried and true traditions. However, there are certain unions of color and material that have been proved by the woman of distinction, and there's no reason for any woman to be timid about them.

There is the hot weather combination of a thin, semi-transparent silk and wool shantung coat with a transparent cotton frock. This is something that the ensemble, shown in our sketch today, achieves with distinction. It also achieves the exquisite color union of a black-red coat with a pale, pearl gray frock.

Maggy Rouff makes this coat, and it's for formal wear, of the color and material mentioned. The cut is slim and plain, and the sleeves are wide at the armholes. Spirals of gray astrakhan make them look wider. The dress is of pearl gray batiste, trimmed with twists and swirls of hand run tucks.

I. W. A. C. Program.

The Illinois Women's Athletic club will hold a Czechoslovakian program tomorrow evening. Mrs. J. F. Smetanka, wife of the Czechoslovak consul, is chairman.

Catholic Students Table Official Temperance Ruling

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

After lengthy discussion on Saturday as to what constitutes the demand of Catholic action regarding temperance, the national students' spiritual leadership convention, meeting at the Palmer house in closing sessions yesterday, decided to take no official action on the subject.

The 1,000 students from the Catholic colleges of the country, after discussion of motion picture censorship yesterday, also tabled that problem because of varying points of view expressed. There was developed, however, a general agreement that some form of governorship should be exercised over film production. It was pointed out that the students' discussions suggest no political reference, but rather that they are endeavoring to learn for themselves just what faithful adherence to the teachings of the Catholic religion demands of them as modern social problems are faced.

The encyclicals of Pope Pius XI regarding world peace was enthusiastically accepted. The establishment of a national oratorical week to foster the study of the principles and teachings of the Catholic church was asked in another resolution.

The convention offered formal support for the beatification of the Rev. Joseph Chaminade, who founded the societies of the Daughters of Mary and the Brothers of Mary in 1816.

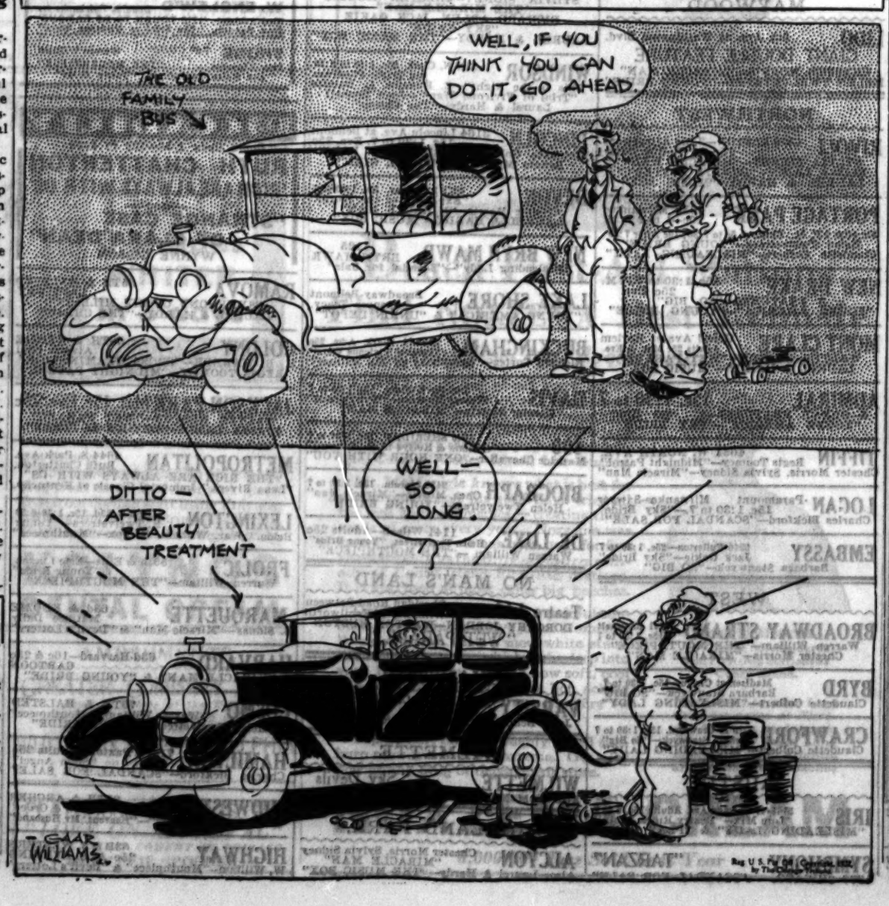
OUR SECRET AMBITION



Sudden Love

By
ELISABETH SANXAY HOLDING

SYNOPSIS.

Esmee Sully spends her forlorn young life between the office, where she is an inefficient typist, and a dismal home. The widowed Mrs. Sully loves her children blindly, but doesn't know how to direct their spiritual or physical needs. Lew, a year older than Esmee, is mingling in bad company. Cynthia, the oldest, has been deserted by her husband. Jimmy Consadine, a crook lawyer, forces Lew, whom he has in his power, to introduce his sister. Esmee is fascinated by Jimmy's grand manner, but finds him an unmanageable lover. Then she meets Michael Marriott, a young playwright, imbued with the futility of life. It's love at first sight. Esmee feels his need of her is real. Claire Cowley, Michael's sister, tells Esmee that Michael is engaged. But Michael tells her his engagement is broken; that he can't live without her, and wants to marry her. Esmee tries unsuccessfully to break with Jimmy. He accuses her of double crossing him and threatens to have Lew sent to jail. Esmee drives out to the country with him on Sunday. He forces her to accompany him to a roadhouse, where his word is law. Michael, who has trailed Jimmy's car, breaks in and rescues her. Jimmy swears he'll have Michael killed. Esmee doesn't want to tell Michael about Lew. She's afraid of Jimmy's evil power. Michael takes Esmee to spend the night at Claire's and drives her to her office next morning.

INSTALLMENT XXXI.

LOVERS QUARREL.

Esmee entered the office just as the clock struck nine. And her face was so softly radiant, she had so wonderful a look, with that flush in her cheeks, with her wind-blown hair, her soft shining gray eyes, that Miss Bartram felt sorry for her, without quite understanding why.

"She is so young . . ." thought Miss Bartram. "And she'll never in this world make a success in business. It simply isn't in her."

Within half an hour that radiance had faded, and a nervous dread and impatience possessed her.

"I hope Jimmy'll telephone early," she thought. "It's . . . I hate waiting like this . . ."

For Michael was gone, and with him had gone her feeling of confidence. She could pretend now to herself that she still had it. And before long, she could not even pretend. Jimmy was no longer a lurking menace to her whole life's happiness, which she could face and defeat with courage. She was remembering the actual flesh and blood Jimmy, and she knew, as well as she had ever known anything in her life, that her threat of going to the police would not disturb him. He was not to be frightened, not to be cajoled; he would not forgive, and he would not forget. He had Lew where he wanted him, and if he wanted Michael out of the way, he would know how to manage that.

"Then why don't you go home?" asked Miss Bartram.

All her old sick terror had come back. Miss Bartram noted how very white the silly young creature had become.

"Unstable," she reflected. "All ups and downs. That doesn't do in business."

"If I could be the one to die," Esmee was thinking, "Michael and Lew wouldn't be hurt. I—think I wouldn't mind—so awfully . . . I think I could die decently . . . I don't want to but I think I could . . ."

It was twelve o'clock and Jimmy had not telephoned. And he knew she went out to lunch at twelve. In the lobby of the building she rang up his New York address.

"Mr. Consadine is away," the usual amiable feminine voice answered.

"Has he—been home since Sunday?" asked Esmee. "I mean—I'd just like to know if he—got a telegram."

"A friend of his called last night and took the telegram and his mail."

"O . . . !" said Esmee, and was silent for a moment. "You can't tell me where I—"

"Sorry, I haven't any idea."

She tried Galiani's hotel again, but she got only a very uncivil reply that Mr. Consadine was not there. She was sure now that he had got at least one of the telegrams, yet he had not telephoned. He did not want to see her—now.

She could think of no way to protect Michael. She could not reach Lew. She could do nothing. Nothing. She was ready enough now to promise Jimmy to give up Michael, anything to save him. But she could not find Jimmy.

"Aren't you well, Miss Sully?" asked Miss Bartram.

The girl turned her head with a dazed and suffering glance.

"Well, I've got a headache, thank you," she answered politely.

"Then why don't you go home?"

"Well, no, thank you, I'd—rather stay."

Because she wanted to wait until after 4 o'clock when it would, she hoped, be too late to think of that license, and then call Michael.

At half-past two, Miss Bartram called her to the telephone.

"O, God!" cried Esmee in her heart. "O, please make it be Jimmy! Just let me speak to him . . . Just let me have a chance—"

But it was Michael's voice.

"Do I get a break?" he asked.

"I'm awfully sorry—but I'm—extra busy this afternoon," Esmee answered. "I can't possibly get away before the usual time."

"I'll call for you then, and we'll go out to dinner."

"I'm awfully sorry, but you see, Cynthia's going to be away—and I don't want to leave mother all alone."

"We'll take her," said Michael. "I'll be waiting for you at five, and we'll drive up and get your mother."

"I—I'd rather . . . I think . . ."

"I'll be waiting for you at five," Michael repeated, and there was a note in his voice she had not heard before. Michael was not to be so easily managed, after all.

"If he goes out to dinner with mother and me, he'll be safe," she thought. "And somehow I'll arrange for us to leave him at his apartment."

So she rang up Mrs. Sully, and told her of the invitation.

"But, my pet!" cried Mrs. Sully. "How very nice and kind of him!"

Esmee had tears in her eyes when she returned to her desk. For years, for almost as long as she could remember, no one had ever invited her mother anywhere. No one but Cynthia and herself.

And Mrs. Sully would have sat at home forever, watching, with her warm and tender smile, her children go out to what she hoped were good times. Her most unfortunate children, who had that sensitiveness, that sorry grace and spirit, and must go, all of them, unarmed into the world.

"You'd better take a couple of aspirins," said Miss Bartram, stirred to a great pity by the child's face. "I have some here."

"I wish—they were poison," thought Esmee. "I've brought nothing but harm and danger to Michael and to Lew. And now I'll have to make mother more unhappy. It would be better to be dead."

But they were not poison, and she was not dead and 5 o'clock came, and Michael was there waiting. He took off his hat and helped her into the car, but he did not smile.

"Look here!" he said, as soon as they had started. "What's the matter?"

"Nothing," she said.

"You can't lie to me!" he said. "It's—unthinkable . . . I've tried not to ask you questions. I've tried to shut up and not to bother you. But I can't any more. I could tell by your voice . . . And now that I see you . . . Whatever it is that worries you, you're not fit to handle it alone. You're only a kid. It's time you told me."

"No," she said. "Don't worry me."

"I'm going to know," he said. "Of course, it's something to do with that fellow Consadine. I'm going to find him and have it out with him—"

"No!"

"If I can't find him myself, I'll get some one to trail him for me. It's not going to be like this. Esmee, I don't see how you can be so secretive, so—well, damn it! so underhanded—with me. Esmee, we're lovers. There can't be this between us."

"O, let me alone!" she cried. "I said I'd tell you some day . . . Let me alone! I won't tell you anything—now. And if you go to see Jimmy—I'll never forgive you. I'll never marry you—never! You've got to swear you won't try to see him."

"I'll do nothing of the sort. The fellow has some hold over you. And you're so inexperienced you think—"

"Inexperienced?" she repeated, with ineffable bitterness. "There are lots of other things that you don't know anything about. Things—a person like you couldn't know about."

"And where do you imagine I've spent my life?" he asked. "Sitting at home, playing solitaire? Good God! For a kid like you to talk to me about 'experience.'"

Suddenly, incredibly, they were quarreling, with a heat, a vigor utterly foreign to Esmee.

"That fellow's got some hold on you," Michael said. "Or you think he has. You don't know how to handle him. But I do—"

"You'll just keep out of it!" she cried. "You have no right—"

"I have!" he said.

Disregard Gossip.

"Dear Miss Blake: I hear that my friend loves another girl. Why does he take me out if he loves another?

"WONDERING."

Maybe the boy's undecided. Meanwhile, disregard gossip.

Girl's Not at Fault.

"Dear Miss Blake: My girl and I broke off because she said I was very jealous and that I doubted her word. Did she do right? P. D. W."

Why wouldn't a girl break off with a man who doubted her word?

Home Is Place to Meet Dates, Counsels Doris

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"For the first six months I went out with him, he refused to call for me at my home. Then I refused to meet him any longer. After a six week's lapse he phoned and came to the house to get me. . . . He has never asked me to his home though he lives close by."

The question is why a nice girl would volunteer to meet her young man away from home for six months, when he lives but a short distance away.

One can appreciate two young people living miles and miles apart agreeing to a convenient meeting place to save time. But there is something irregular about a girl going out to meet a beau who lives within easy walking distance. It does put the girl in a light that is not flattering and her family certainly has a perfect right to criticise her suitor.

There might be home circumstances under which a girl would feel justified in meeting her beau away from home, as say, unfair parental interference or unjust disapproval of a young man. Or, suppose a girl were living in a rooming house where no provision for waiting escorts were made. A central meeting place would be all right for her.

It might be shyness on the young man's part, or an unwillingness to commit himself in the girl's parent's eyes as an assured future son-in-law. It might be rudeness. Rudeness based on that form of selfishness that indulges a young man's belief that the girl is glad to get him on any terms.

In any case, it is no way to go about making a hit with a girl of any refinement.

As for not introducing the girl to his own people, that, again, is most unflattering whether the reason is fear of parental disapproval or just a natural secretiveness about one's actions.

The case against the boy here is based on the old injustice of not being able to see the other person's side. No worthwhile girl enjoys being met away from her home to go on a "date." And the normal girl certainly does not enjoy being treated as an "affair" to be kept secret from the man's family.

Sex Education Booklet Guide for the Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Perhaps you're a new reader of this column. Perhaps you have your first baby. Or perhaps you are expecting a second baby, and your first one has to be told about it.

Or it may be that your very small son or daughter is asking the first simple questions about how human life begins. Also, it's possible that your older son or daughter is questioning you or needs fuller information to make him or her both natural and intelligent on the subject of sex. And surely our big boys and girls need that. This knowledge gained at home is their protection in the face of the influences that play upon them from the world at large.

It was to meet the varied needs of mothers and fathers, from babyhood, the beginning, through adolescence, that our "Sex Education" booklet was planned. As a matter of convenience, information for all ages was put together in one booklet and called by the general name "Sex Education."

Suggestions are made for the mother who is answering her child's first questions about babies, and also his later ones.

A book is suggested that can be read by boys and girls of 10 or so, themselves.

Suggestions are given for mothers' and fathers' talks with children of about 8 or 9.

A simple short introduction to biology is recommended—an excellent book for children of an inquiring turn of mind.

This "Sex Education" booklet will be sent on receipt of stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. Randolph Buck of Hubbard Woods has returned from a fortnight's visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Ackerman at New Canaan, Conn. She is not planning any other trips this summer, because she finds her garden (for which she has won many prizes in north shore shows) too alluring to leave.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Starck of Wellington avenue and their four children are in the Norcott house at Lawsonia on Green Lake, Wis., for the summer. The Paul Skinnerr of Lake Shore drive and their daughter, Virginia, have opened their country place at Lawsonia for the season, and entertain parties of guests almost every week-end. Smart Costume for Sports Spectator

Leila Hyams displays a dashing costume for the sports spectator.

Sports Type Frock of Printed Silk Crepe Uses White Pique for Contrast

WOMEN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

Much study has been given to the designing of this sports type frock, and the result is an unusually pretty dress. The front panel effect that starts with a double breasted bodice is slenderizing and collar and cuffs both are pretty. Printed silk crêpe in blue and white, with white piqué for the contrast and blue and white bone buttons makes a smart frock.

The pattern, 2824, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Tasty Cottage Cheese Solves Menu Problem

Its Appealing Coolness May Start, End Meal.

BY MARY MEADE.

Grandmother, in singing rhapsodies to cottage cheese, would have started with sour milk. But not I! For modern cooks are too busy nowadays to squander time on preparing foods which can be brought, delicious and inexpensive, to their doors for but a few cents a day. And especially so when these foods are far better tasting than any to be made at home.

And such is the case, in the estimation of most housewives, of cottage cheese. While occasionally you may wish to try your hand at homemade "curds and whey," for day in and day out satisfaction dairy-made cheese will, I believe, prove the more economical, time saving, and palate tempting arrangement.

But whatever the source, cottage cheese it is—for a whole army of tasty, health building dishes with which to answer the age old query of "What shall I serve today?"

Hearty sandwiches of cottage cheese, pimento, and salad dressing, or sandwiches filled with a luscious mixture of cottage cheese, chopped preserved ginger, chopped nuts, and lemon juice—those make mouth watering starters in the cheese line. Cool, piquant salads come next, with the sky for the limit of pleasant possibilities. An avocado cheese salad is an especial love of my family. For this, peel and cut an avocado in halves lengthwise. Remove the large pit and slice each half in long, slender wedges. Place on crisp lettuce, alternating pear slices with neat cones of cottage cheese. Place a larger mound of cheese in the center of the salad and top with a maraschino cherry. Serve this goodness with an orange dressing made by substituting orange juice for the lemon juice in French dressing.

Then, what a scrumptious celery or fruit stuffing we can make with not a thing but cottage cheese (one-fourth pound of it), a fourth cup of cream, and a fourth cup of chopped nuts. For a delectable surprise salad, hollow out the centers of whole canned pears and stuff with this mixture. Place each, flat side down, in crisp lettuce cups and garnish with mayonnaise into which has been whipped an equal amount of heavy cream, and several tablespoons of grape or currant jelly. Serve icy cold and just watch family appetites perk up!

Frosted cheese salad is one of these versatile customers which can be rung in at a half dozen places in the menu. It is a delightful change from a fruit cocktail for gracefully bowing in your meal. Piled in sherbet cups, it may serve as a cool accompaniment to a feathery luncheon soufflé. As a special salad course with crispy whole wheat wafers, it's quite in its element. And, of course, served in the swanky new individual molds and offered for dessert with steaming cups of coffee—well, you try it and supply the adjectives!

FROSTED CHEESE SALAD.

2 tablespoons gelatin
1 cup cold water
2 cups boiling water
1 cup sugar
½ cup lemon juice
½ pound cottage cheese
½ cup minced maraschino cherries
2 cups shredded cooked pineapple
1 small bottle stuffed olives, sliced
1 cup heavy whipping cream

Soak the gelatin in the cold water five minutes and dissolve in the boiling water. Add the sugar and a pinch of salt and stir until dissolved. Cool the mixture slightly, then add the other ingredients, folding in the stiffly whipped cream last. Turn into molds and chill very cold in the refrigerator.

Beach First-Aid Stations Find NOXZEMA Best Remedy

...greaseless, too, doesn't stain clothes!

"WE'VE tried just about every known remedy for sunburn at Coney Island First-Aid Stations—and we've found that the only sure way to relieve sunburn is to use Noxzema Cream," says John McMonigle, Chief of Coney Island Life-Guards.

Mr. McMonigle knows what is best for sunburn—he and his staff have tried all the well known remedies—treating thousands of cases every year. Noxzema was carefully tested—it has been used for five years steadily as the only sunburn remedy at Coney Island First-Aid Stations. It is also used at most other big beaches.

Don't take chances with a painful sunburn—get an inexpensive jar of Noxzema. It is not greasy, it's a snow-white stainless vanishing cream which sinks deep into your burned skin. Notice how soft, cool and soothing it feels on your hot, aching shoulders—how it takes out the "fire"—ends all pain instantly.

There's only one thoroughly tested sunburn remedy—that's Noxzema. Get a jar now at any drug or department store.

In Charge of Lifeguards and First-Aid Stations at Coney Island.

Noxzema has also been used for years at First-Aid Stations at Atlantic City, Asbury Park, Long Beach and other Atlantic and Pacific Coast Beaches

Sally Writes Exciting News for Children

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

I HOPE all my young friends, the boys and girls in and around Chicago, saw yesterday's TRIBUNE, for there was the most exciting kind of news for them. And just in case you didn't see it I'll tell you again what it was—plans for a glorious summer of parties.

This year, as in other years, the Sally Joy Brown department of THE TRIBUNE is planning a series of good times for its young readers. These will consist of parties, one each week, throughout the summer, to be held at the most interesting places in Chicagoland. Every one is invited to compete for invitations to them. The rules and regulations are so simple they can hardly be classed as such, the most important one being that you like a good time and can convince me of that fact in the letter you must write each week to be invited. There will be invitations for 100 boys and girls at each event, and I want these to be the ones who will have the best time.

We're beginning the series with a day at White City, the south side amusement park owned and operated by Herbert Byfield, and it's to be Thursday, June 30. And what a time you may expect to have! All the old rides you know about are still going strong out there and there are a number of new attractions which you'll be eager to see and hear and ride.

Well, there's a ride called the Water Scooters which is perfectly thrilling. It's a number of motor boats with gasoline motors which we can operate ourselves. We can ride around in the lagoon and have the swellest time colliding with each other and trying to avoid colliding. There are live burros we can ride and there's a collection of white mice that do the most amazing tricks and there's Capt. Hall's Mechanical Circus, a miniature show, all operated mechanically.

Most of you will remember the Flash, the Pep, the Giant Racing Coaster, the Ferris Wheel, the Merry-go-round and the number of other thrilling, exciting rides at White City but you won't know the Fun House which, by the way, has been re-christened Prehysteria. And what a fitting name! There's at least an hour's fun in this place alone with its wobbly walks, rolling barrels, slides and spinning saucers. They've added a number of prehistoric dinosaurs which you'll enjoy seeing, too.

But enough of this—I could go on for columns, there's so much to be said about White City and the fun we're going to have on our party day there. I know you want to get started at those letters which, by the way, must reach me no later than next Thursday, June 23. I shall select my guests from what they write for I want them to be the boys and girls who will enjoy such a party most.

In writing be sure that your name, address and age are included, have the letter reach my office no later than next Thursday, and address it to Sally Joy Brown, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Vapid Beauty Vogue Passes Into Discard

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"There is only one ugliness, and that is stupidity," says Ethel Mannin, observer of woman and her pulchritude, or lack of it. "Stupid women are always ugly, no matter how prettily their features are arranged."

Says a woman through whose beauty salons, situated all over the world, pass thousands of women per week: "Women are such fools. Everything to work with, but the desire to be good looking."

Good looks, rather than great beauty, is not only the vogue of the moment, but it is a vogue which every intelligent woman may be an active party to.

As Miss Mannin says: "We no longer say: 'Poor thing, she's so plain!' but, 'Good heavens, why doesn't she do something about herself?'"

By which is meant, why doesn't she reduce, why doesn't she put on weight, why doesn't she dress more becomingly, put on a little rouge, lipstick, and eyeshadow?

Certainly there is stupidity where there is no urge to take advantage of this historically fruitful beauty age in which we live. Ugly stupidity not to see that every woman has beauty possibilities! Well, if not exactly beauty—then, good looks, which, as said already, is enough for today's need.

The truth is that just prettiness of face isn't such a great asset these times. Intelligent attractiveness is the order of the day and though a nose may not be the right shape, a mouth be too wide, a woman with a sense of her possibilities, a clothes sense, a knowledge of makeup, a pursuit of the ordinary details of grooming can be just as attractive as she will need be to get by.

Think of the advantages woman has over man in this respect. Men cannot apply to the cosmetic arts to make up for nature's lack of generosity. Their clothes certainly add no note of pulchritude to the human frame. Yet, they put up a pretty good appearance all around, because of their shaves, haircuts, clean collars, and general grooming details.

It's true, as Miss Mannin says, that intelligent women cannot be ugly; that no woman with vitality or personality can possibly be ugly.

MORE PEOPLE MEAN MORE SALES

IF you have been looking at business through the wrong end of the telescope, take a tour of inspection through the advertising pages of The American Weekly.

It may open your eyes to learn how many important advertisers are selling merchandise through the medium of this Mighty Magazine, even in times like these.

A few very rich people and a reasonable number of millionaires are still left in the country.

Sell them if you can. But their buying power is insignificant compared to that of the millions of solvent families who constitute the volume market for automobiles, clothes, food and the other necessities and luxuries of life.

Today as always, the volume manufacturer's market is the people.

The advertiser who wants volume must reach buyers in tremendous volume.

The American Weekly reaches five and one-half million homes—nearly twice as many homes as are reached by any other magazine.

With commodity prices low and profits thinner, the manufacturer who wants black figures on his ledger must reach buyers at the lowest cost per buyer.

The American Weekly will carry your advertising in color pages into its millions of homes at a cost to you of less than ⅓ cent per family.

To sell goods today, the manufacturer must place his advertising where there are dollars with which to buy.

The American Weekly concentrates and dominates in the richest buying areas of the nation—in the great metropolitan centers as well as in the smaller cities and towns.

There are other important plus factors, too.

The American Weekly advertiser enjoys the added attention value of the most interesting magazine on earth. What better proof can you have of the reader interest of this publication than its circulation—twice that of any other publication!

Merchants are conscious of this tremendous circulation and are quick to stock and display merchandise advertised within its pages.

The American Weekly page is more than double the size of any other magazine page. A double spread is a colossus of display. It costs $32,000 and is the biggest color advertising unit purchasable in any national publication.

Here is a chance to dramatize the selling story offered by no other medium.

Where this Magazine goes

The American Weekly is the largest magazine in the world. It is distributed through 17 great Sunday Newspapers. In 558 of America's 995 towns and cities of 10,000 population and over, The American Weekly concentrates 70% of its circulation.

In each of 136 cities, it reaches one out of every two families
In 105 more cities, 40 to 50% of the families
In an additional 153 cities, 30 to 40%
In another 164 cities, 20 to 30%

. . . and, in addition, more than 1,750,000 families in thousands of other communities, large and small, regularly buy and read The American Weekly.

Where can you spend your advertising dollar more effectively?

CROWD OF 2 IS GUARANTEED AT BIG TITLE FIGHT

Schmeling, Sharkey to Attend.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 19.—On the theory that any money which the people do not spend will be taken away from them by the government, anyway, the Madison Square Garden corporation for several weeks has been trying to peddle tickets to the public for the Sharkey-Schmeling prizefight at a scale of prices ranging downward from $23. The advance sale has been a flop up to this time, however, and the indications are that the receipts for Tuesday night's bout will not much exceed $200,000. They might even fall short of that. In any case they probably will establish a modern low for a heavyweight championship production.

The prices for various sections of seats in the Garden's new arena, a large depression in the soil of Long Island City, have been revised abruptly downward in the last few days, but the first class tickets are still being held at $23, which is a brave, aristocratic gesture, if not good business. Will Carey, the president of the Garden, prefers that the new arena be not referred to as the Garden's big depression, and he also objects to its being called the Garden's big hollow, as hollow seems to suggest emptiness.

"I do not like to think of our new premises as a large emptiness," Mr. Carey said.

'Ray for Government!

However, it turns out that the customers either have very little money left for the government to take away, or, as between the government and the prizefighters, they would prefer to be victimized by the former. At least, in the case of the tax collector, they can sit still and make him come and get it. To contribute to Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey they must put up with the little discomforts usually encountered in crowds at prizefights and, on past performances, they have every reason to expect that Schmeling and Sharkey would give them less for their money, if possible, than the government.

Schmeling and Sharkey fought once before, two years ago, Schmeling winning the heavyweight championship of the world in a sitting posture in his corner after Sharkey had fouled him in the fourth round. Schmeling was not seriously fouled, for when the bell rang to start the ensuing round he started from his chair as though to resume fighting and was deterred only when his manager, Joe Jacobs, reminded him, "You have been fouled, you are too badly hurt to come out of your corner."

Up to the time of that prizefight, which drew $710,000 of the customers' funds, there had been a rule of the New York prizefight commission forfeiting the purse of any fighter who fouled out. But the prizefight commissioners, who are politicians, acting in the secret manner of politicians, had rescinded this rule of theirs just before the bout, so Sharkey received his entire purse.

Sharkey Is Fighting Free.

This prizefight finished the era of big money in the prizefight business. There has never been a big gate since then and in the present case, Sharkey will be fighting for practically nothing. He is receiving only 12 per cent of the receipts and it is common, if not customary, in such cases for the challenger to sign over most of his 12 per cent to the champion in payment for the business opportunity which the champion gives him in agreeing to meet him.

Joe Jacobs, who, with Sharkey, was to blame for the patrons' disappointment two years ago, also seems to be getting his needings under the current arrangement for he is compelled to find $100,000 a year for Schmeling before he begins to take down his customary managerial share. The indications are that Schmeling's earnings will not pass this minimum in this fight and that Mr. Jacobs will have to be content with 33 1-3 per cent of nothing. That is why he is extraordinary pugnacious toward various other heavyweights this year.

"After we lick Sharkey," Mr. Jacobs has been saying, using the managerial "we," "I think we will go over to England and slap down that Larry Gains and then maybe we will come back here and belt out Mickey Walker and Carnera. I am very savage this summer."

Is Schmeling Too Light?

Sharkey has filled out physically in the last two years and now has the rather plump body lines of maturity advancing into early middle age. Schmeling retains his boyish figure and is exceedingly healthy according to the insurance companies' standards, but he has lately been a few pounds underweight at 187 and is reported to have trained too fine. If that is correct his task will be the harder because his strategy requires him to block punches with his face in the early rounds of a fight and come on in the last seven or eight rounds to win by superior condition and endurance. He is, when in good condition, one of the greatest athletes of his time and comparable to Harry Greb, of whom it used to be said that he would fight fifteen first rounds.

Sharkey argues well and has a formidable appearance, but his career is a record of great failures under pressure and no reason has been discovered for expecting him to make good this time.

It's a Delicate Touch When Berloehr Lands K. O. Punch

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 19.—The deft, sensitive hands that shape with meticulous care and precision delicate bits of glasses into the finest lenses the world has known would hardly be suspected of possessing the adamant qualities needed to deliver a knockout punch to the jaw of a husky middleweight boxer.

But when Hans Berloehr of Stuttgart steps into the glare of the ring lights in Soldiers' field, Chicago, on the night of July 26 to bear Germany's standard against the Chicago Golden Gloves team, boxing fans will see a craftsman who combines in his ten fingers the sensitivity of a fragile instrument and the annihilating force of a pile driver.

For Hans, one of the finest of German lens makers, perhaps the best there are in the world, is the German amateur middleweight champion and perhaps German boxing fans as a whole don't use even that qualification—the best there is in the world. His position at the top of his craft he won by eleven years of painstaking labor in the Contessa Nettel works in Stuttgart; his position at the top of amateur boxing he won after six years of ring apprenticeship in hundreds of battles.

His Start Inauspicious.

Berloehr drifted into boxing by chance and his progress to the amateur championship bespeaks his indomitable courage, for his start as a boxer was anything but auspicious. Born in Stuttgart 25 years ago, he was by nature and environment endowed with a rugged physique. His native city, once the residence of the kings of Württemberg, is a romantic spot, steeped in the traditions of ancient Germany. Wooded hills overlook the town which has slowly crept up their slopes. Hidden among the trees of beautiful parks are fanciful castles that look down upon the river Neckar and a scene of fairylike loveliness.

Hiking in this part of the world is sheer delight, and from early boyhood Hans and his two brothers trudged over these hills, reliving in fancy the many legends that shroud that romantic spot, a pastime that did much to develop the lad's strength and stamina. But the little tow haired boy's daily roaming through these delightful surroundings stopped abruptly when he was 12 years old.

His father died then and his mother left home to work in a factory to support her three boys. Two years later Hans himself went to work in the Contessa Nettel works. For four years he worked as an apprentice, learning the trade of grinding lenses. So thoroughly did he master it that he is now one of those extremely lucky boys who still have a job. He has only one ambition—to hold the job and earn enough money to ease the burdens of his aging mother. And that ambition is still far short of realization. She can't retire yet, for both of Hans' brothers are out of work. The younger has been jobless for a year and the incomes of both Frau Berloehr and Hans are needed to keep the family together.

Little Time for Recreation.

His work left Hans little time for recreation, and most of that he spent wandering amid the sylvan beauty of the Württemberg hills. Occasionally he played soccer football, at which he showed marked ability. He had no idea of ever becoming a boxer. In fact, he scarcely knew what the sport was until one night four years ago, when a fellow worker took him to the Police Sports club in Stuttgart.

He watched several bouts and then, with considerable amusement, he donned a pair of gloves, boxing a few rounds to try out this new sport. He arrived home, resembling a rainbow, his hands, face and body bearing ugly

COLLINS RESIGNS; M'MANUS NAMED TO LEAD RED SOX

Shauno Loses Hope for Cellar Tenants.

Boston, June 19.—(AP)—The trials and tribulations besetting Bob Quinn, president of the last place Red Sox, were increased today with the resignation of his manager, John [Shano] Collins, who wired from Cleveland he was so discouraged he could not go on.

Quinn, on Collins' suggestion, appointed Marty McManus, the Red Sox's aggressive second baseman, to carry on as acting manager and turned his thoughts to the selection of a new pilot.

"It was all out of a clear sky to me," Quinn said. "I had no inkling he was so discouraged until I talked with him yesterday, when he made it plain he couldn't keep on going. I gave him every opportunity to reconsider."

Braves Steal Support.

The disastrous season of the Red Sox to date has been emphasized in the eyes of the usually charitable Boston fans by the surprising showing of the Boston Braves, now in second place in the National league.

Collins, the fourth manager to come and go under the nine years of Quinn's régime, was a hero of the pennant winning Chicago White Sox of 1917 and 1919 and was one of the few Chicago players who emerged unscathed by the Black Sox scandal of the 1919 world series.

He came to the Red Sox in 1920, remaining until 1925, when he was released to take over the managership of the Pittsfield, Mass., Eastern league club. He managed Des Moines in 1926 and 1927, returned to Pittsfield as manager in 1928 and 1929, and took over the Des Moines club again in 1930.

McManus Still Popular.

His record as a minor league manager was impressive. He won a pennant for Des Moines and always finished fourth or better. He was named manager of the Red Sox on Thanksgiving day, 1930.

McManus, a veteran of 12 years in the majors is one of the few Red Sox players still popular with Boston fans. A native of Chicago, his major league career began with the Browns in 1920. He later was transferred to Detroit and came to Boston by the waiver route a year ago.

CROSSES FINISH LINE VICTORIOUS, THEN CRASHES

Toledo, O., June 19.—(AP)—Karl Young, Chicago driver, won the 100 mile automobile race at Fort Miami dirt track today, but cracked up immediately afterwards on the turn and suffered minor cuts and a broken finger.

A pitman, William Zwart, Grand Rapids, Mich., was struck by a car driven by Art Placky, Waukegan, Ill., driver who finished third in the 52 lap race, when he attempted to cross the track with a bucket of water for a disabled car. Zwart was taken to a hospital where attendants said both legs were fractured.

DIEGEL SHOOTS ANOTHER 69 ON U. S. OPEN COURSE

Flushing, N. Y., June 19.—(AP)—For the second time in a week Leo Diegel toured the Fresh Meadow Country club's tricky course in 69 strokes today in preparation for the national open golf championship, starting there Thursday.

Diegel's round was one under par. He, alone of all the professionals and amateurs who have played the course, has broken 70 this year.

Ky Laffoon of Denver didn't shoot any 69 today, but he did make a hole in one. His mashie niblick shot off the tee at the 146 yard ninth rolled into the cup.

Copper Cities League Ends Half Season All Tied

Globe, Ariz., June 19.—(AP)—Creating a situation sports authorities here believed to be unique in baseball, the four teams in the Copper Cities league ended a 20 game schedule of the first half season with 10 victories and 10 defeats.

76 MILES AN HOUR—TRY IT AROUND THE BLOCK

Only 100 miles to go. The field in auto race at Roby gets under way on first lap of the long grind around one mile track. A crowd of 20,000 watched the contest, which attracted most of leading speedway pilots of the country.

Stubblefield Victor in Auto Race at Roby

Stubby Stubblefield of Los Angeles, Cal., drove his Gilmore Special to victory in the 100 mile A. A. A. race at Roby yesterday before a crowd of 20,000. Stubblefield's time was 1:18:40.2, an average of 76.27 miles an hour.

Al Gordon, Long Beach, Cal., finished second, driving a Lion Tamer special. Bill Cummings of Indianapolis came up with a burst of speed in the last few laps to take third money. Cummings drove a Boyle Valve Special.

Spectator Run Down.

The cars were flagged down to nominal speed for several minutes after a spectator had been struck by one of the cars while he was attempting to cross the track and get into the infield.

Stanley Aurewicz, 32 years old, of 3606 Colfax avenue, South Chicago, a janitor, was the man hit by the racing car. Both of his legs were broken. He is in St. Margaret's hospital, Hammond. En route to the hospital the ambulance carrying him collided with another car.

There was only one other accident. The Lion Head Special driven by Howdy Wilcox, who finished second in the Indianapolis 500 mile race, went into a spin at the foot of the stretch on the 74th lap and crashed into the inside guard rail. A blowout was the only damage and Wilcox resumed racing after the tire change, finishing fourth.

Frame Finishes Tenth.

Fred Frame, 500 mile winner, was slowed up by a tire change and had to stop again when the hood of his car came loose. He wound up in tenth position.

The other drivers finished as follows:

Sam Ross, Ann Arbor, Mich., fifth; Bob Carey, Anderson, Ind., sixth; Joe Russo, Indianapolis, seventh; Russ Snowberger, Philadelphia, eighth; Freddy Winnai, Philadelphia, ninth; Lou Schneider, Indianapolis, 1931 champion, eleventh, and George Barrager, Chicago, twelfth.

The race narrowed Frame's lead for the 1932 racing championship to 30 points. Frame received only 10 points for finishing tenth yesterday, raising his total to 690. Wilcox collected 70 points for fourth and climbed to 660. Stubblefield, winner of the Roby test, remains far down the list.

The winner. Stubby Stubblefield of Los Angeles, Cal., averages 76.27 miles an hour to lead the other 13 drivers to the finish line.

NO HIT, NO RUN GAME PITCHED BY NEWARK STAR

Newark, N. J., June 19.—(AP)—Rufe Meadows, Newark southpaw, pitched a no hit no run game today against the Montreal Royals in the second game of a double header in the International league. Newark won, 4 to 2 and 8 to 0.

Meadows yielded four bases on balls and fanned one. Two of the walks came in the last inning.

BOB PECK, CULVER SPORT HEAD, DIES ON GOLF COURSE

Culver, Ind., June 19.—[Special.]—Bob Peck, head coach and athletic director of Culver Military academy, dropped dead of a heart attack on a golf course here this afternoon. The former all-American center at Pittsburgh in 1915 and 1916 was playing with Maj. Russell Throckmorton when he was stricken.

Peck, whose full name was Robert Durham Peck, was 39 years old. He never was known to complain of ill health and before he left for the golf course there were no outward signs of an ailment. His widow and two children, Sarah, 10, and Robert Jr., 7, survive.

Akron Club Fails; Move Franchise to Canton, O.

Cleveland, O., June 19.—(AP)—Central league officials today gave up their attempts to save the Akron team and transferred the franchise to Canton. The new Canton team will make its first appearance as a member of the league Tuesday night at Dayton.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Sam Jones yesterday pitched another whale of a ball game against the New York Yankees—his second six hit affair in the series—but he had the grave misfortune of being hooked up against one John Allen, a very stingy person who allowed the White Sox only three scattered singles and allowed nary a Chicagoan to reach second base.

The ultimate result of all this splendid pitching artistry was an old fashioned 1 to 0 decision. To the disappointment of some 28,000 Chicago partisans, the Yanks came out with that one marker and, obviously, the zero rolled into the red side of the White Sox ledger.

It was the third shutout of the year for Allen, the Senators and the Browns previously having capitulated to his deception. It also was the third shutout to be suffered by Jones after pitching great baseball.

Three Singles, One Scratchy.

All three hits made off Allen were singles, and the first of these, by Grube in the third inning, was scratchy almost to the point of being no hit at all. There would have been no lynching had the official scorer called the incident an error by Sewell. The second hit, also by Grube, came in the sixth and was a roller over second, just out of the reach of Lazzeri. The third one was a liner to right, made by Pinch Batter Luke Appling with one out in the ninth.

Only one other Chicagoan reached first base. Sullivan drew the only base on balls off Allen with two out in the second. There was no error on either side.

For the second time in the series just ended Jones allowed the Yanks only six hits and one run. He won the opener because of an eighth inning rally which gave the Sox a 2 to 1 victory. Yesterday anything that resembled a rally remained just around the corner.

Combs Scores First Run.

Combs, first man up in the game, scored the only run. The nature of the ornery tabulation was such that it caused no second guessing, unless you want to blame two passes on to the fact that Sam could have warmed up a little longer.

Combs started off the contest by running the count to three balls and two strikes. Then he walked. Sewell filed to Funk, but Ruth walked. Gehrig forced Ruth, Selph to Kress, for the second out, Combs taking third. Then Chapman, previously one of the big busts of the series, proceeded to drive in that lone run of the afternoon with a line single to left.

After the first inning the Yankees were able to develop only two major threats. In the fifth Ruth drew his second walk with two out and went to third on Gehrig's double. Chapman lined to Funk for the third out. Ruth led off the eighth with a single, held on while Gehrig filed to Fothergill, and had to do some retracing when Funk made one of the best catches of the year to capture Chapman's drive to right center. Dickey then forced Ruth.

Funk's catch was the best of a number of sensational plays that Ellas made during the series. The young man currently is rated as one of the first flight fly chasers in the majors.

Slow Down Yank Sluggers.

While the Sox were able to capture only one game in the four game series with the Yanks, the lowly Chicagoans played havoc with the record making propensities of the brutal Yanks. For instance, they are seeking a record for homers by one team and now have 68. Gehrig made his No. 14 in the opening game and Dickey made his No. 11 in the second game. In the next two, Lyons and Jones squelched the circuit boys completely.

The Yanks also have been accustomed to collecting from a dozen to 20 hits a game, but they made only six in each of the games against Jones and only seven against Lyons. They were nearer their mark when they made 10 in the contest started by Gaston.

All of which did not help the Sox much in the league standings, though the circumstances were heartening to those who have been disappointed in the earlier failure of the Comiskey pitching to function to the extent anticipated.

LEST WE FORGET, GUSTO HAS NOTED GRANDMAS, TOO

Hamburg Mares Are Part of Man o' War's Family.

BY FRENCH LANE.

If the late John E. Madden, famous Kentucky thoroughbred owner, were alive today, he would probably remind you again that the mares he produced on his Hamburg nursery in Kentucky had more than a little to do with Man o' War's reputation as a sire.

Once more it was that combination—a cross of a mare from Hamburg Place with the blood of Man o' War—which was responsible for the newest hero of American racing, Gusto, the colt which captured the American Derby on Saturday.

The same cross produced such great racers as Crusader, Mars, Maid at Arms, Edith Cavell, and Florence Nightingale. The one exception was American Flag, the daddy of Gusto. American Flag's mother was from an English family—Rol Herode.

Yet American Flag himself returned again to Hamburg Place and was mated with Daylight Saving, to produce Gusto.

Daylight Saving is a daughter of Star Shoot, which was one of Madden's famous sires. Crusader's dam was Star Fancy, another daughter of Star Shoot. The dam of Mars, another of Man o' War's best sons, was Christmas Star. She also was a daughter of Star Shoot. So unquestionably most of the successful folks in Man o' War's family come from this Man o' War-Star Shoot cross.

Gusto was in fine condition yesterday when scores of visitors called around at his stall. There wasn't a scratch or a blemish on him; so it looks like this is one 3 year old that will weather the strenuous campaign for the thoroughbreds of his age.

His next engagement will be in the Arlington Classic. He gets a shot at Fareno, the Belmont Stakes winner, in this rich race. He also will face new opposition in the star fillies, Top Flight and Evening.

Gusto can still go on and become a great champion; yet folks shake their heads and sort of doubt it, after studying his time of 2:10 3-5 for the mile and a quarter.

He at least isn't going to scare many of the other able bodied 3 year olds out of the $70,000 Arlington Classic nor out of the other remaining 3 year old specials.

Stepenfetchit and Osculator are not going to quit trying to win a 3 year old special. The former was moved over to Arlington Park yesterday to begin training for the Classic. Trainer Jim Healey and other in the Whitney stable retinue blame the heavy track for Stepenfetchit's bad showing in the American Derby.

As for Osculator, he is becoming the most consistent second horse in the country. He was second in the Withers stakes, second in the Belmont stakes, and second again in the American Derby.

There is one remaining stake race on the Washington Park program. It is the Francis S. Peabody Memorial handicap, at a mile and a furlong, that is to be run next Saturday, the final day of the season at the Homewood track.

Gallant Knight proved he is ready for this engagement last Saturday by working a mile and a quarter in 2:06 3-5. This was four seconds faster than the Derby was run over the same track. He will likely rule as the favorite in the Peabody Memorial.

ALKLINGBEIL SETS NEW RECORD IN 25 MILE BIKE EVENT

A crowd of 5,000 yesterday saw Al Klingbeil of the South Chicago Wheelmen beat a field of 52 riders at the Humboldt park race course, to set a new record for the 25 mile open race, sponsored by the Henry Playground Wheelmen in conjunction with the Amateur Bicycle League of America. Klingbeil's time of 58 minutes 43 1-10 seconds was 1 minute and 55 seconds faster than the old record of 1 hour 23 3-5 seconds, set by Anthony Beckman in 1923 at Brooklyn, N. Y.

Bobby Thomas of Kenosha, five time national champion, won the first seven laps, but tired in the last stages and finished third, five feet back of Al Vertenten of the Belgian-American association. Augie Benson, unattached, was fourth, with Fred Guth, Henry Playground, fifth. Winners of the seven 2½ mile races:

First novice—Bob Desplenter, Henry Playground.
Class C—Al Eisentraut, Henry Wheelmen.
Class B—Al Klingbeil.
Class A—Andy Caiet, Belgian-American club.
Second novice—Ray Ligman, Berwyn.
Second class C—Bob Desplenter.
Service stock commercial—Roy Thompson, unattached.

Henry Playground, with 24 points, was first in team scoring, with the South Chicago Wheelmen and the Belgian-American club tied for second with 16 points apiece. The other clubs finished in the following order:

Kollmen Athletic club, Kenosha, Wis., 12; Barrett Athletic club, 7; Berwyn, 6; unattached, 5; Calumet City Wheelmen, 3; United Wheelmen, Kenosha, 5.

MACCABEES BEAT SPARTA, 3 TO 2, AS SEASON CLOSES

The professional soccer season closed yesterday when the Maccabee All Stars, Triner cup victors, defeated Sparta, Pell cup and league champions, 3 to 2, at the Kuppenheimer stadium, 18th street and Keeler avenue. In the first period both teams scored one each, Hubert and Vlick making the goals. Playing with the wind, the Maccabees added two more, one by Hubert and the second by Coughbrough. Vlick, near the close of the game, scored Sparta's second goal. Lineup and summary:

But the very fact that was so inept at the sport spurred him on to try it again and to master the science of boxing. He watched the others practicing in the ring. Then he tried again. This time he sent the other fellow out of the ring adorned with rainbow hues, and he decided to learn the game.

Becomes More Skilled.

Every week he would turn up at the Stuttgart Police Sports club for training. In 1927 he had acquired such proficiency that he was asked to represent the club in an intercity match at Mannheim, in the neighboring state of Baden. Hans knew he wasn't ready for competition of that sort, but his friends pressed him and he acquiesced, only to lose his first bout of any importance.

"I nearly lost the courage to take on new fights," he said.

But three weeks later he won his first victory. As a member of the Police Sports club team he journeyed to the university town and, pitted against a young student, he showed such evident superiority that he was encouraged to go on with his ring career.

After his sixth fight Hans was asked to box for southwest Germany against Bavaria. It was a signal honor for a novice. He was matched this time with Fred Littman of Munich, not only the best middleweight in Bavaria, but also the amateur champion of all Germany. Littman whipped the newcomer from Stuttgart, but this time Hans was not discouraged. He remembers that night in the Munich ring as the turning point of his boxing career. Until that time he had fought men who knew little more than he did about the sicence of the sport, but from Littman he learned things.

Preseverance Is Rewarded.

This new knowledge he applied in his subsequent bouts and in the following spring his perseverance and industry was rewarded. He met and defeated the pick of the middleweights of southwest Germany and then in the spring of 1928, he met Karl Schwartz for the championship of the district. There wasn't much to tell about that fight. It was all over too quickly. Hans sparred through the first round, feeling out his opponent, tapping him lightly now and then until he satisfield himself that Schwartz was no match for his skill.

When the bel lended the first round he knew that he was the new champion. He stepped out at the opening of the next round and with no further preliminary, sent a right cross to Schwartz's jaw. The count was a mere formality; before Schwartz slumped to the floor, it was evident that he could not rise again to meet Berloeher.

For three years Hans defended his title against all comers, always striving to add to his growing list of honors the championship of all Germany. It was only a matter of time—all boxing fans in Germany knew that, for the fame of the young Stuttgart battler was spreading over the nation. Last spring in Hamburg, at the national championship tournament, his ambition was realized. He fought his way through to the finals, utilizing his knockout punch repeatedly along the way to make his progress easier.

He defended that national championship once in Munich and again in Berlin, where he won the right to represent Germany in the international bouts in Chicago. To make his position more secure, he whipped the all-European middleweight champion for good measure.

ARABIAN HORSES REACH FARM OF H. B. BABSON

Seven Arabian steeds, purchased in Egypt by H. B. Babson, were delivered yesterday to his Four Pines farm south of Hinsdale. The horses, of desert stock, comprise a stallion, five mares and a colt. They will be used for breeding purposes. Mr. Babson bought them from Prince Kamal el Din and Prince Mohamed Ali in Cairo, Egypt, and from the Royal Agricultural Society of Egypt. The horses stood their long sea voyage to the United States well, it was said by Frank Cullen, Australian horseman who accompanied them.

BEAT THE BEARS, EXPERTS TELL 8S AT POUGHKEEPSIE

California Looks Best in Annual Regatta.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 19.—(AP)—Twenty-one spidery eight oared shells from eight universities skimmed the waters of the Hudson today in final preparation for the intercollegiate regatta tomorrow.

All except Syracuse of the eight big crews that will battle in the dusk tomorrow evening down the four mile racing stretch idled through last practice, along with the fleet of six junior varsities and seven freshman crews. All were saving their energies for the big races.

Experts agree that victory rests among four crews—the mighty eight of Cornell, Jim Ten Eyck's powerful, easy flowing Syracuse crew, and the two boatloads of giants from the far west, California and Washington.

Navy Counted Out.

With scarcely a second thought, Buck Walsh's first Navy crew, defending champion and the dark horse that scored so sensationally last year, is relegated to the second division, along with Rich Glendon's Columbia eight, Rusty Callow's Pennsylvania eight, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

In the three mile junior varsity race, Syracuse, Cornell, Navy, and California have been rated into the ascendancy with Columbia and Tech filling out the field. Pennsylvania is the only undefeated eight in the two mile freshman dash, but both Cornell and Syracuse are dangerous contenders and Navy has greatly improved in practice here.

Ky Ebright's Californians, again seeking the double honor of Poughkeepsie victory and an Olympic championship as in 1928, came east with a record of decisive triumph over Washington on the coast. Sly timers along the shore have caught this powerful eight in a four mile time trial of 18 minutes 23 seconds, far under the record the Bears set at 18:35 4-5 in 1928.

Huskies Look Strong.

Strangely enough, Washington, explaining the California defeat as due to the wrong sort of rigging in rough water, has been keeping pace with the Bears in training, while Cornell alone has bettered California's trial.

Weather prospects are doubtful, with the customary rain a possibility.

The lineup for the three races in order of lanes from the west shore and the starting times follow:

Freshman, two miles, 4:15 p. m. [E. S. T.] 1—California; 2—M. I. T.; 3—Navy; 4—Syracuse; 5—Cornell; 6—Columbia; 7—Penn.

Junior varsity, three miles, 5:15 p. m. 1—Syracuse; 2—Cornell; 3—Navy; 4—M. I. T.; 5—California; 6—Columbia.

Varsity four miles, 6:15 p. m. 1—Syracuse; 2—California; 3—Washington; 4—M. I. T.; 5—Cornell; 6—Navy; 7—Columbia; 8—Penn.

JACK MAYPOLE GETS 2 FIRSTS IN OUTBOARD MEET

Cincinnati, O., June 19.—(AP)—A 15 year old high school boy, Jack Maypole of River Forest, Ill., won major honors in the open section of the midwestern intercollegiate regatta today on the Ohio river.

Maypole, who also raced his outboard craft to victory in two events of the collegiate section yesterday, finished first today in classes B and C. While awarded B on points, he spun over the five miles at an average of 37.894 in one heat, and in C his average for the three heats was 42.848 miles per hour.

Ray Hulett of Chicago won the class A event on points, and J. T. Milliken of St. Louis captured class F, with an average of 44.39 miles per hour. Art Jacobs of Chicago, who failed to place, made the best time with 34.12 miles an hour in one heat. Tommy Estlick of Waukegan, Ill., who holds the world's outboard record of 56.20 miles per hour, was forced out in the first heat by motor trouble.

Warneke's a Farmer Boy, but 9 Wins Isn't Pitching Hay

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 19.—The east, which invariably takes on a "show me" attitude whenever anything from the west is involved, now is about ready to acknowledge that in Lonnie Warneke the Cubs have not only the prize rookie of the season, but a pitcher who in time may accumulate a record comparable to the few all time greats of the baseball trade.

What the 23 year old Arkansas farmer boy did to the Giants yesterday convinced the few remaining skeptics. No matter how bad the Giants may be, the feeling hereabouts is that you have to beat them to prove you're good. Well, Warneke not only beat them, but amased them. They were proud of the fact that they hadn't been shut out all season. Warneke did that, too, and such a job is extremely difficult in the coffin shaped Polo grounds, where any kind of a pop fly close to either foul line can drop into the seats for a home run.

Secret Is Control, Speed.

Now they're asking what is the secret of the success of this youngster, who burst in on the scene so unexpectedly. His secret is no different from that of other pitchers who are or have been standouts. The youth has remarkable control, as has been evidenced in the twelve games in which he has started, nine of which he won. He has amazing speed. No less an authority than Rogers Hornsby believes him faster than Grover Alexander in his heyday, and as fast as Dazzy Vance in his prime. Warneke's delivery, however, differs from that of Alexander, in that Alex threw side arm and Warneke inclines more toward the overhand method.

Warneke, including one inning in which he relieved Smith against the Cardinals on May 24, now has pitched a total of 112 innings. In that time he has walked only 30 men. He hasn't exceeded four passes in any game and hasn't yet passed two successive batters. He has given up 31 runs, or an average of 2.58 runs per game.

Six of the 31 were scored off him recently at Brooklyn on a bone head play and fielding errors after he had gone as far as the seventh with the count 2 to 0 in his favor. That is the only one of his twelve starts that he didn't finish.

Here's Record for Season.

Here's his complete record, which, if nothing else, shows that his mates seldom provided him with many runs on which to win:

April 15—Defeated Reds, 3 to 2; 8 hits, 2 passes, 9 innings.
April 23—Defeated Reds, 2 to 1; 9 hits, 4 passes, 12 innings.
April 30—Defeated Cards, 5 to 3; 7 hits, 4 passes, 9 innings.
May 4—Defeated Pirates, 4 to 1; 6 hits, 3 passes, 9 innings.
May 10—Defeated Giants, 9 to 2; 5 hits, 2 passes, 9 innings.
May 15—Lost to Phillies, 7 to 6; 12 hits, 2 passes, 9 innings.
May 20—Lost to Reds, 3 to 2; 8 hits, 4 passes, 11 innings.
May 24—Relieved against Cards; no hits, 1 pass, 1 inning.
May 27—Defeated Reds, 6 to 4; 12 hits, 4 passes, 9 innings.
May 31—Defeated Cards, 3 to 1; 6 hits, 1 pass, 9 innings.
June 7—Lost to Brooklyn, 2 to 1; 8 hits, 1 pass, 7 innings. [Three runs charged against May.]
June 11—Defeated Braves, 2 to 1; 6 hits, 1 pass, 9 innings.
June 18—Defeated Giants, 3 to 0; 6 hits, 1 pass, 9 innings.

The only teams that have escaped Warneke to date are the Dodgers and Phillies. It was the Phils who shattered his five game winning streak in Chicago a month ago; but the quiet young man hopes he can make amends for that during the four game series which the Cubs open in the Phils' hatbox park tomorrow. If Warneke is used in that series it will not be until the last game. Charley Root, who has been in the bull pen for a couple of weeks because he is the only member of the staff skilled in the art of rescue, will be restored to a starting rôle tomorrow.

They're Still Leading.

Thus far the journey through the east hasn't been a howling success, from the standpoint of victories, but the Cubs still are in first place, and Hornsby will be satisfied if he can return to Wrigley field with a lead of a couple of games. That doesn't sound like much of an advantage, but it will be impressive because it will have been accomplished on foreign grounds, which always have been the undoing of recent Cub teams. They never lose many in their own park, so if they can get back there at the top they should increase the advantage before starting on another invasion.

Cuyler's worth to a team which is badly in need of hitters already has been made evident, and he still is a long way from being himself as a batter. The four games he has played since recovering from a foot fracture were against the Giants, two of which the Cubs won. Cuyler tripled to score two runs, which grabbed one of the decisions, 2 to 1. Yesterday he hit a homer to help in Warneke's 3 to 0 victory. Until his foot is fully recovered Cuyler will remain in right field, where there is less ground to cover. However, this is a small matter, because Johnny Moore is doing an able job in center.

ZEIGLER NINE WINS, 7-3.

Benton, Ill., June 19.—[Special.]—The Zeigler Coals beat the Benton Coca Colas here today in a ninth inning rally, 7 to 3, after trailing, 3 to 2, for eight innings.

Athletics Here Today for Series with White Sox

The Athletics, still rated champions of the American league, but currently worried a little about capturing their fourth successive pennant, will open a four game series against the White Sox at Comiskey park this afternoon. Art Smith, rookie from Toronto, will be given his third opportunity to show something in the rôle of starting pitcher.

Yesterday's game started six minutes ahead of time as a result of several drops of rain. The haste was unnecessary for the contest was played in sunshine from the third inning on.

Benny Chapman, the base stealing champ of 1931, completed his first theft in the fourth inning yesterday. Prior to yesterday he had difficulty in getting on base and in one previous attempt at stealing was speared by Charley Berry.

Funk got the biggest hand of the year when he came in after his great diving catch of Chapman's fly in the eighth.

Ruth ended yesterday's game just as he ended the one Saturday—by catching a fly from Hayes' bat. It is the Babe's custom to throw the ball to the nearest bunch of kids. Yesterday he tried to follow his usual custom, but an usher caught it, and kept it, despite the protests of the potential recipients. There ought to be a law.

GEORGE LOTT AND MRS. HACK WIN TRI-STATE TITLES

Cincinnati, O., June 19.—(AP)—George Lott of Chicago, national amateur star, beat Frankie Parker, 16 year old Milwaukee player, today to win the men's singles in the Tri-State tennis tournament here. He triumphed 5-7, 6-2, 4-6, 6-0, 6-3.

Lott was forced to play earnestly to hold down the Milwaukee boy. Erratic at first, Lott quickly steadied. Parker played with bursts of brilliance that defied his senior's efforts, but, wearied with the pace of the last few days, the young national boys' singles champion could not maintain his pace, and Lott's consistent play finally wore him down.

Mrs. Dorothy W. Hack of Sacramento, Cal., wife of Stanley Hack, Chicago Cubs baseball player, became the Tri-State women's singles champion by defeating Miss Clara Louise Zinke, Cincinnati, 6-1, 6-0.

Parker partly alleviated his disappointment of losing the men's singles by capturing the junior singles from Paul Iams, Dayton, O., by scores of 6-0, 6-0.

PROFIT TAKING QUICKLY HALTS RISE OF WHEAT

G.O.P. Session Slight Market Factor.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Strong efforts were made to advance wheat and cotton prices last week. The absence of follow up orders on bulges, however, brought out profit taking, with a lowering of prices to new levels. There was an undercurrent of strength at times.

A great deal of attention was given by traders to the Republican national convention, which was in session, but its influence as a bull factor was negligible. Within a week the Democratic convention will convene in Chicago.

Trade leaders, while optimistic for a time early in the week, were uncertain at its close. They believe that decided changes for the better in the financial and general business situation are necessary to revive speculation the world over.

Rains and Black Rust.

One hope that the wheat bulls entertain is the possible continuance of rains in the southwest, particularly in Kansas, delaying harvesting, and of black rust in the American and Canadian northwest. The latter usually develops around July 1. In some years it has started in a week before that date, and in others a few weeks later. Should there be serious injury to the American and Canadian spring wheat crop, traders say it might help the situation by bringing in outside speculative buying, but otherwise the outlook for higher wheat prices is not encouraging. Speculators in grain futures now are confronted with an increase in the tax to 5c per $100 value, as against 1c at present.

Hedging sales from the southwest started as new wheat began to move in fair volume last week, Fort Worth alone having 105 cars on Saturday, the largest receipts so far. On the other hand, the visible supply is decreasing, while export business fell off, averaging only about 500,000 bushels a day.

Await Farm Board Decision.

The grain traders would like to know what the farm board intends to do after July 1. Its agreement with the trade not to sell more than 5,000,000 bushels of wheat monthly for export expires at that time. The impression prevails that the present agreement will be continued, but traders would like to be certain on this point.

Foreign conditions are more mixed, but on the whole fair. Rains have fallen in Australia and Argentina and improved conditions there. At the same time world shipments are expected to decline.

Wheat prices were irregularly lower, although there were several sharp upturns, but on Saturday the lowest prices were at the lowest levels since last October, when December sold at 44⅝c, and cash wheat in August dropped to 45c.

On Sept. 25, 1931, October wheat in Liverpool closed at 46⅝c, and on last Saturday July in that market was 50¼c, while a week ago the finish was 53⅝c.

Details for the Week.

Closing trades on July wheat at Chicago were at 48@47⅞c; September, 50⅛@50⅝c, and December, 53⅛@53c. Winnipeg July wheat finished at 54c and October at 56⅛@56¼c. Net losses at Chicago for the week were 3⅛@3½c. Prices follow:

Corn for Export.

Sales of 95,000 bu American white corn for export via Montreal last week gave the corn traders something new to think about, as it has been a long time since any corn was sold for export. Argentina took foreign markets away from the United States years ago. With a big surplus in this country, traders see no reason why corn should not be sold abroad in competition with Argentina.

Stocks of corn in the interior are said to be large and the movement small, while the shipping demand is irregular.

Crop prospects are generally good, although northwestern Iowa, which had a severe drought last year, is exceedingly wet at present.

At the close July corn was ¼c higher, having been at a good premium early in the week, while other months are off 1¼c. July closed at 29⅝@29½c, September and December, 31½c. Prices follow:

Fairly good buying of December oats by local and northwestern interests featured trading, while other deliveries were more or less neglected. Prices remain low, while crop prospects are favorable. Leaders Urge Trade Parley Act on Debts

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 19.—A reconsideration of intergovernmental debts, reparations, tariffs, and other trade barriers is essential to the success of any international economic conference in the opinion of a majority of the 53 leaders of finance and business who have replied to a questionnaire sent out by the League of Nations association. This was disclosed today.

In view of the general feeling that collective action is necessary in a world-wide crisis, the association now plans a nation-wide campaign "to muster a body of public opinion large enough and influential enough to affect the action of congress in the matter," George W. Wickersham, president of the association, announced.

Leaders in many of the country's basic industries responded to inquiries based on the results of a survey recently conducted for the association by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler. Mr. Wickersham said that the greater number were of the belief that any conference of the powers which omitted "these vital questions" was doomed to failure.

Unity of Opinion.

"The replies to the Butler questionnaire revealed an astonishing unity of opinion among a group of men all noted for their wisdom in economic matters," Mr. Wickersham stated. "All were in accord that collective action was necessary in a crisis world-wide in origin and effect, and although a few demurred the greater number were of the opinion that such a conference, to be successful, must consider the questions of intergovernmental debts, reparations, and tariffs."

While Mr. Wickersham did not refer specifically to Secretary Stimson's announcement on May 31 that this government has barred war debts, reparations and disarmament from discussion at the international economic conference tentatively planned for London in the fall, it was apparent that the league's announcement was directed at the administration's stand.

Among those who in reply to Dr. Butler indicated their belief in the league program were Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad; Felix Warburg, John W. Davis, Silas H. Strawn, former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, and Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors.

Views of Chicagoans.

Among Chicago replies to the questionnaire were the following:

Malvin A. Traylor, president First National bank—"If there is to be an international economic conference, the advisability of which I seriously question at this time, it seems to me obvious that its work will be incomplete unless it considers all the factors now affecting economic conditions throughout the world."

Silas H. Strawn, former president United States Chamber of Commerce—"Our government is committed to the position we are not directly interested in reparations and that problem must be first settled by the governments most interested before we can consider any suggestions about recasting governmental debts. I do not see how any international conference can accomplish much unless reparations, intergovernmental debts and tariffs are considered."

George M. Reynolds, chairman executive committee, Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company—"It is my belief that a proposed economic conference can accomplish most if it is given one or two specific tasks to do and these should include raising level of commodity prices and tariff adjustments. Intergovernmental debts and reparations are controversial questions which could perhaps best be dealt with the governments direct."

Many Dividend Meetings Scheduled for This Week

This week will be well studded with dividend meetings, as more than a score of important corporations are scheduled to take action. Meetings which Wall street will follow with keenest interest as those of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit corporation, Corn Products Refining, Great Northern railway, Reading railway, and United Gas Improvement.

FREIGHT LOSS OF N. Y. CENTRAL 24 PCT. IN 1931

Annual Report Reveals Revenue Drop.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 19.—The New York Central railroad moved 113,945,000 tons of freight in 1931, compared with 150,046,000 in 1930, a drop of 24 per cent, it is shown in the annual report for last year. As a result freight revenue declined to $245,897,087 from $307,177,575, or 19.9 per cent. The number of passengers carried decreased from 72,951,000 in 1930 to 63,166,000 in 1931, passenger revenue declining from $111,184,744 to $86,304,507, or 22.3 per cent. Through passengers decreased 1,012,000, or 29.7 per cent; local passengers, 3,874,000, or 20.3 per cent, and commutation passengers 4,897,000, or 9.6 per cent.

Classes with Losses.

The report contains a list of classes of freight in which there were "major decreases" resulting in "serious losses" of revenue. The list, which shows the tonnage of freight and the revenue therefrom in 1931, with the decreases in each by comparison with 1930, follows:

[Three ciphers omitted.]

	Tons.	De-crease.	Reve-nue.	De-crease.

Expenses Are Reduced.

How operating expenses were reduced to offset the declines in revenue is shown in the following table, which enumerates expenditures in 1931 and their decrease from 1930:

	Amount.	Decrease.
Maintenance way	$48,391,853	$16,441,042
Maintenance equip.	81,509,925	22,247,468

Tra. for inv. cred.	248,545	*474,153
Total	$307,065,680	$69,663,737

*Increase.

As was previously reported, operating revenues were $382,190,182 in 1931, against $478,918,347 in 1930 and net income was $2,430,101, or 49 cents a share of capital stock, against $35,981,792, or $7.21 a share, in 1930.

The report shows that the New York Central railroad advanced $4,752,733 to the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria corporation last year. The corporation leases space from the New York State Realty and Terminal company, a New York Central subsidiary. The New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad in 1931 advanced $5,000,000 to the terminal company in connection with the construction of the hotel. In March the hotel corporation asked for deposit of its 7 per cent bonds under a plan by which interest and sinking fund would be payable only out of income in return for modification of the lease obtained from the terminal company.

Waldorf-Astoria Action.

The New York Central increased its investment in the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria from $198,644 in 1930 to $202,339 in 1931, and its investment in New York State Realty and Terminal company property from $2,229,694 to $2,460,411. The New York Central's advances to building companies other than the Waldorf-Astoria in the Grand Central district were in general reduced in 1931. However, the $4,742,733 loan to the Waldorf-Astoria increased the total of advances of this kind from $13,163,996 to $17,718,877.

The report shows holdings of Cleveland property at $1,027,968, compared with $3,532,451 a year previously. The decrease represents the transfer of property near the Cleveland Union terminal, in which the New York Central holds a 93 per cent interest to the terminal.

RATES TO CONVENTION BRING BUYERS FROM ALL PARTS OF NATION

An upward trend in the turnover of seasonal goods at both wholesale and retail, better news from the automobile distributors of the local area, and a better employment tone in middle western agricultural circles characterized the last week, according to trade observers of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Taking advantage of the low railroad rates to Chicago available during the Republican presidential convention here last week, buyers came from all parts of the country. All the leading wholesale and retail concerns of the city took advantage of this situation by offering special bargain sales. The result was a decided upturn in purchases, with the total volume practically equaling that of the same week a year ago. Cotton piece goods and other items of women's apparel had an unusually large turnover at prices reported exceedingly low. Dry goods clearance sales held during the early part of the week resulted in a decided spurt in this field of merchandise.

Sales by local distributors of automobiles in the lower priced class made a better showing. One manufacturer is reported to have added workers at a local assembling plant. A recent sharp price reduction by a company producing medium priced automobiles resulted in a pickup in customer interest and sales.

NORTH WESTERN RAILWAY GIVEN SAFETY MEDAL

The Chicago and North Western railway has been awarded the E. H. Harriman gold medal for safety for the year 1931. This award, which each year is given the railroad doing the most to promote life conservation and accident prevention, will be made at a luncheon today at the Union League club in New York. G. B. Vilas, general manager of the North Western, will receive the medal on behalf of his road.

Last year the employés casualty rate for the North Western was 1.58 per cent. This rate (based on the killed and injured per million man hours worked) is said to be the lowest ever set by a class 1 railroad working 100 million man hours or more.

Further reasons for making the award were due to the fact that no passengers have been killed in train accidents for almost three years; that highway crossing accidents have been reduced from 76 killed and 180 injured to 59 killed and 119 injured in the last three years in the face of steadily mounting automobile traffic, and that officers and employés have shown keen coöperation in promoting the safety cause.

Chicago Organization to Aid N. Y. Land Study

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 19.—A scientific analysis of New York City's real estate and taxation structure is to be made for the Equitable Assessment association by the Institute for Economic Research. This was announced today by R. V. Calder, president of the association. The Institute for Economic Research, affiliated with Northwestern university and headed by Dr. Richard T. Ely, one of the world's foremost land economists, will make an exhaustive study of assessed and true values of real property in New York City for 1932.

Lynn Shoe Concern Orders Indicate Stocks Are Low

Manufacturers in the Lynn, Mass., district report additional orders for summer shoes and early inquiries for fall wear, indicating that stocks are low in stores.

Cautions Owners of Realty Bonds on "Sharpshooters"

BY AL CHASE.

Owners of bonds in the North Gables apartments at 1610-18 North boulevard, Oak Park, have been cautioned by Barnet L. Rosset, chairman of the protective committee for Straus Brothers Investment company issues, that "sharpshooters" are busy gunning for their securities. In his statement urging the depositing of bonds, Mr. Rosset said: "We understand that certain people have been acquiring these bonds at very low prices with the intention of preventing concerted action by the bondholders, knowing that a substantial profit should accrue for their benefit.

"We feel it our duty to warn you that the sale of bonds in this manner is a sacrifice to your own interests as well as those of the other bondholders who no longer can receive your cooperation in their attempt to obtain that return of their original investment which is rightfully due them."

The North Gables apartments contain forty-seven suites with a total of ninety-five rooms. The building was erected seven years ago and was financed through a $162,500 first mortgage bond issue at 6½ per cent, since reduced to $139,500. Interest and prepayments defaulted on Dec. 15, 1931, and bonds were called for deposit the latter part of January of this year. On March 31, 1932, the receivership on the second mortgage was extended to the first mortgage.

Receiver Makes Report.

Samuel C. Levin, receiver, reports that for the period from Oct. 19, 1931, to March 31, 1932, the operation of the property resulted as follows: Cash on hand at start of period, $1,824; receipts, $7,895; total, $9,719. Operating expenses were $2,734, payments on refrigeration contract, $1,305, and payments to second mortgage holder, $5,500, making total disbursements of $9,539 and leaving a balance on March 31 of $180.

"This income is not to be considered as satisfactory and is not representative of the potential earning power of the property under normal conditions," said Mr. Rosset. "It's logical to assume that at some later date it'll be possible for the property to produce an income more nearly consistent with its physical or replacement value, which the committee's appraiser states is considerably in excess of the outstanding first mortgage."

The bondholders' protective committee, of which Mr. Rosset is chairman, is made up of the following members: Earl G. Krumrine, A. S. Craven, Charles J. Young, and Louis J. Borinstein, president of the Indianapolis chamber of commerce.

North Chicago Hospital.

Fred E. Hummel, trustee in bankruptcy for the North Chicago hospital, 2551-53 North Clark street, reports a cash balance on deposit at the Broadway Trust and Savings bank of $215. His statement of receipts and disbursements from Nov. 20, 1931, to March 8, 1932, is lacking in details. It merely states that the gross income was $23,705 and the operating expenses were $23,490. He gives no items whatever in the expenditure of this $23,490.

This is a Lackner, Butz & Co. $600,000 issue at 6½ per cent. Holman D. Pettibone, president of the Chicago Title and Trust company, is chairman of the bondholders' protective committee and Walter C. Palmer is secretary. Bonds were called for deposit on July 7, 1930.

Mary E. Feely Apartments.

Twenty-six of the forty-eight suites of the Mary E. Feely apartments at 6511-25 Ellis avenue were occupied on March 31, 1932, Frank J. Spencer, receiver for the property, reported yesterday. Following is his statement of receipts and disbursements from Nov. 17, 1930, to March 31, 1932:

Receipts—
Gross income		$12,901
Disbursements—

Cash balance March 31, 1932		$ 531

This was a Whiteside & Wentworth issue of $55,000 at 7 per cent, now paid down to $43,000. T. E. Williams is secretary of the bondholders' protective committee. Chester R. Davis is chairman.

AMERICA USES 20,391 TRILLION B. T. U. OF ENERGY

Washington, D. C., June 19.—(AP)—National production of energy in the form of coal, oil, natural gas and water power in 1931 was reported today by F. C. Tryon of the bureau of mines to have been 9.9 per cent greater than in 1921 and 23.3 per cent below 1929.

The total supply of energy last year was placed at 20,391 trillion British thermal units. In the boom year of 1929 the supply was 26,534 trillion British thermal units, while in 1921 it was 18,563 trillions.

Coal remained by far the largest source of energy in 1931, contributing 56.5 per cent of the total supply. Water power furnished only 8.5 per cent; domestic oil, 25 per cent; imported oil, 1.4 per cent, and natural gas, 8.6 per cent.

3 POINT PROGRAM FOR INSURANCE MEETING HERE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 19.—The executive committee of the national convention of insurance commissioners at a meeting in Chicago this week are expected to approve a three point program which calls for the adoption of an emergency increase of 25 per cent in workmen's compensation rates throughout the country, reduced commissions to agents on premiums above $500 and a plan for rating through which careful employers will receive substantial rewards. Following the action at Chicago, the companies will carry their proposal to the insurance authorities of each state, who will have the final decision in the matter.

Expects Cigaret Industry to Stabilize Earnings

Continued decline in cigaret withdrawals and keen price competition indicated some decline in earnings of leading tobacco products companies, but Standard Statistics company believes that the industry over the next few years may be able to stabilize earnings at a level some 15 to 20 per cent below the peak results of 1931.

WAITING MOOD STILL PREVAILS IN WALL STREET

Leaders Eye Events at Lausanne.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 19.—The financial community is expected to continue in its waiting mood when the new week on the stock exchange opens tomorrow. The last week was one of disappointment to many of the traders, who regarded it as a period of test. The inability of the stocks, almost without exception, to pierce the top level of the month, even when pushed along in an optimistic session, caused some doubt as to whether a real rally is possible under present conditions.

The brightest feature of the current market, according to the speculative fraternity, is the absence of any intensive selling movement. There was a bit of profit taking on several occasions recently, but the tide at no time approached a major unloading and the market on both the up and down side was quiet and orderly.

Watches Lausanne Parley.

Wall street is watching the progress of the Lausanne conference for its next move. Until this week, the stock market has not been influenced to any extent by the conference, but the traders believe the time now has arrived when the conference may swing into action. The offer of Great Britain to cancel war debts and reparations, the opposition of France, and the decision that the final solution largely depended upon the attitude of America is inclining stock market investors to move rather slowly right now.

The daily trend of advances and declines for last week shows an erratic market. Last Monday 99 stocks advanced and 180 fell off. There was one new high and 15 lows. On Tuesday the market reversed itself and rose 214 to 89 with one new high and 12 lows. Wednesday it continued its advance, clocking off 309 advances and 90 declines with two new highs and ten lows. Thursday the advance began to slip and only 212 advances to 125 declines were registered. There were no new highs. Friday was a bad day. Only 64 stocks showed a gain and 292 slid downward. There were 12 new lows and no highs. Saturday trading was almost at a standstill with only minor fluctuations in either direction. A third of the list remained unchanged.

Judgment is Suspended.

Such uncertain movements and the confining of the list to a narrow trading range reflects that judgment remains suspended on domestic and in-

CREDIT CONGRESS OPENS DETROIT SESSIONS TODAY

Senators Dickinson and Glass to Talk.

With national leaders from the business and political worlds studying its program during the week, the Credit Congress of Industry and the thirty-seventh annual convention of the National Association of Credit Men in Detroit is awaiting the call to order this afternoon at 2 o'clock. More than 1,000 of the nation's leading credit executives will be in attendance at the week's sessions.

Included among the speakers during the week will be Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa, and Gov. Wilber M. Brucker of Michigan.

Will Discuss Credit Basis.

The convention keynote address will be presented today by Henry H. Heimann, executive manager of the National Association of Credit Men. His subject will be "Working Credit Means Working Men," an analysis of the important place of the credit factor in the return to normal business conditions. Charles F. Kettering, president and general manager of the General Motors Research corporation of Dayton, O., is scheduled to address the delegates on Wednesday morning, followed by Lloyd Garrison, special assistant to the solicitor general of the United States, who was actively in charge of the investigation of national bankruptcy conditions, which resulted in the present bill presented by President Hoover to congress in March, calling for radical revision in the handling of bankruptcy matters.

Preceding the address by Senator Glass on Thursday morning will be a talk by Lionel D. Edie, president of the American Capital corporation, on the subject of the excessive internal debt of the United States and how it can be liquidated.

To Talk on Reconstruction.

Max B. Nahm, vice president of the Citizens National bank in Bowling Green, Ky., and member of the federal reserve board of that district, will speak on "Reconstruction Financing" during the Thursday afternoon program.

Friday morning will be featured by the address of Senator Dickinson, which will concern itself with the policies of political parties and the reconstruction of business.

The Credit Congress of Industry, which will be held on Tuesday, is the newest development at the annual convention and will be opened by Shirley E. Haas, secretary manager of the Retail Grocers' association of Louisville, Ky. He will speak on the new competition. Following this address, the general session will form about twenty group meetings for individual industries, each group containing credit executives of the same or similar industries, for discussion of common industrial and credit problems.

GERMAN EXPORT SURPLUS GAINS SHARPLY IN MAY

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, June 19.—The surplus of exports over imports in the statement of Germany's foreign trade for May is nearly double the excess reported in April. This was attained, however, by an abnormal decline in imports, which were reduced to 351,000,000 reichsmarks, or almost exactly one-fourth of the average monthly import of 1927. Although exports have fallen less rapidly, the month's total is only one-third of the highest post-war level, which was reached in October, 1929.

On that basis of comparison, therefore, the decline in exports has been more rapid than the decline in imports. In particular, exports to the United States, France, Great Britain, and the Netherlands have fallen sharply. Exports from the iron industry—bars, joists, sheets, and wires—have increased, but there has been a sharp drop in shipments of machines, textiles, and chemicals. Notwithstanding the shrinkage in import of raw materials to the record low sum of 178,000,000 marks, it is officially stated that stocks of raw materials held in the country are sufficient for months to come.

Lumber Production Runs 50 Pct. Below Last Year

Production of lumber continues to run about 50 per cent below a year ago, the National Lumber Manufacturers' association reports. For the week ended June 11 output was 122,928,000 feet, and orders exceeded this cut by four per cent.

GASOLINE, SUGAR BRIGHT SPOTS OF WEEK'S TRADE

Merchandise Also Shows Better Tone.

New York, June 19.—(AP)—While most business barometers in the last week showed activity at lowest ebb in more than a decade, the weekly mercantile reviews reported that retail buying was showing surprising strength under the circumstances.

Moreover, the graphic charted records of business trends, kept on a day to day schedule by leading statistical organizations and business houses, indicated that the prolonged decline of over two years was once more showing some signs of "flattening out."

Sugar, Gasoline Higher.

The decline in commodity prices, despite a further break in wheat prices, was tempered by price advances in sugar and gasoline. The downward drift of heavier manufacturing lines was materially softened by a slight increase in automobile manufacturing and in structural steel orders.

Electric power production in the week ended June 11 was 11½ per cent under the corresponding week of last year. Prior to the week ended May 28, the falling off had amounted to 12 to 13 per cent for a number of weeks. April production figures indicate that the current decrease has been due principally to the falling off in industrial load. In fact, sales of power to smaller consumers in April increased 2 per cent over the March figures and home users bought 3 per cent more current than the month before.

Steel Production Lower.

Steel production fell last week to a new low figure well under 20 per cent of capacity. Steel scrap prices reacted a shade. Meanwhile, automobile production continued to hold the gains registered over April, but this was due largely to increased Ford production, now at 5,000 cars daily. Other manufacturers with the exception of one or two low priced lines were curtailing.

Freight car loadings totaled 447,337 in the week ended June 4, including the Memorial day holiday. This was about 70,000 less than the week before and was in line with the usual decline for that holiday week. Coal shipments registered a particularly sharp drop.

Sugar Rise Bright Spot.

The rise in sugar prices was one of the bright spots of the week. Since June 1, raw sugar quotations have advanced about 50 per cent in the sharpest rally to be scored by any commodity in a long time.

Advances in gasoline prices during the week were somewhat marred as a favorable influence by an increase of 2,200 barrels in average daily crude oil production. Since gasoline prices were initially marked up on April 1, there has been reported an increase of about 18 per cent in drilling operations.

RISE ON CURB QUICKLY BRINGS LARGER SELLING

New York, June 19.—(AP)—A narrow upward movement throughout the curb market early last week gave way to some selling and prices reacted from their highs. Trading, however, diminished on this setback and the market ended the week quietly.

Professionals appeared to have been interested in the advance during the first three or four sessions, basing their greater optimism on the firmer bond market, cessation of gold losses, and prospects that congress would adjourn without passing legislation which the market might regard as disturbing. When short covering was reduced, however, leaders lacked much support from other sources.

Utilities may have been helped a little by the smaller decline in electric power production; there were numerous temporary rallies in common stocks of this group. Preference shares showed a tendency to improve in sympathy with the investment market's tone.

Industrials and specialties managed to hold a fairly satisfactory market position. Great Atlantic and Pacific, Singer Manufacturing, Swift International, and a number of others worked higher, some making rather sharp advances. Hiram Walker was helped by the prominence given prohibition discussions, pushing up more than a point to a new high.

Oils were quiet. News affecting the industry included announcements of higher gasoline prices in some districts, but there seemed to be some doubt as to what effect drilling inspired by higher crude quotations might have on production statistics. Sugar issues rallied with the improvement in that commodity.

BANK OF ENGLAND GOLD HOLDINGS INCREASE AGAIN

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, June 19.—The Bank of England's purchase of another £2,610,969 gold this week has increased its stock to more than £145,000,000, as against a trifle over £141,000,000 in the middle of May. The source of these gold additions to the reserve has been a surplus of gold imports. In April gold imports into England exceeded exports by £6,700,000 and the excess for May was £4,266,000.

The May imports, aggregating £11,113,720, were made up of £4,649,770 from the Transvaal and southwest Africa, of £2,836,125 from India, of £2,116,067 from the United States, of £845,673 from New Zealand and £239,812 from Australia. Of the month's £6,847,706 gold exports, £3,045,623 was exported to the Netherlands and £2,871,065 to France.

STEEL INDUSTRY MAY GET 2,500 TON BOSTON JOB

Cleveland Mills Now Most Active in Country.

Cleveland, O., June 19.—(AP)—An order for 2,500 tons of pipe which Boston may possibly place in July is the largest specific business in prospect for the steel mills, the magazine Steel said today in its weekly review.

Cast pipe is a shade more active, the magazine said, Concord, Mass., placing 1,000 tons and Boston 630, with Milwaukee inquiring for 4,000 tons of 24 and 36 inch pipe. Recent tank work taken by the Chicago mills total 1,000 tons of plates.

Prices on finished steel, the magazine said, considering the demand, are holding remarkably well, and not in years has the industry been making so determined a stand. But the tendency downward in raw materials is unchecked.

Cleveland Mills Most Active.

Cleveland mills, with a rate of 29 per cent for last week and this, are operating better than any other district. Eastern Pennsylvania, off half a point last week, with no gain scheduled for this week, is the lowest at 12½ per cent.

Youngstown mills gained three points last week to 22 per cent and Buffalo was up four points to 14. Chicago was steady at 18 per cent, Pittsburgh declined one point to 16, and Birmingham four points to 19. For the current week a slight reduction at Buffalo is the only change scheduled. The industry as a whole is operating at 17 per cent.

One large possible order for the industry is the steel outlet pipe for the Hoover dam. The Babcock & Wilcox company, New York, was low on three schedules on which bids were opened June 15 calling for 52,000, 55,000 or 60,000 tons of plates. Federal and state participation in the structural market continues noteworthy. Awards the last week of 12,673 tons were slightly below the average for the year to date.

No Rail Demand.

There is no demand from railroads, farm implement manufacturers, the oil industry and the manufacturing trade.

The week's variations in prices lower the iron and steel composite of steel four cents to $29.52 and the scrap composite thirteen cents to $6.58—due entirely, the magazine says, to the weak situation at Chicago—but leave the finished steel composite steady at $47.62.

129 Unfavorable Dividend Actions Taken Last Week

Unfavorable dividend changes last week rose sharply, totaling 129 compared with 71 in the preceding week, Standard Statistics company reports. There were 11 favorable changes against 8 the week before.

BOND MARKET STEADY; GERMAN ISSUES HIGHER

New York, June 19.—(AP)—Despite considerable irregularity in various groups, the bond market averages closed the last week with a slight net gain over the preceding period.

A number of uncertainties in the economic and political fields tended to hold the market down to a relatively steady gait. Outside of German and United States government issues, which led in volume and firmness, there were no outstanding performers in either the domestic or foreign sections.

Little urgent selling was apparent, although there was no disposition to acquire any heavy additional commitments. Those close to the bankers' bond buying consortium say that this organization, with its $100,000,000 capital, has been unable to acquire any large blocks of loans, because of the extreme thinness of the market. The fact that this corporation is waiting to pick up bargains, however, is having a generally stabilizing effect on prices.

The government list picked up following the announcement that foreign withdrawals of gold from America had practically come to an end, with the United States still leading the world in its holdings of the precious metal. Financiers declared that the gold standard was more secure than ever.

Hope for some constructive outcome of the Lausanne conference brought a demand for German issues. It is felt that the reparations problem may be clarified and the European nations may decide on a closer degree of cooperation.

In the meantime railroad, utility, and industrial bonds as a rule have been marking time.

Both French and British loans eased during the week as the currencies of these countries gave ground to the American dollar.

PORTUGAL ACTS AGAINST FRANCE IN QUOTA ROW

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LISBON, June 19.—In retaliation against the recent French decree raising the duty on all Portuguese imports, the Portuguese customs officials were ordered today to hold all goods coming in from France in the customs warehouses For some time Portugal has been dissatisfied with the workings of the French import quota system. The recent increase of 15 per cent on all Portuguese goods imported into France is believed to mark the beginning of a Franco-Portuguese tariff war.
